H. Y. KIRKPATRICK,
Editor - and - Proprietor

St. Patrick's day this year was also Fitzsimmons' day.

Every dog has his day, and every prizefighter has his day—yesterday was Fitzsimmons' day.

The Messenger, Cottage Grove's new paper, with Horace Mann as editor, has appeared. It is well gotten up.

An Ohio paper says F. L. Bowman, editor of a country paper in that state, will be appointed public printer by President McKinley. His wife is a sister to the President.

Oregon taxpayers are supporting 50 pupils in the school for the deaf, 25 pupils in the school for the blind, 1,111 patients in the state insane asylum, 131 boys in the state reform school, 354 convicts in the state prison; total, 1,669. All are at Salem.

Over the door of a Missouri church is an inscription which reads: "This is the gate of heaven." Just below it is another which says: "Closed by the American Loan Company." This should be a warning to church organizations against running in debt.

The greatest man in the world, says an exchange, is the plain, plug man who pays his debts, supports his family fairly well and never does anything remarkable. These remarkable men who are thoroughbreds for a time and rob all their friends, are to be avoided.

The Corvallis Gazette is mad. It says: The seating of Corbett, through some unhappy mischance, would be a public calamity. Corbett was at the bottom of the anarchy at Salem. It was his money that held the populists and a few republicans from organizing, even when Mitchell's defeat was evident, and this everyone knows.

Already the record of the members of President McKinley's cabinet is being shown up. The very serious charge is made against Secretary of the Navy, John D. Long, that he writes poetry.—Albany Democrat.

If the poetry that Secretary Long has written was of no higher grade than the alleged poetry that is sometimes sent to country newspapers, for publication, the charge is indeed serious.

There is not a single democrat in the country to lament the retirement to private life of President Cleveland. No man has ever gone out of that high office so completely ignored and disowned by the party which elected him, not excepting President Hayes. Many feel a degree of charity for him, but none pardon his treachery to the party which had honored him and which he in return betrayed and disrupted.—Portland Dispatch.

Last Saturday Judge Hughes, of Sacramento, decided that the state senate had the power to imprison for contempt, and A. M. Lawrence, managing editor of the Examiner, and L. L. Levings were locked up in jail. A few hours later they were released on an order of the supreme court admitting them to bail. The newspaper men charged legislators with accepting bribes, and then refused to tell the senate investigating committee where they secured their information.

The San Francisco Bulletin says that William Henry Theodore Durrant, murderer, not departing from that superb assurance which has characterized his demeanor ever since he was convicted in court of the most fiendish murder in modern times, apprised by the court of last resort that he must hang, talks coolly of the next step to be taken in his case. The next step, it would seem to an impartial observer, should be to step upon air—and should be speedily taken.

AN ANCIENT LAWSUIT.

Just before Richmond was evacuated by the Confederate government, the authorities ordered that all the liquors in the city be poured into the streets, for fear that the soldiers on either side might become drunk and great distress might follow. The barrels were knocked in and the streets flowed with old Bourbon whiskey. A suit was afterwards brought against the state for this destruction of private property, and has recently been decided in favor of the state, showing that the state had a right to thus protect its inhabitants.

Some of our exchanges favor an extra session of the legislature. It cannot be denied but what the necessity for some legislation is great, but what assurance have the people that the farce that has been played at Salem would not be re-enacted and continued through another period of 20 days? The same members who constituted the last legislature would be in the next, and it is our opinion that harmony of action would be as impossible at an extra session as it was during the last two months.—Portland Dispatch.

Treatment of the Feet.

A writer in Boots and Shoes has been interviewing a chiropodist on the care of the feet and has got this information from him concerning the treatment for heated, tired feet after walking or standing.

He says, truly enough, that authorities differ as to the value of the various foot baths. "Hot water enlarges the feet by drawing the blood to them. When used, they should be rubbed or exercised before attempting to put on a tight boot. Mustard and hot water in a foot bath will cure a nervous headache and induce sleep. Bunions and corns and callousness are nature's protestations against bad shoe leather. Two hot foot baths a week and a little pedicuring will remove the cause of much discomfort.

"A warm bath, with an ounce of sea salt, is almost as restful as a nap. Paddle in the water until it cools, dry with a rough towel, put on fresh stockings, make a change of shoes, and the person who was ready to drop will then be ready to stand up. But the quickest relief from fatigue is to plunge the feet in ice cold water and keep it immersed until there is a sensation of warmth. Another tonic for the sole is alcohol. It dries the feet nicely after being out in the wet. Spirit baths are used by professional dancers, acrobats and pedestrians to keep the feet in condition."

"The ice cold foot bath seems rather a dangerous remedy to persons unaccustomed to it, and the caution is suggested to experiment with it in very mild weather."

A Practical Woman.

Mrs. W. G. Harris, president of the Ladies' Benevolent society of the First Baptist church of Boston and an active worker in the Ladies' Needlework guild, has started a new scheme for collecting funds for the poor. She has put up dainty mite boxes in the corridors of the Parker House and the Tremont House, with cards attached asking for contributions to be used only in cases which she has personally investigated and found deserving. She has visited and relieved about 60 persons during three weeks.—Boston Commonwealth.

Pompeian Business Notes.

A number of business announcements are to be found at Pompeii, that brisk little city to whose daily life the energy of Vesuvius has lent a kind of immortality. Here we get a large number of miscellaneous inscriptions dealing with matters of daily life, announcements of forthcoming gladiatorial games, edicts of magistrates, wine sellers' attempts to captivate customers, rewards for lost or stolen property, houses for sale or to be let and other things of that sort.

We learn from one announcement that a glass of wine could be got for 1 as—about 3 farthings—while for 4 asses one could drink real Falernian. Another inscription informs us that a denarius—about 7 1/2 pence—was paid for washing a tonic, and the date, the 18th of April, is carefully recorded by the writer. Whether she was the landress or the owner of the tonic must be left undecided, but it seems at least that she was in the habit of marking up her washing account on the walls of her home.

There are several such inscriptions on the same wall of this particular home, all dated—the 20th of April, a tonic and pailium; on the 7th of May, an article which need not be particularized, while on the day following two tunics are scored.—Macmillan's Magazine.

Dishes and Platters of Gold.

Queen Victoria's wonderful set of table furniture is kept in two fireproof chambers and is said to represent a cash value of £20,000,000. Among it is the golden table service made for George VI, calculated for 120 guests and containing the famous crystal champagne cooler which is large enough for a bathtub. There are many pieces in it that formerly belonged to Queen Elizabeth, besides splendid solid gold vessels from India, Siam and China. The pride of the collection is a teacup once owned by Charles XII and a gold peacock made for George III at a cost of £40,000.—St. Louis Republic.

A Difficult Feat.

A member of a Houston volunteer fire company did not appear at the scene of the conflagration until after the fire was under control. The chief of the fire department reproached him bitterly for his neglect of duty.

"It's not my fault," replied the fireman. "I live quite a distance from the fire."

"That's no excuse. You must move nearer to the next fire."—Texas Sittings.

Very Delicate.

"So you proposed to Miss Jinglebink?"

"Yes."

"And she refused you?"

"Yes."

"Perhaps it was a hasty answer?"

"No. She took care that it shouldn't be. She sent it by a messenger boy."—Washington Star.

It is seldom that wood which has grown more than 4,000 years before the Christian era is used in the construction of a present day residence, and yet this really happened recently in Edinburgh, where a mantelpiece was fashioned from wood said to be 6,000 years old.

The old fashion of using the candied petals of the orange blossom in tea seems to be almost forgotten. If a few of the candied petals be put into the tea before it is steeped, they give it a flavor noticeably peculiar, but ever reticent very fine.

Tommy heard his mother call an insect that was flying around them the darning needle. The next day he said, "Mamma, were those funny things we saw yesterday safety pins?"

The title mayor comes from the French and originally signified "one who keeps guard." He was the head steward of a city, administering its affairs in the name of the king.

Circuit Court.

The work in Department No. 1 was completed last Thursday, and the court adjourned.

The following cases were disposed of: State vs. Ellis E. Aders for assault with a dangerous weapon, said weapon being a stone used upon E. Farrer, at the residence of the latter, while an evening party was in progress. The defendant claimed he acted in self defense. The case was tried before the following jury: Thos. Turner, J. Y. McCune, G. W. Arnold, Jos. Simpson, C. C. Kendig, J. M. Barton, C. H. Cable, P. W. Spink, J. J. Munken, C. C. Carter, J. W. Roberts, S. Pritchard. The verdict of the jury was "Not guilty."

In the case of John Morgan, for carrying concealed weapons, he was fined $75 and paid his fine.

The grand jury adjourned Wednesday evening.
