A number of hogs were sold last week in Milton, for 21 cents per pound.

One of the finest trainloads of lambs ever shipped from Oregon, comprising 4000 head, left The Dalles last week for Kansas City.

The grand jury for the November term in Wasco county has been drawn. Circuit court will begin in The Dalles, November 9.

Plenty of trout can be caught on Coos river, by using salmon eggs for bait, but fly fishing in that river is over for the season.

The young women of Woodburn worked hard during the recent fire in carrying out furniture and other stock from several of the store buildings.

S. Whitney and Garfield Sutton, two Albany boys, have shipped into the naval service, and are off on a three years' cruise on a man-of-war, out of San Francisco.

The item copied from the Ashland Tidings, into the Oregonian, to the effect that Charles Nickell, of Jacksonville, had made an assignment, contained error. Mr. Nickell has made no assignment.

Just what a "golly whopper" is explained in the Heppner Gazette. It is a pumpkin weighing 121 pounds, that was raised on William Ayers' place, on Butter creek.

Gus Gaspari, of Haystack, who was recently bound over to the grand jury on a charge of horse-stealing, was fully exonerated by the grand jury of Grant county last week.

Mr. Austin, of Milton, was thrown from his wagon, near that town, last week, and his leg broken by two of the wheels of his wagon passing over the leg, above the knee.

John Daws, who lives near Silverton, recently dug 728 bushels of potatoes from three acres of land. This is an average of 243 bushels to the acre. Mr. Daws has 10 acres more in potatoes that he is now digging.

A. Anderson, of Forest Grove, found the other day a curious bunch of grapes on one of his vines, part of the White Sweet Waters, and the rest of red variety. The grapes were mature, of full size and good flavor.

Foss, Guthrie & Co. shipped from Baker City Wednesday of last week, a trainload of 400 cattle. Nearly all of the cattle were bought from Powder Valley stockgrowers. The prices were: Cows, $16; twos, $18; threes, $23 and $24.

As one of the signs of better times, a Baker City paper says that within the last two weeks there has been an inflow of gamblers to that city from all parts of the Northwest, and that many games of chance are in full blast, and are well patronized.

Monday was a grand day for the Salvation Army people of The Dalles. On that date they received Commissioner Higgins, who is one among the leading Salvationists of the country. Commissioner Higgins is 59 years of age, and has been a member of the army for 18 years.

Wednesday night of last week Rose Wellington, a keeper of a house of ill-fame in The Dalles, attempted to end her life with a pistol. She shot herself just below the heart, inflicting a wound from which she is likely to die. The unfortunate woman's mother was summoned by telegraph, and arrived in The Dalles Thursday.

T. H. Rogers, county recorder of Yamhill county, was hunting pheasants near Nashville, Lincoln county, recently, when his gun burst and the whole breech of the gun flew in his face, breaking his nose and injuring his right eye. J. R. Hessler was with him. As the gun went off Rogers' horse jumped and kicked Hessler in the back a hard blow.

The Dalles Itimizer says that Cryder & Co., have, within a week, purchased these hops: A. W. McNary, 143 bales, at 75 cents; J. J. Daley, 72, and E. C. Kirkpatrick, 47 bales, at 8 cents; M. Guy, 43 bales, at 81 cents, and George Cutler, 87 bales, at 85 cents. The only unsold hops in this vicinity are about 80 bales, each belonging to John Groves and Henry Claugfield.

Last week, while Charles Albrecht was occupied in the rear part of his saloon, in Corvallis, some person entered the building and went behind the counter and took $40 in cash and a box of Havanas. Mr. Albrecht entered the room just in time to see the thief go out, and describes the guilty person as being tall and slim, to judge from a rear view.

A hobo that Judge Chiles' family treated to a meal last week took advantage of his benefactors by stealing a 6-h line and rod worth $2.50, and selling it to another person for 50 cents. He was overhauled and sentenced to five days' bread and water and no work, or three square meals a day and street labor. He chose the square meals, but his system was so full of morphine that his work was nil.

Several houses in Albany have been burglarized lately. C. L. Marshall was one of the victims. A burglar entered an open window, helped himself to Mr. Marshall's trousers, took about $15 from the pockets and left the trousers on the front porch. A gold watch was left undisturbed. A burglar entered Dr. Maston's residence and stole some eatables, but nothing else. H. L. Waldon is out a pocket-book containing about $60, which was probably stolen.

Clarence Crow, of Albany, has had more broken arms than any boy in Albany. A few years ago he broke his right arm in Portland. Several months ago, while going home at night he broke his left arm by tumbling from his bicycle. Wednesday night, about 9:30, he was passing the central school building when he did nothing but run into a fence, and when he pulled himself together, after the collision, he found that his right arm was broken—break No. 3. He is now satisfied with bicycle arm-breaks. Three times and out. He has now had the same experience as the man about town when a boy.

The commissioners, recently appointed by the president, are now at work making a settlement of the disputed boundary line of the Klamath Indian reservation. The question has been in dispute many years. The original survey and the latter one observed by the settlers leaves a discrepancy of 50,000 acres in the reservation which the Indians claim. It seems that the young Klamathes who went to school and received liberal educations have studied the question with a view of recovering the lands of their forefathers from the paleface settlers. They interested Senator Mitchell, of Oregon, in the matter, and the last congress made an appropriation of $10,000 and appointed a commissioner to settle the boundary question.

A Clubbing Offer.

A great many of our readers in Lin. county like to take the Weekly Oregonian. We have made arrangements whereby we can furnish it at a reduction from the regular price to those who want both the EXPRESS and the Oregonian. The regular price of the Oregonian is $1.50 per year, and of the EXPRESS $1.50 in advance. We will furnish both for $2. per year in advance, a saving of one dollar to the subscriber. The Oregonian gives all the general news of the country once a week, and the EXPRESS gives all the local news once a week, which will make a most excellent news service for the moderate sum of $2. per year. Those who are at present subscribers of the EXPRESS must pay in all arrears and one year in advance to obtain his special price.

The Herald in a Bad Light.

Mr. Peter Dewall, a German farmer, living on the Santiam, was in Albany yesterday. The popercats were after him with alluring promises to vote for Bryan. After listening to their blandishments, he said: "I owe H. Bryant $500 yet on the land I bought of him. If he will agree in writing to accept that amount in silver, in the event of Bryan's election, I will vote for him." Mr. Bryant, of course, was too good a business man to offer to take cheap silver dollars in payment of his note and mortgage, which calls for good gold coin, and said he could not do that. Mr. Dewall said if the Bryan men were afraid to take their own medicine, which they say is good, he did not want any of it, saying that if Bryan men are not willing to take free coinage silver dollars they cannot have the confidence in their value they profess, and he thought good sense suggested that he continue to support McKinley.—Herald.

The following letters, in answer to the above article, were published in later issues of the Herald:

EDITOR HERALD: In your morning's issue of the 22d, you refer to some business between myself and one Peter Dewall in which you say, "Mr. Bryant was, of course, too good a business man to offer to take cheap silver dollars in payment of his note and mortgage, which calls for good gold coin and said he could not do that." Now I desire to say that the above statement is absolutely false and I never refused to take silver, and more than that I now say that if Mr. Dewall wants to pay his note in silver or any other legal tender money of the United States in case of Bryan's election, he can do so. H. BRYANT.

ALBANY, OREGON.

To THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:

I see in your issue of the 22nd inst. that you say H. Bryant refused to take silver on what I am owing him, in case of Bryan's election. Now you have just got the matter turned around. Hub told me, without me asking him, that in case of the election of Bryan and in case free coinage of silver was put into the United States, that he would take what I owed him in silver, or any other legal tender money made by the United States, as he claimed that all the full legal tender money made by the United States had always been at par. Will you please publish this? In case you won't publish it, I desire it put into the Democrat.

Oct. 23rd, at my home in Dutch town. PETER DEWALL.

Was Astonished.

The Corvallis Times tells the following: An event transpired in this city a few days ago that was very amusing and is worthy of space. A fellow arrived in this city recently and proceeded to "gin up." This eventually landed him beyond the "cooler" bars. While there a very respectable old gentleman chanced by his place of abode and there ensued a political discussion. The old gentleman was a rousing Bryan man, while the man in the "jug" was a McKinley disciple. As the argument progressed it grew more heated and the man on the outside offered to bet $100 on Bryan's election, and to his great surprise, the thought-to-be hobo pulled out a weasel skin and counted out the money, adding that he was prepared to bet more if he suited the man outside. The old gentleman was so surprised at the turn affairs had taken that the bet was not consummated.

The Kneipp cure is all the rage in New York now, and many people, including dames of high degree, may be seen at an early hour trotting bare-footed in the wet grass of Central Park. A distinguished actress who was an early convert, declares that it has cured her entirely of rheumatism, and she is enthusiastically recommending the soulless remedy to friends who suffer in a like manner.

On the Road to Arizona.

ASHLAND, Or., Oct. 22, 1896.
EDITOR EXPRESS:

I will drop you a line according to promise, about our trip to Arizona. Have not "busted" yet, but think we soon will be. We landed in Ashland to-day, all right side up with care. A very pleasant trip, all well and all enjoying the trip well. We have had very fine weather—only one day's rain. Have taken our time and taken in everything that is to be taken in and some things that were not very easy taken.

Some of the route was through a very fine country. The Rogue River valley is the best part of Oregon I have seen as yet, and I have been about over it all. They have very fine crops of most everything this season; fine corn as I ever saw in the eastern states. The fruit beats the world. Medford is the center of the fruit growing country, and the prettiest and most business-like town we have struck, and Grants Pass the toughest. We all lost our beards and mustaches there,—will send you a photo, in a short time, of the most awkward squad you ever saw.

There is not much, as yet, to write about. Each one is enjoying himself so far. We have our by-laws and every man has to come to the scratch. Shultz and Parker, horse managers; Hiatt and Davis, cooks; Master Tony, water and wood getter; Bummer clears the road and keeps camp. Card playing is about all the amusement we have as we go along, as the roads are too rough for any kind of amusement. Parker is champion card player, and Master John champion foot-racer.

The roads have been very heavy and hilly, but our stock looks well. Tomorrow we will strike the Siskiyou.

We are living very high if it is hard times—on bacon and maul straight.

Politics are pretty hot—one knock-down here last night over it. Our crowd keeps very quiet.

More the next time. R. HIATT.
