CITY ELECTION.

The city election on Tuesday passed off as quietly as usually as usual, the following officers being elected; Chas Sperry, Paul Balsiger and Archie Rice councilmen; Joe Water, treasurer, C. J. Pennington recorder and T. J. Carle marshal.

There is a doubt as to Archie Rice being able to qualify as he has not been a resident of the city for two years. In case his election is declared void the council will select a man to serve for the term.

A MODEL FARM HOUSE.

Mr. Allinger has finished the Mills, Swaggart house which he has been building on the Jordan ranch near town, which they so lately purchased. This house not only reflects great credit upon the ability of Mr. Allinger to do the best of construction work but also upon the modern and correct bearing of Messrs Mills and Swaggart in that of owning a modern farm house. The house is in bungalow style, of 12 rooms, finely finished throughout and modern in every respect. Mr Allinger is perfected in the double trade of carpenter and plumbing and has personally overseen every inch of the work, doing the finer portions of it himself. The result is well worth going to see and if every farmer in Morrow county would see this fine home the result would be many more of like nature.

HE MADE ONE MISTAKE.

Quaint Persian Tale of the Taming of the Shrew.

In Persia a wealthy man will often have a friend of whose society he is fond living in the house with him. Abdullah was such a friend to Aly Khan, a very wealthy and influential merchant of Isbahan, who was delighted with his charm and cleverness and so pleased with his services that he thought he would make a very good son-in-law and suggested him as such to his beautiful daughter. She was very overbearing and had tempered; but, thinking that Abdullah was rather good looking, she agreed to it. They were married. Soon his friends came to congratulate him, among them Hounayn, who was known to have a very overbearing and had tempered wife. He said, "I congratulate you on your marriage," and then he asked the bridegroom, "Are you really happy with a woman who is known to have such a bad temper?" "I assure you that she is perfectly charming and that I am perfectly happy." "May I ask how you manage it?" "Certainly," answered Abdullah. "On the night of the marriage I went into her apartments in full uniform with my sword on. She did not take any notice of me, but put on a supercilious air and made a parade of stroking her cat. I quietly picked up her cat and cut off his head with my sword, took the head in one hand, the body in the other and threw them out of the window. My wife was amazed, but did not show it. After a few moments she broke into a smile and has been a most submissive and charming wife ever since."

Hounayn went straight home and put on his uniform and went into the harem. The domestic pet came to greet him. He seized it with the head that was decapitated to carry it, drew his sword and with a single blow decapitated it. At the same moment he received a blow in the face delivered by his daughter's cat and before he recovered from his astonishment a second and a third. "I can see to whom you have been talking," the lady said, "and you have done it. It was on the first day that you ought to have done this."

Brevities

THE HALL OF FAME.

Count Boni de Castellane was recently publicly snubbed by George J. Gould in the lobby of the West End hotel, in London.

Asa B. Field of Brattleboro, Vt., is one of a family of five children whose ages aggregate 420 years. They are scattered from Vermont to California.

J. W. Beers of West View, Pa., is said to have one of the most valuable shorthand libraries in the world. It includes practically all the systems invented since the year 1700.

The new commander of the national guard of Pennsylvania, Major General John A. Wiley, is a veteran of the civil war and commanded a brigade of Pennsylvania troops in the war with Spain.

Probably no man in central Maine has played the cornet at more dances than George W. Sanford. He is a horseshoer and edge tool maker by trade and has lived in Guilford since 1880.

Lieutenant Grnets of the Prussian army has started from German East Africa in an attempt to cross that country in an automobile. He carries a machinist, a cook and a native servant.

Harlan I. Smith is making a preliminary archaeological reconnaissance of Wyoming for the American Museum of Natural History. This state is the center of an extensive field unknown archaeologically.

Governor Frear of Hawaii was inaugurated recently. Mott Smith has qualified as secretary of the territory, A. S. Hartwell as chief justice of the supreme court and Judge Ballan as associate justice.

Judge George A. Carpenter of the Chicago juvenile court declared on the bench the other day that if the hairbrush were used more often—"and not on the head"—many of the cases which now occupy so much of his time would never get into court.

The number of people in Winthrop, Me., who have lived to be more than ninety years cannot be beaten by any other town of its size in New England. Elias Miller, aged ninety-seven; George S. Fairbanks, ninety-two, and Abel Robinson, eighty-six, recently celebrated by taking an automobile ride.

R. S. Barrett, proprietor of the Daily Record of the City of Mexico, has returned to his home from London and has decided to establish in the British metropolis a daily newspaper along the lines of the up to date American dailies. He says he will import reporters trained in American journalism and will use American presses.

In a Quandary.

Monk—He is wagging his tail very friendly, but he is growling so I don't know which end to believe.—Lisle's Weekly.

Not His Attitude.

It was difficult to hire competent or even incompetent help in Eden Center, and the commuters in that mythic spot had learned resignation.

"James," said Mrs. Crawford, "I haven't seen anything of that man who was to mow our lawn. Where do you suppose he is? There, I believe that's he now over in Howe's orchard!" "Is he standing?" inquired Mr. Crawford.

"Yes," said his wife, "he's standing under one of the big trees looking to mow our house."

"That can't be the man," said Mr. Crawford. "He'd be sitting or lying down."—Teeth's Companion.

Great Scheme.

Mrs. Simpson is her "Many Memories of Many People" says of Archibald Whately: He was utterly regardless of appearance. If he came to us without a servant and perceived a hole in his black stocking, he would put a piece of sticking plaster on the corresponding part of his leg to equal the other.
