THE DEMONSTRATION TRAIN.

On last Tuesday morning Ione was visited by The Demonstration Train that is run in the interest of Dry Farming by the courtesy of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company, the instruction being given by the able Faculty of the Agricultural School of Corvallis and the representatives of the Government Experimental Station of the same place.

Notwithstanding the early hour set, nine o'clock in the forenoon, there were many farmers present with their families, some having driven as much as eighteen miles after doing the morning work. The attention throughout by all showed the interest these men and women have in the land they call home.

Mr Morse, who was in charge of the train, gave ample proof of his executive powers and there was not one hitch during the entire visit. The first speaker, Mr Lively, a representative from the large and up-to-date packing house, that has just been built and equipped at such an enormous expense near Portland, assured the farmers that if after listening to the speaker who followed, they became convinced of the importance of raising cattle and hogs, that they would find a ready and steady market with his company, and also told them that it was a shame to have to import into this state and carry directly past their door, live stock from other states that are not so well fixed as the farmers of this country to produce such.

Professor Scudder of the Agricultural school followed with an able and masterly discourse, showing intimate knowledge of his subject matter. He urged the importance of fall plowing, leaving the ground rough to receive the winter moisture, so allowing it to sink into the ground and not lie exposed upon a hard baked ground and suffered to evaporate. The sowing of early crops of peas and hardy grasses was demonstrated as of especial worth to the farmer as they were represented as using a moisture that is otherwise lost, furnishing rough feed for hogs and cattle and keeping the submoisture protected and ready for future use. The constant and continuous harrowing was given as a root stimulator and packing of the ground by corrugated roller was also urged. The tilling of smaller acreage by each man and intensified farming was put forth in convincing ways and the bringing in of more people and so causing those here to be better satisfied to build up the value of their soil, so passing it on to sons and daughters as a valuable heritage was also spoken of in a convincing manner. In fact the whole lecture was so replete with good things that the man or woman of these parts who did not hear it is a loser in more than they can know.

Other speakers followed for shorter talks and we wish it were possible to give every word that was spoken by every person; however we can assure the Railroad company as well as the men from the colleges of farming research that their efforts to aid has not been unappreciated and the good that future years will show will be a direct result of such efforts on their part.

THE GYMNASIUM AGAIN.

THE PROCLAIMER people were fortunate enough to claim for lunch guests on last Tuesday, six members of the Demonstration train, namely Mr Morse, General Manager of the Expedition, Mr Pasley, North-west Editor of the Oregon Journal, Mr Calvert Representative of the Oregonian, Mr Bates, of the Pacific North-west, Mr Lively, of the Packing house of Portland and the Editor of the Rural Spirit. While at the table the story of the efforts of the boys to start a gymnasium was spoken of and Mr Morse immediately stated that he believed in "Conservation of young manhood" as well as in that of soil moisture and that he would like to offer a dollar toward the enterprise. Every man at the table followed with like assurance and the boys received a little fund of seven dollars toward the starting of a reading room and gymnasium, which sum is now in the hands of Professor Kaufman and will be augmented by more sums owing to the efforts of our town people backed up by the enthusiasm of the student body and their teachers.

The question of building men and women is such a great one, the result going on for all eternity, that these fine boys and girls of ours must have better privileges else our progressive parents in this Ione section will be going away to other parts to take the youth to these things. But they will come. Better and larger opportunities are at hand and we must and will claim them as our own.

SCIENTIFIC FARMING ON A LARGE SCALE.

Messrs R W Foster, John S Beall and George S Foster of Portland who own a thousand acres or more on the north side, were up last week and made final arrangements as to the fixing of fences about their land. They will have men and a gasoline engine and plow here within the next three weeks and prepare the ground to seed the entire tract. As this is the first plowing by traction power in this section it is attracting much attention. The plow will turn over 12 furrows at each round.

ALL HALLOWEEN.

On Saturday afternoon and evening at the old Proclainer building the Christian church will hold a supper and sale. If you want the best piece of pumpkin pie, coffee and fixins be sure and go in.

SOME MORE LOCALS.
