The Portland Welcome, a McKinley paper, says: "Two years ago unemployed men were tramping under the Coxy banner to Washington. Now they are riding free in palace coaches to Canton. The great American political campaign is quite a 'snap' to some people."
A lot of nonsense develops in every campaign, and this has been no exception. It has become a fad to visit the republican nominee, and scarcely a day passes without a delegation making a trip to Canton where they tramp around the front yard, step his pailings for souvenirs, wander about town for an hour or two, and if not too full of booze, get on the train and return home having wasted a day, spent two days' wages and not accomplish a thing but to get a swelled head.—Ex.
The editor of the Truth reports that sixty-four republicans, mostly members of the Lebanon McKinley Club, went from here to Waterloo Tuesday evening in wagons and hacks, to a republican rally at that place. Hon. C. B. Moores, of Salem, and Mr. Thos. Kay made rousing speeches. The boys from this place report having had a fine time and say there was never a more orderly and better behaved crowd in Waterloo. The boys from this place took their torch lights with them and had a torch light procession during the evening.
For the good name of the city, it is to be hoped that our citizens will not so far forget themselves as to use abusive language in discussing the merits of their cause. Every man is entitled to his opinion and to his vote, but no self respecting person will offer a gratuitous insult to his opponent. This is an exciting campaign and each side should show some forbearance. The election will soon be over and we will all be here afterwards. Insulting remarks made now will have their bitter fruit later. Abusive epithets degrade the man who uses them more than him for whom they are meant.

Wrecked at Coos Bay.
MARSHFIELD, Or., Oct. 20.—The steamer Arago went ashore this morning, just north of the Coos bay jetty and near where the whaleback steamer Wetmore was lost. The vessel will be a total loss.
In an attempt to land a boatload of passengers, John Norman, of San Francisco, and two other persons, names unknown, were drowned.
It is also thought that another boatload of people, including Engineer Brown of the steamer, were lost.
LATER.—All that is left of the steamer Arago to be seen is two spars projecting up on the ocean beach. The survivors were brought to Empire City on the tug Columbia. None of the bodies of the lost, which number eight of the crew and four of the passengers, have been recovered. Among the lost so far ascertained are E. M. McGraw, of Coquille City, passenger; John Norman, of Marshfield, passenger; Richard Walters, of Oakland, passenger. Of the ship's crew the missing are: W. M. Whittel, of San Francisco; Fireman Erie Wall, of San Francisco; Fireman Richard Patterson, of San Francisco; Steward F. Fernandez; Chief Engineer W. E. Brown; J. Kruger and Harry Sander, sailors.
A heavy fog prevailed, which is supposed to be the cause of the disaster.
Bad Fire in Woodburn.
WOODBURN, Or., Oct. 19.—One whole business block burned here tonight, and several large buildings were threatened. The fire was confined to the block bounded by Front and First streets and Garfield and Fillmore on the north and south. The block of wooden buildings is totally wiped out.
The fire started by the explosion of benzine in the drug store of L. W. Guiss, in the center of the block. A customer came in for a small bottle of benzine, and in some way the benzine exploded and ran on the floor, at once catching on fire and soon the whole room was in flames. The fire soon communicated to the postoffice adjoining, spreading to F. M. Cammack's hotel, next to A. L. Cornwall's drug store, to W. A. Fashe's furniture store, to Lewis Prevost's grocery, and the hardware store of Lewis Waldmann. The contents of the postoffice were nearly all saved. The hotel is a total loss.
The fire spread slowly owing to the absence of wind. The fire commenced at 8:30 and raged until 10:30 p. m. The city has no fire department and it was hard work to fight the flames. The loss is $26,000.
An Armored Bicycle Tire.
John J. Koetzner, of Washington, D. C., has invented an armored tire. This invention is considered by wheeling experts to be very valuable. Riders have ever since the pneumatic tire came into use been in constant dread of puncture. Hundreds of tires have been patented which claimed great merits. Most of them sought to escape puncture by a narrow tread of thick rubber, but this latest one is built on a novel theory. It is protected by armor.
The tire consists of an annular under cut groove formed on the outer periphery of the rubber tire, and combined with a filling of emery or other resistant material. The chief resistant material is steel in thin plates, which will be used instead of emery. The plates are about an inch wide and of short length. Their edges are rounded, so as not to cut the rubber. The plates readily conform to the contour of the wheel and do not make the periphery present a series of flat surfaces.—National Recorder.

Of all the arts there are none that produce more satisfaction and pleasure than to be able to produce upon canvas the effects of beauty and grandeur as seen in nature. The people of Lebanon are now offered an opportunity of securing the condensed teachings of Paris and New York masters of art. J. FREDERICK ALTERMATT.
The Washburn Mandolin and Guitar Club, of Albany, consisting of Messrs C. L. Powers, D. H. Gottlieb, H. A. Leninger, I. R. Borum, C. H. Alexander and Misses Lillian Brenner and Lottie Sternberg, gave an entertainment at the opera house in this city, last Friday evening to a fair-sized crowd. The club furnished some excellent music. Mr. C. L. Powers played several pieces on the banjo which was fine. Prof. Alexander favored the audience with some excellent guitar music; and Miss Lillian Crawford recited two selections which were met with much applause. We are sorry that they were not greeted by a larger audience, but if they should return to our city again in the future, we think they will be favored by a much larger crowd, as everyone that heard them were well pleased.

TILLMAN IN ALBANY.
Monster Parade, Unbounded Enthusiasm, Fine Speech—Old Soldiers in Line.
The largest crowd ever in Albany came to hear Senator Tillman on last Saturday. Every incoming train brought Bryan supporters and some McKinley men. The roads leading to Albany were dusty with the tramp of hundreds of teams. The other towns were deserted. Everybody that could go, was at Albany. The city, its streets, side-walks and court green were thronged as never before in its history. The hotels and restaurants turned away many hundreds. The stables could not begin to accommodate the teams. Albany was invaded and captured by the Bryan hosts. The great day of her history had dawned and the name of "Bryan" was read till far into the night.
After laborious work by the mounted marshals of the day, the long line of march was formed, and passed amid long and continued cheers through the principal streets of the city. Various estimates were made as to the number of voters in line. There must have been not less than 1000 Bryan men in the procession, and for every one in line there were two at least on the side-walks. White badges were prominent on every turn. The great procession finally reached the court house green where seats had been provided. The entire space was densely packed and the streets were blocked. Many thousands of men and women were gathered to hear Tillman, the most abused man in the nation. He would attract attention in any crowd. His face is a study. He is not handsome, nor is he eloquent, but there is something about the man that makes him as a man among men, fearless, powerful, brainy. His address was not a studied line of argument. He took up different political questions, and with peculiar and convincing force refuted the argument of the gold standard, made many a telling point for free silver. He was bitter against the gold wing of the democratic party and did not spare the republican gold bug platform. His speech made stronger the faith of the silver men and gave McKinley supporters many a hard nut to crack. Tillman proved to his hearers that his earnest wishes and endeavors were for the good of the common people, and that he had just cause for his hatred of trusts and monopolies. His presence here has done much good for Bryan's cause.
At night the opera house was crowded to the doors to hear Col. Drake, a free silver republican. The court house was well filled to hear other speakers and a large crowd was addressed from the St. Charles hotel porch.
A monster torch light procession was had, in which many old republicans carried torches. Bryan cheers were heard till late in the night and Bryan's stock has taken a decided upward tendency.
Flag Day.
National Chairman Jones has appointed Saturday, Oct. 31, as flag day for the followers of Bryan, the same day set by Mr. Hanna for the followers of McKinley. McKinley wants the flag unfurled for all believing in sound money. Mr. Bryan says: "We who believe in the money of the constitution are for sounder money than those who want our money into pounds, shillings and pence. We who believe in a basis for our financial transactions sufficiently broad for those transactions to rest upon, believe in a sounder financial system than those who advocate the gold standard, and a financial system based upon gold alone when you cannot get gold to furnish your foundation."
Mr. Jones says: "The American flag has always been the emblem of national honor, and it will always remain so. It is too sacred to be prostituted to partisan purposes, as has been attempted for the first time in this campaign. Its influence has always been for the good of mankind. Its display is always potent for the advancement of all that is best in our government, for it appeals to every sentiment of patriotism and national pride."
"I therefore suggest that on Saturday, Oct. 31, all those who desire to preserve the country's honor and independence, as it came to us from the fathers, who believe in the rights of every man, rich or poor, to cast a free and untrammeled ballot, who oppose government by corporations and the coercion of voters, and desire that real and genuine prosperity may once again return to bless our people, display the national colors at their homes, their places of business and where ever else they may be seen, in order that voters whose hearts are for their country may be cheered and their purposes strengthened and that those who are wavering may take courage of their patriotism to perform their duties as citizens, to the end that government by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

Fall Season, 1896.

Some people wonder how we can sell such good merchandise for such little prices. Others wonder why we do so. The how and the why matter little, so the fact remains. We'll say this, however, this business has grown to its present proportions by doing just one thing,—selling good articles at low prices. We are still doing this. If you are not now our customer come and see us and be convinced.

Ex-Governor Pennoyer and other prominent speakers will address the citizens of Lebanon next Saturday, Oct. 24, at 1:30 p. m. Let everybody come. Pennoyer is the most interesting man in Oregon today, and he will make an address well worthy to hear. Mr. Colvig, Past Grand Master of the A. O. U. W., Geo. E. Chamberlain, ex-attorney general, and Judge Burnett will make addresses. All these men are forcible speakers. Speaking at night also. This will be Lebanon's day.

Wanted.—All girls to know that "Hoe Cake" will not make their hands red like common soap. Save the wrappers. They are worth a cent apiece.

Mr. J. Frederick Altermatt has opened an art studio in the center room of the bank building where he will give instructions in art painting. He has some very fine paintings which he invites the public to call and inspect. Mr. Altermatt is a fine instructor and offers to give lessons very reasonable.

J. C. Bilyeu and W. J. Guy made a peculiar election bet a few days ago. The bet is as follows: If McKinley is elected Mr. Bilyeu is to black up as a negro and hitch the best team in his stable to their new carriage and drive around over town for an hour, driving wherever Mr. Guy wishes to go; but if Bryan is elected then Mr. Guy is to black up and drive the carriage, while Mr. Bilyeu acts as the gentleman and will be taken wherever he wants to go. Besides Mr. Guy is to pay for the carriage in case of Bryan's election. There was nothing said about a band accompanying the carriage, but in case Mr. Guy wins it is safe to add he will have his band out with him.
