THE CREAMERY OPENS AT LEXINGTON.

The middle of September the Creamery will be reopened at Lexington and an experienced butter maker in charge. If it can be made at all a success it will remain open.

Mr. R. B. Wilcox is trying to have the thing a success and if all the farmers hereabout will ship their cream there they will help to make it successful and at the same time provide a way to dispose of their surplus milk and obtain good fresh butter. This is one of the first steps to bringing this section into the condition it warrants and only by all the people on this branch pulling evenly and strong will we build up the country. Remember that a success in Lexington of any business means success to Ione and Heppner and success in either of those places means better times in Lexington.

THE COUNTY FAIR.

In another place in this paper will be seen the advertisement of the County Fair at Pendleton, and it is the duty of all to take an interest in this fair. It is really too bad for Ione to have no exhibit whatever and it would be sadder still if none went from here to the fair. So begin to think and plan toward going over.

A FINE NEW BUNGALOW.

Mr. Swaggart who has purchased the Jordan place, at the siding three miles from Ione, has had the house taken down, removing one of the old landmarks of this section. The lumber will be utilized in building a large bunk house for laborers while in the place it stood will be erected a new modern bungalow of ten rooms. Chas. Allinger of Ione is Architect and Builder and the work could not be in better hands.

WHY HE WAS NOT J. B. JONES.

The capture of the negro, Richard Gibson, at a place near Moscow Idaho, on the eighth of August, has been the cause of the young man named J. B. Jones, who has been hereabout for some months, to be able to tell his friends that his proper name is Field O. Webster. It appears that the negro killed an uncle of Webster's some two years ago and as Webster knew the man he came west resolved that he would follow the track of him as directed this way, until he had run him down. Some time ago the negro was at Heppner or rather some place near there and Webster came to Ione and took the name of Jones for fear his right name might frighten the man away before he was captured. Henry Johnson and Bob Ingram were employed to aid Webster.

The negro worked around Pendleton and other places and finally drifted away. The men tracked him to Idaho where he was captured and the two last named men returned east with him. Webster then came to Ione to see his many friends here and then went home to see the many loved ones he has not seen for so long. His route will take in California, Mexico,

Galveston and other southern points before he reaches Kentucky.

A BIRTHDAY PARTY.

George Peck who attained his sixteenth birthday on the twelfth of August, was surprised by his mother, Mrs. T. L. Dorman, at their home on Rhea creek, with an invited party consisting of the young people of the Mason, Buschke, Rhea and Gist families. Ice cream and cake was served under the trees and games of all kind played until midnight when all departed hoping George would live to be one hundred years old and have many more such gatherings.

A RUN-A-WAY.

Nettie Mason started home the other night from town and near the Jordan crossing her horse became frightened and threw her on to the shafts. She clung to the reins and notwithstanding the horse was running and kicking, she at last climbed to the seat. When she got to Volney Ray's she screamed and they saw her pass like a streak and they telephoned the Mason ranch and Herald started on horseback to meet her. Before he reached her she had controlled the horse but was very glad to meet him.

Miss Mason's body was covered with black and blue spots from the bruises but as she had no broken limbs she considers herself lucky.
