worth while. To many of the members the work is new, but if they continue as they have begun, the results will be very gratifying.

In District No. 32, Miss Ruth Bowman and eleven pupils were working diligently. A new dictionary has been recently placed in the school room. I noted that the pupils are making quite an extensive study of flowers.

In District No. 37, Miss Mabel Wood was just closing the work of the term. Some improvements have been made in the building and equipment since my former visit. New windows have been placed in the building, a new floor has been laid, and new window boards provided. A new dictionary has been added to the library, and a fine book-case has been purchased for the library books. The money which was spent for these improvements was raised by a basket social.

Miss Vera Langdon teaches in District No. 21. She and her pupils have worked hard for a standard school. A new cloak room has been built at the front of the building, which is a great improvement. A flag pole has been erected, and the flag is kept flying. The floor has been oiled.

A swing, a see-saw, a merry-go-round, and a croquet set have been added to the play apparatus. A book-case has been provided for the books. A new dictionary has been purchased recently. A new jacket for the stove has been ordered, and when it is placed around the stove, the school will be entitled to the full number of stars for a standard school.

Dr. Sheldon reports that only about one-third of the teachers of the county have enrolled for the reading circle work. Teachers should not neglect this. The time is growing short. School boards should not sign up contracts until the teachers have the reading credit, so there will be no doubt about the registration of their certificates.

The Cost of Smoke.
A cloud of black smoke hovering over a city signifies industry. It also signifies extravagance. A lack of care in the using of fuel is doubly expensive, for the damage it causes costs the city many hundreds of thousands of dollars and wastes for the city an even greater amount of money.

Chicago, for instance, has an actual annual damage bill of approximately $40,000,000. Cincinnati pays $300 a year for every family within its municipal limits. The cleaning of chimneys and buildings and the cost of washing, repainting and repapering are the chief items in this expense. But the greatest expense is the expense which comes from the reckless waste of the valuable byproducts of the coal.

One of the chief elements of the remarkable commercial success of Germany is due to the fact that in the fatherland 85 per cent of the byproducts of the burning coal are utilized in many different ways.

How many pounds of these very same byproducts go out of the chimneys of our great manufacturing cities every year can never be estimated. But the facts are that we utilize 20 per cent of the products as compared with Germany's 85 per cent.

Extravagance seems to have had its day with the people of America. Economize per year raising Canaries. The new industry. Start at home. Spare time. We show you how particulars free. The J. O. Mitchell Sales Co., 1919 University Ave., Berkeley, Cal. 45-57 only is now in order, and one of the first and most apparent economies is that to be effected by a more careful supervision of the use of fuel.—Town Development Magazine.

A Live City.
The Industrial Association of Keokuk, Ia., has purchased an industrial tract, laid it out, decided upon a plant for the city, won a freight rate case, installed a lighting system and started to work on the improvement of the river front. All expenses for these improvements have been met in full, it is reported.

Motors Inaccessible Now.
Makers of motor cars were advertising a few years ago automobiles in which all parts were accessible. Today they are carefully inclosing all vital parts of their cars to make them inaccessible. This is because the machinery of a motor car should not be touched by any one except an expert machinist, and the "accessible" cars were too great a temptation to inexperienced owners, who often damaged them with their tinkering.

The Lincoln Highway.
The Lincoln highway from New York to San Francisco has progressed so well in a year's time that we may reasonably believe that it will be finished without national aid. Ohio has completed over three-fourths of her part of the highway, and in many other states the work is going forward. The whole road is already in such condition that automobiles can make the transcontinental trip in less than a month.

Iowa's Big Drydock.
Few persons think of Iowa as a state where there is great interest in shipping matters, yet at Keokuk they have just built a drydock 463 feet long, 150 feet wide and 56 feet deep—the largest inland drydock in the world. There the steamboats of the Ohio and the Mississippi can have any repairing they may need.

FREMONT AND KIT CARSON.
Pen Pictures of the Pathfinder and the Famous Scout.

In "Kit Carson Days," by Edward L. Sabin, we get this glimpse of the personal appearance of Carson and Fremont when the two daring spirits first met:

"In June, 1842, came the fateful meeting of the trapper scout, already known throughout the west, and the Pathfinder whose great fame was still to come.

"The two men were opposites. Carson was Scotch-Irish, gray blue eyed, sandy complexioned (under his tan), light haired, rather flat featured, gritty, but so quiet and ordinary both in appearance and manner that few not knowing his name would bestow upon him more than a passing glance. Fremont was French, flashing blue eyes, olive white complexion, thick brown hair, features regular and oval, disposition sensitive, quick, eager and indomitable. Few would forget him.

"Fremont was a scholar of both American and continental accomplishments. At this time Carson could not read nor write even his own name, and his speech even in 1866 was of petola wherets mingled Mexican, Indian and many a frontier English 'thar,' 'fout,' 'massacred,' 'pore,' etc. But he spoke in more languages than did Fremont himself, not only being fluent in English, French, Spanish and several Indian tongues, all acquired orally, but also being well conversant with the sign language of red man and of trail."

Of this meeting on the Missouri, out from St. Louis, came comradeship first and a friendship that never ceased. In California and in the Mexican struggle the staunchness of both men and their loyalty to the flag were well tested.

The above is the picture of Rev. E. T. Starkey who recently accepted the pastorate of the Baptist Church of this City. Rev. Starkey comes from Amity, Oregon, where he was pastor for almost four years. Prior to this he was pastor at Mitchell, Oregon, where between 40 and 50 were added to the church. Before entering the pastorate he was engaged in evangelistic work for some time. Rev. Starkey come swell recommended and the members of Baptist Church are fortunate in getting such an able man to take charge of the pastoral work for the ensuing year.

ORIGIN OF A PHRASE.

Greeley Was Not the First to Say, "Go West, Young Man."

Who said, "Go west, young man?" The phrase has often been credited to Horace Greeley, but he was not the first to use it and once denied that he said it. It was written by John B. L. Soule, a brilliant young man who edited the Terre Haute Express in 1851-3. Richard W. Thompson of Terre Haute advised him to go west and grow up with the country, adding, "Why, John, you could write an article that would be attributed to Horace Greeley if you tried."

Soule modestly doubted it, but Thompson insisted, and Soule promised to try. The result was an article in the Express on the opportunities offered to young men by the west, which began by saying that Horace Greeley could never have given better advice than that contained in the words "Go west, young man." It was a supposititious quotation from Greeley, but the article was copied, and pretty soon the supposititious phrase was attributed to Greeley himself.

After it had received wide circulation the New York Tribune came out with a reprint of the Express article, accompanied by a footnote by Mr. Greeley saying that he was not the author of the expression, but he fully indorsed it and joined in saying, "Go west, young man; go west!"—Indianapolis News.

Very Engaging.
Aunt Anna—Your wife is a perfect dear. William; she has such engaging ways. Mr. Stubbs—Right you are, aunt; she has engaged fully two dozen different cooks in the last six months to my certain knowledge.—Florida Times-Union.

The Dry Suit.
"I should think you would have preferred the army to the navy?"
"No, ma'am. I'd rather do my fighting on water and keep dry than on land and have to stand knee deep in water in the trenches all the time."—Detroit Free Press.
