Last Saturday a car load of flax seed, for seeding purposes, was received in this city from Portland. This seed has been distributed among farmers, who have contracted to grow flax the present season. The price guaranteed to be paid at Portland for the seed, is the price quoted in Chicago at the time.—Scio Press.
The Intercollegiate Oratorical Association of Oregon has been solicited by the association of Washington to enter into an interstate oratorical association, in order that winners in the state contests may compete for higher honors. The Willamette association in reply to an inquiry from the president of the Oregon association, A. W. Wight, of Albany, has signified its approval of the proposed plan.—Herald.
H. E. Smith, the rustling agent of the Washington Co-operative life insurance association, has been working for his association at Waterloo and Sodaville for the past three weeks. He returned to Lebanon Tuesday, and left for Stayton this morning. The above mentioned association is evidently becoming very popular, as Mr. Smith has had much better success in this section than any other life insurance agent.
Prof. J. Whitehorn, teacher of physical training, was in Lebanon Friday for the purpose of making arrangements for the organization of a class in this city. He now has a large class in Albany. The professor is highly recommended by his students in all his former classes. The teachers in the Corvallis public school have recently completed a course of physical training under Prof. Whitehorn's instruction, and they recommend him as a thoroughly competent teacher of physical culture.
Seventeen members of the L. O. T. M. of this city went to Albany last Monday, for the purpose of attending the lecture by Mrs. Lillian Hollister, of Detroit, Mich. Mrs. Hollister is Supreme Commander of the Ladies of the Maccabees of the World, and is on this coast for the purpose of reviewing the work and advancing the interest of the order. To the evening a public reception was given in the opera house, which was followed by an instructive address by Mrs. Hollister. A banquet was given in the W. C. T. U. hall. A great many Hives from this and neighboring towns were present, but Lebanon Hive had a larger representation than any other Hive outside of Albany. The Lebanon crowd report an enjoyable time, and say they were treated royally.
Dr. Henderson's Death.
Dr. W. V. Henderson died at the Henderson home at Eight and Pearl streets, in Eugene, at 7:30 p. m. Friday, March 19, 1897, after an illness of only two weeks' duration. The direct cause of death was blood poisoning, which resulted from a peculiar and undeclassifiable disease which originated in his right leg. The poison was carried all through the system and death followed very quickly. Deceased was aged 39 years, 10 months and 29 days, having been born on College Hill, a suburb to this city, April 20, 1857. Deceased was an enthusiastic lodge man. He was a member of four different orders, namely, A. F. & A. M.; Helmet Lodge, No. 23, Knights of Pythias; Eugene Camp, No. 115, Woodmen of the World, and the recently organized lodge of Elks.—Guard.
Dr. Henderson was a son-in-law of R. C. Miller, of this city, and was well known in this vicinity.
Use Hoe Cake soap.
Call and see Miller's new stock.
M. A. Miller has a full and complete line of cough syrups.
Save your Hoe Cake soap wrappers, they are worth a cent apiece.
Hoe Cake soap contains no free alkali, and will not burn the hands.
Late styles, up to date, guitars; fine tone, for $4.50, at E. U. Will's music store.
Patronize home industry, by buying your clothing from the Waterloo Woolen Mills. It will be doubly to your advantage—it will keep the money at home, and will save you money as the prices are very low.

The Albany School Teacher Acquitted.
The case of the state against Emma Barden, the school teacher, charged with assault upon a pupil, Neva Lookingbill, was terminated awhile before 10 o'clock Saturday night. The closing arguments were made by Judge Whitney and Hon. J. M. Somers for the prosecution and L. M. Curl and Percy Kelley for the defendant. The justice charged the jury giving them a wide latitude in reference to law and fact. The jury was gone from the box just seven minutes, rendering a verdict of not guilty. It was received with a loud cheer, showing the sympathy of the large audience to be with the defendant, and many flocked around her with congratulations. Thus ended the only school teacher whipping trial in Albany for at least sixteen years, if not in its history. It certainly is to be hoped it is the last.—Albany Democrat.
Although the Democrat says the verdict "was received with a loud cheer, showing the sympathy of the large audience to be with the defendant," we believe the general sentiment to be against severe corporal punishment. The famous verdict, once given by a jury, "not guilty, but don't do it again," would probably best express the general sentiment in regard to the Albany case.
There Was Gaiety Galore.
The social given by the Ladies of the Maccabees last Friday evening was the successful affair that they had anticipated. A large crowd was present and they enjoyed themselves hugely. The neat little sum of $27.65 was realized, and therefore there is "no kick coming" at the financial part of the social. There were 65 maskers, among whom were the following:
Mrs. L. M. Hardman, Frost; Merton Hughes, Buffalo Bill; Pet. Smith, Little Eva; Cora Cox, Precilla Mae Mullit, Morning; Clifford Mackey, Little Boy Blue; Miss E. Wallace, Fairy; Mrs. J. J. O'Neill, Domino; Bessie Plaster and Carrie Miller, School Girls; Leslie Peterson, Excelsior; Myrtle Hallon, Flower Girl; North Hogan, Gipsy Poddler; Lottie Miller, Chrysanthemum Girl; Edith Arnett, Frost; Evelyn Arnett, School Girl; Pay Donata, Negro; Leona Evans, Lebanon Excelsior Mills; Chas. C. Ames, Soldier; Lizzie Dood, Spanish Girl; Lulu Koss, Night; Emma Bolter, violet; Wana Miller, Free Silver; Mrs. N. Gore, School Girl; Mayzel Gore, School Girl; Mrs. F. M. Thompson, Dining Room Girl; Mrs. C. C. Ames, Sleigh Belle; E. A. Davenport, Uncle Sam; George Elkins, Lebanon Paper Mills; Marie Sheridan, Gipsy Queen; Mrs. W. E. Chandler, Peasant Girl; W. E. Chandler, Washwoman; W. H. Worrell, Country Dude; Ed Kellenberger, Prosperity; Mrs. May Morgan and Bessie and Kitty Miller, Saus.

Notice.
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
We, the undersigned citizens of Brownsville and vicinity, have known J. J. Sawyer, formerly of this place but now of Lebanon, for several years and have always known him to be an upright and honorable man. The reason of this notice is that it has come to our ears of vile and slanderous talk being used against him, and we wish the people of Lebanon to know his standing while living here.
