STREET CLEANING AND EFFICIENCY

Must Be Performed in a Systematic Manner.

REDUCED TO A SCIENCE.

The Purpose is to Remove as Quickly and as Cheaply as Possible All Foreign Matter in Highways and So Conduce to the Health of the Public.

The cleaning of streets, to be properly carried out, should be under the supervision of engineers of experience, as where the work is put in the hands of mere politicians, as a sort of any good fellow's job, the results, as seen in so many American cities, are about what could be expected, says Frank Koester in "Modern City Planning and Maintenance."

The lack of system and want of technical training on the part of the officials in charge make street cleaning unnecessarily expensive, leave the streets in a bad condition and cause the cleaning to be carried out in disagreeable and insanitary ways.

In foreign cities engineers specialize on this subject. Street cleaning has been reduced to a science, and economy, efficiency and the comfort and convenience of the public are considered at every point.

The purpose of street cleaning is to remove as quickly and as cheaply as possible all foreign matter in the streets and thus to conduce to the health of the public by minimizing the circulation of germ laden dust.

The cleaning of streets should be carried out in a systematic and thorough manner. The cleaners should proceed in crews with the necessary apparatus both to clean the streets and the sidewalks as well, if necessary, and the that no member of the crew need wait on the progress of the other, but all proceed simultaneously, and when they have passed through the street the work will be done. The method of placement street cleaning, with the householder sweeping the dirt into the street, the street cleaner sweeping it into piles and the piles being removed by wagons, with the occasional passing first on one side of the street and then on the other of some piece of street cleaning apparatus, results in a continual stirring up of dust, to the great discomfort of all concerned, while the street never really gets cleaned.

The number of men in the cleaning crew depends on the kind of machinery used. As no machine is capable of reaching all parts of the street, a certain amount of manual sweeping is necessary, especially when the sidewalks are cleaned by the municipality. Such manual sweeping should be carried on in conjunction with the machine sweeping, so that, as indicated, the whole width of the street will be cleaned at once.

In order that such cleaning may proceed with efficiency and dispatch and consequently with economy the streets must be practically clear of traffic, as the presence of vehicles, especially those standing at the curb, greatly delays the work of the crew.

As the operation of such a crew also handicaps traffic and as the public prefers to see the streets clean rather than to see them being cleaned, it is essential to select a suitable hour for cleaning. German cities have conducted numerous tests for finding out the most favorable hour. The city of Dresden adopted the practice of cleaning the main streets in the early morning hours, beginning about 4 a. m. and finishing the business sections by 6 a. m., some 20 to 30 per cent of the entire street area. The cleaning of the remainder of the streets proceeds immediately after the main streets are finished, and the whole city is cleaned by 9 a. m. Only streets in outlying districts are cleaned later in the day, often in the afternoon, but all streets must be cleaned once a day, whether there is much dirt or little on them.

The practice of Dresden has been followed by practically all prominent German cities.

DON'TS.

Don't hold a grudge. A little bitterness, like gall, can kill much sweet and spoil a whole life. Hate hung Haman.

Don't expect to raise many of your chicks if you keep them on rank ground. Their runs should be clean and green.

Don't abuse the broodies. The hen that hatches and broods a bunch of chicks gets a natural rest and lays better for it.

Don't let the hen get your chicks. They kill and stunt much young stock that house killer will save.

Don't put off a task because it's disagreeable. If a hen is sick treat her quick.

Don't minimize your mistakes and magnify another's.

Don't forget that labreeding results in decreased vigor and age.

Don't expect stock penned on bare, dirty runs to breed healthy offspring.

Don't start that incubator without a thorough inspection. Mice often build nests in them, and a mouse nest in a fue won't do.

True Test of Character.

The test of your character should be that you are a joy bearing agent to the world.—Beecher.

PRACTICAL ACCESSORIES.

Trifles That Add to the Convenience of the Summer Table.

Convenient table accessories for the summer season are illustrated here. The asparagus dish of fancy china has a stand which renders it easy to handle. These asparagus tongs make it really possible to serve the vegetable without breaking.

The lemonade set illustrated has a pitcher supplied with a nickel cover.

ASPARAGUS DISH AND LEMONADE SET.

so that exploring insects may be kept out when the beverage is served on the lawn or porch. It may be added that the lemonade retains its coolness longer in these covered vessels than in open ones. The heavy glass tray with handles may be easily kept clean and is not affected by acid should the lemonade be spilled upon it.

Very practical and dainty are the newest designs in summer luncheon sets. Of heavy linen or crash in putty or natural shades, the edges of the various pieces are finished with small scallops in chinese blue, Nile green, old rose or vandyke brown, the four shades that best accord with the usual dining room decorations and with almost any of the oriental potteries.

These new sets consist of a center mat of twenty-four inch circumference and a dozen each of plate and tumbler mats, while in extra pieces in matching colors and designs come long scarfs for the sideboard.

The value of the luncheon set is obvious. It is an immense saving of laundry, since when an accident happens to one mat another may be substituted and the table drapery kept looking fresh for several days in succession.

Thoroughly Bore.

An old forger who has served five terms in various penitentiaries and who is now refraining from fancy penmanship in order to enjoy an uninterrupted vacation for a week or two, records as the following epigram from the depths of his experience:

"I never realized the complete business of my nature until one day I found myself unconsciously raising my own check!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Preparing a Substitute.

"We are to have company for dinner, and I don't believe there is a grapefruit to be had in town! What in the world shall I do?"

"Got any oranges?"

"Plenty of them."

"All right. You be splitting the oranges, and I'll run down to the drug store and get a pound of quinine to dust them with!"—Houston Post.

Father's Definition.

"Pa, what's this trust I read so much about?"

"It's something, son, I can't get at the butcher's."—Philadelphia Ledger.

John Nilson was in Ione Monday from the country.

Ed. Holmquist made a special trip in from the Troedson place this week. This is the first time since 1915.

We saw Leonard Carleson, one of the well known Gooseberry farmers, on the streets of Ione this week. He has more land in wheat this year than he had last year. His average yield the past year was over fifteen bushels.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Ball came in Tuesday and took out a large load of supplies for the Ball ranch. There is lots of snow out their way that is melting slowly.

Frank Everson was around town Tuesday.

Fred Esteb one of the country visitors was in on a shopping tour this week.
