CITY COUNCIL.

City Council met in regular session Tuesday evening, November 2, with a quorum present. Mayor Padberg in the chair.

Bills amounting to $35 62 were allowed.

Upon motion of Councilman Perkins the recorder was instructed to post notices of regular election to be held Tuesday, December 7th.

As Judges of such election D C Ely and L E Ward were named, the clerks to be John Cochran and Walter Puyear.

Upon motion it was decided to hold a caucus on Tuesday evening November 16th for placing names forward for the offices of Recorder, Treasurer and three councilmen who are to be elected in December.

Council adjourned.

C J Pennington, Recorder.

OLD SETTLER SAYS NEXT YEAR A HUMMER.

Mrs M Jordan who came to Ione when just a little child, having crossed overland, and who has lived here continuously since, says that this is an ideal fall. She says that it has been several years since the outlook for a good year ahead has been so bright and that so much rainfall followed each time by warm weather and more rain, is a forerunner of open winter, much moisture and heavy grain crops.

COUNTY INSTITUTE.

The teachers from this section who have just returned from Institute, at Heppner, speak in the highest terms of the session just closed, saying that County Superintendent Notson knows exactly how to arrange for an instructive and beneficial Institute.

They also report Heppner as prosperous and its people optimistic for a good year.

THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH SUPPER.

Last Saturday afternoon and evening the Christian Church organization in Ione did itself proud in giving one of the most successful events that has taken place in Ione for some time. The ladies had the store room formerly used by The Proclaimer, a headquaters and had it decorated with Jack O'Lanterns and green twigs until it appeared nearly as fairyland.

Tables covered with handsome lunch cloths were scattered about and dainty menu cards gave the list of eatables. The representative of this paper who was there, claims to be a good judge of edibles and if there is any better cooking in the country than was there, then we will "have to be shown". Home made candy and pretty household and wearing articles were nicely arranged and some quilts that showed that the fame of even our fore mothers was excelled for workmenship, were also on sale. Quite a nice sum was realized, and all considered, the ladies of the Christian church can pat themselves on the back as good business people

A NEW DISEASE.

Some of the people who went to Grangeville, Idaho, about a year ago returned and spread the disease and now there is quite a following gone from here over there. The latest being the three young married couples that Ione has seen started on the voyage of life. We have no doubt that Grangeville is a good town and we do know that it is the better because of the fine people that Ione has contributed. However we are fearful that some of our people over there who are so used to open and comfortable winters will not enjoy the closed in and cold term of many months that is before them. But we wish all success, particularly the six young folks who have grown up here and who have the affection of the whole people.

CONSER-WATTENBURGER

At the home of the bride on Willow Creek, near Ione, Miss Grace Wattenburger was married to Roy Conser Thursday morning in the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends. Judge Perkins of Ione performed the ceremony and the young couple left immediately after for Grangeville, Idaho where they will make their home. The Proclaimer wishes them all success in life.

LOTS O PEOPLE IN TOWN.

The sale by public auction last Saturday of the last of the Kincaid stock by the Assignee, E L Padberg, was one of the largest attended and most satisfactory sales ever attended in Ione. The town has not been so full of people in over two years on any shopping day. The purchasers were local people, none being here from Heppner. This successful event shows plainly that advertising pays as no sale hereabouts has been so well advertised.
