SENATOR MITCHELL.

The following interview written out by Senator Mitchell himself, and furnished to the Portland Daily Sun, in which paper it appeared on Tuesday, June 18, 1895.

"Senator do you still adhere to your views on the silver question, as frequently expressed by you in your speeches in the senate and in various journalistic interviews?"

"Most assuredly: So far from having become weakened in the faith, I have, by further careful study and investigation to the question, become more fully convinced than ever that views I have heretofore advocated on the monetary subject are correct, and in line with the best interests of all classes of all the people and the real physical development and business prosperity of the country. I am unalterably opposed to the single gold standard. I, in the language of the last national republican platform, 'demand' the use of both gold and silver as standard money; not gold merely as standard money, and silver as token money or subsidiary coin but both gold and silver as standard money, as stated in the platform. In other words, we must have no limit on one metal either in respect to coinage, the legal tender function or debt-paying power, that is not imposed on the other, nor must any legislative recognition be withheld from one that is accorded the other, and, therefore, as the coinage of gold is free and unlimited, so must be the coinage of silver. As gold is by legislative enactment money of ultimate redemption, so, too, must silver be endowed by law with the like function. The coinage, however, must be a ratio fixed by law—the precise means by which such ratio has always been fixed—not by commerce. But for the fact that it would necessitate the re-coinage of all our silver dollars, I should favor the fixing of the ratio by law at 16 to 1; as it is, however, I am decidedly in favor of maintaining the existing ratio of 16 to 1."

This is a campaign of education, as the republicans tell us. In what are the people to be educated? In the advantages of the tariff and of a gold standard? We suppose this is the line of education. There are but two ways of teaching the ignorant—by studying the opinions of others, and by individual experience. Every day, hour and minute for many long years, the people have been learning by individual experience of the advantages and disadvantages of high tariff and gold standard. If it is true that experience is the best teacher, then it must follow, that the people have had the very best education that can be given to them. What have they learned? They have learned that times have been getting harder, money dearer, the products of their labor cheaper, but little demand for labor, farms mortgaged, homes sold, families in want. They see the gaunt form of poverty, misery and want shadowing the homes of the people, while wealth, happiness and plenty abound in the homes of the few—the poor getting poorer and the rich getting richer. These are the truths that have been chiselled into their memory by the hand of experience. But all of this, the work of years, is now to be undone by the scattering of millions of pamphlets, written by the paid attorneys of trusts and corporations. These high salaried agents of Wall street tell the people of the many advantages that should come from the gold standard, but the experience of years tell the people of the disadvantages that have come from this curse. Your own poverty, and the poverty of your neighbor is a ceaseless but sad reminder that you and your neighbors cannot hope for anything from the two parties advocating the gold standard.

The republicans idea of bimetalism is much like the sinners idea of religion—it is a good thing to have, but not just yet.

The republicans are to be congratulated upon their superb club organization throughout the country, but their energies might be used in a more worthy cause.

Bryan is still traveling around the country, meeting the voters in their own homes. His supporters cant afford to pay their expenses way to Nebraska to shake his hand, and he has no Mark Hanna to round up the boys for him.

The Eastern Oregonian received the following dispatch from Chairman Jones of the National Democratic Convention: The statement that I have given up hope of Bryan's election, which you say is telegraphed to Oregon from Washington, is an absolute falsehood, without a shadow of foundation. I was never as confident of his election as I am today and I have absolutely no doubt of his success.

Every day brings another large excursion party to Canton. Several hundred miles are traveled by many of these excursionists, and the expenses incurred must figure up to quite a sum of money for each man. Who pays these expenses? Can the individuals pay them? Let us think a moment. How many of the average citizens of this county can afford to pay from ten to fifty dollars for a pleasure trip? It is fair to suppose that the people in the east are no better fixed financially than our own people. Then about the same relative number can afford this expense. Look around among our own people. Who of us has so much spare cash? Few indeed. Then, is it possible that our eastern brethren pay their own expenses and furnish the music too. If not, who pays them? May be Mark Hanna can tell, if he would.

The Oregonian publishes the following telegram from Indianapolis which indicates the use of "Hanna's barrel."

"Considerable of a sensation has been created here by the publication of a signed statement from Captain S. M. Shepard, a well-known lawyer, and chairman of the populist county committee, in which he accuses Commissioner W. A. Van Buren of attempting to bribe him in the interest of the republican party. In substance, Captain Shepard charges that he was offered by Van Buren sufficient money to run the populist campaign, and a liberal compensation for himself, if he would use his influence to keep the populists from fusing with the democrats. Mr. Van Buren denies the charges."

If the American people are foolish enough to uphold the gold standard, they should then urge congress to pass a law compelling the farmers to raise no cereal but wheat. Why should not this country be on a "wheat standard" the same as on a gold standard? One is as reasonable as the other.

Mrs. Mary Jane Cox died at the home of her daughter in this city last night Sept. 28, 1896, at the age of 81 years and 11 months. Her husband died in Chicago many years ago. She was a pioneer resident of the county and highly respected by all. Three daughters, Mrs. G. M. Knox, of this city, Mrs. Ed. Knox and Mrs. Rachel Campbell, of Portland, and a son, Henry Cox, of this county survive her.—Democrat.

Why Because

Do people buy Hood's Sarsaparilla in preference to any other,—in fact almost to the exclusion of all others? They know from actual use that Hood's is the best, i. e., it cures when others fail. Hood's Sarsaparilla is still made under the personal supervision of the educated pharmacists who originated it. The question of best is just as positively decided in favor of Hood's as the question of comparative sales. Another thing: Every advertisement of Hood's Sarsaparilla is true, is honest.
