

Coughs of Children

Especially night coughs. Nature needs a little help to quiet the irritation, control the inflammation, check the progress of the disease. Our advice is—give the children Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Ask your doctor if this is his advice also. He knows best. Do as he says.

If you think constipation is of trifling consequence, just ask your doctor. He will disabuse you of that notion in short order. "Correct it, at once!" he will say. Then ask him about Ayer's Pills. A mild liver pill, all vegetable.

Didn't Like Those Machines.
A little chap was offered a chance to spend a week in the country, but refused. Coaxing, pleading, arguing, promising of untold wonders, alike brought from him nothing but the stubborn ultimatum. "No country for me!" "But why not?" some one asked, finally. "Because they have thrashin' machines down there, an' it's bad enough here, where it's done by hand."

Uncle Eben on Brains.
"I dunno," said Uncle Eben, "whether it's better to have mo' money dan brains or mo' brains dan money, but heaven help de man dat ain't got any of either."

A LEADER WATER SYSTEM IN YOUR HOME

Her Good Excuse.
On his estate in the Catskills a New York man employs a great deal of local help, giving the farmers and their folk the preference whenever possible, in his big-hearted way. Not long ago his cook needed an assistant and he engaged a neighboring farmer's wife to come over the next day. When she arrived at 7:30 a. m. she apologized for being late and explained that before leaving home she had got breakfast for the family of six, had put up a lunch for her husband and one son, who were going to work in the field, and another lunch for three of the children who were going to school, had milked five cows, fed the pigs and chickens and walked a mile to the New York man's place.
He said he would excuse her for not getting there at six.

A Hard Proposition.
A young man visited his doctor and described a common illness that had befallen him.
"The thing for you to do," the physician said, "is to drink hot water an hour before breakfast every morning."
"Well, how are you feeling?" the doctor asked a week later. "Did you follow my advice and drink hot water an hour before breakfast?"
"I did my best, sir, but I couldn't keep it up more'n ten minutes at a stretch."
—Tit-Bits.

Pneumonia and Consumption are always preceded by an ordinary cold. Hamlin's Wizard Oil rubbed into the chest draws out the inflammation, breaks up the cold and prevents all serious trouble.

Two Sides to Everything.
A little boy was given too much underdone pie for his supper and was soon roaring lustily.
His mother's visitor was visibly disturbed.
"If he was my child," she said, "he'd get a good sound spanking."
"He deserves it," the mother admitted, "but I don't believe in spanking him on a full stomach."
"Neither do I," said the visitor, "but I'd turn him over."

For a Dry Day.
"Algy, did you call on Miss Peachley last evening, as you intended?"
"I went as far as the front door, dear boy, but I was so thoroughly drenched by a sudden storm that had come up that I merely asked the servant for a rain check and came away."

SIXTY YEARS A HARPIS.
Rosalie Spohr a Figure in Berlin's Musical and Social Life.
One of the most interesting characters in the musical life of Berlin is Rosalie Spohr, the harpist, who is a niece of the great violinist Louis Spohr, an exchange says. She made her first appearance in public on Dec. 13, 1849, at a concert given by Jennie Lind. She attracted attention first because of her distinguished musical descent, but after the world had once heard her her art made her famous.
There are few women before the public to-day who play the harp as virtuosos, although one sees them occasionally in the opera orchestra. So it is difficult nowadays to realize that Rosalie Spohr toured Europe in triumph. She found in Franz Liszt a devoted friend and enthusiastic admirer and he was proud to play with her at Weimar as well as give her the benefit of his artistic advice. Her career as a public performer ended after about six years. Then she became the wife of Count Saurma and the stage knew her no more. She still lives in Berlin, more than 80 years old, but enthusiastic in her devotion to the instrument with which she won the triumphs of her brief professional career. For three hours every day she practices the harp, and her technique has for that reason remained very complete for one of her age. Her talent was in a measure hereditary, since her aunt was a well-known harpist in her day. It was through her playing that Rosalie Spohr, who had begun her musical life as a pianist, turned her attention to the harp.

A widow for more than twenty years, it has been her devotion to her art that made life interesting to her during all this time. Her education was sound, in the first place, for she studied for two years under the harpist Grimm, who allowed her to play in public at the end of that period, although it was one of his principles that a harpist should study for ten years. Countess Rosalie has been an intimate friend of the German royal family, and both Friedrich and the empress were delighted to hear her play. Nowadays she is a unique figure in the musical and social life of Berlin and an inspiration to the younger students, who see what a joy and consolation an art may be to one who has acquired it faithfully.

SOME MARRIED MEDITATIONS.
By Clarence L. Cullen.
Another dead-sure preliminary to a touch is when she tells you that you are looking so tired around the eyes.
The time used to be when only men called an evening of wild and hysterical rummiferousness "having a good time."
Why is it that the woman who harps incessantly upon the inconsistency and the williness of men usually has a face like that of a perturbed sun perch?
It makes a man feel pretty cheap when, after admiring some woman who meets in a company, his wife tells him that she wears a whole wig, and proves it.
Why is it that a woman will strive frantically for years to catch her husband in a lie and then weep till her nose and eyes are all puffy and red when she finally succeeds?
When a woman is extraordinarily careful to lock away her own letters aren't you filled with a sort of involuntary suspicion that she'd read other people's letters if she got a chance?
Why is it that, when a man sits still for ten minutes or so, probably thinking that he'd better get a haircut to-morrow, his wife makes up her mind that he is dreaming of some other woman?
When the regular day arrives for her to have what she calls "a good cry," why shouldn't she phone the information to her husband, so that he can stay down with the fellers and have a good laugh?

No Complaining.
A writer in Tit-Bits says that a wealthy gentleman living in North Devon, who took a great interest in the church, offered to give the choir a treat, and decided on the really princely one of taking them for a week to Paris.
He escorted them himself to places of interest and beauty in that charming city, but not once during their whole stay, or even on their return, did one of the men say to him that he had liked the trip or had enjoyed himself.
Naturally anxious to know whether they had done so, a few days after their return he asked one of the churchwardens, a farmer in the village, whether he thought the men had enjoyed their time in Paris. The churchwarden cogitated for a moment or two.
"Well, sir," he said at length, "I ain't heard no complaints."

Why He Got His.
The vender of images, who had just been thrown out of a large office building, wept bitterly as he looked at his torn clothes and broken wares.
"Who did this?" inquired the friendly cop. "I'll pinch 'em if you say the word."
"No; it was my fault," said the victim, gathering up the remains of a plaster image. "I insisted on trying to sell a bust of Noah Webster to a meeting of simplified spellers."

Money to Burn.
The big touring car had just whizzed by with a roar like a gigantic rocket, and Pat and Mike turned to watch it disappear in a cloud of dust.
"Them chug wagons must cost a hape av cash," said Mike. "The rich is fairly burnin' money."
"An' be the smell av it," sniffed Pat. "It must be that tainted money we do be hearin' so much about."

Constipation

"For over nine years I suffered with chronic constipation and during this time I had to take an injection of warm water once every six hours before I could have an action on my bowels. Happily I tried Cascarets, and today I am a well man. During the nine years before I used Cascarets I suffered untold misery with internal piles. Thanks to you, I am free from all that this morning. You can use this in behalf of suffering humanity. B. P. Fisher, Roanoke, Ill."

Here the judge took a hand in examining the venreman.
"You don't seem to understand the questions addressed to you by the attorneys," he said. "What they want to know is whether you have formed or expressed any opinion in this case. That is to say, have you told anybody whether or not you believe the defendant guilty of the crime charged against him, or have you said to anybody that you believe him to be innocent?"
"Course not, judge," answered the venreman; "it ain't necessary fur me to 'xpress no opinion about him. I've knowed him fur thirty years, an' I know blame well he stole the cow."
"That will do, Mr. Skiles. You may stand aside."
