No Ferocious Kitten!

The old "wildcat" system of banking has long since been relegated to the scrap heap. The present day banker hears of the old "two-per-cent-a-month" interest grabber as a myth of the remote past. This bank does not and has never participated in this obsolete interest grabbing disgrace to the business world. Our interest rates are small at all times and are regulated strictly by money market conditions. We furnish money for all legitimate business purposes, and at a live-and-let-live rate.

FIGURED EFFECTS.

Their Popularity Increases With the Advance of the Season.

The smart woman's partiality for figured fabrics is shown in the afternoon gown of pussy willow taffeta illustrated here. The prevailing tone of the costume is green. In a neutral shade it is used for the background of the figured silk, which is matched by the plain silk of the skirt.

Suches are to be seen on most of the afternoon models, at least, on those launched by the best houses. And the curious thing is that many of these sashes are like those used to hold children's pinafores in place—long lengths of broad ribbon simply passed round the waist and tied in a loose bow at the back.

Some of the newest sashes recall the ribbons of long ago days, when our mothers, and even our grandmothers, were young—flowered ribbons in which velvet and satin designs are mixed, blurred ribbons with velvet borders, plaid ribbons of all kinds.

An Annual Field Day.

Amelia, N. Y., is a small town which holds an annual field day, in which participate all the inhabitants of the village. Teams and not the individuals constitute the successful competitors, and the people of Amelia believe that this novel competition has done much to increase their health and happiness.

Warning.

When she letteth thee recklessly spend,
And laugheth to see thee go broke,
Thou mayst jolly her on without end,
For she taketh thee but as a joke.

But when she demurth at price
And chideh for what thou hath spent,
Thou art treading on treacherous ice,
For the maiden hath solemn intent.

WHEN it comes to the role of disease carrier, the fly has the mosquito claimed a mile. He can carry 5,000,000 bacteria. And, although he is the original and only purveyor of infantile paralysis and is responsible for 80 per cent of typhoid fever, he is not at all averse to carrying the germs of any other disease he meets in his journeys through garbage pail, sewer and other filth.

FAREWELL Grain Sack

By using sacks you have no protection from rats or fire; the sacks are liable to burst; handling them is hard heavy work; you must buy the sacks and then fill them with grain; then load the wagons; then carry to the railroads; pile on the platform, and finally load the cars.

The same amount of money spent for grain sacks to hold 5000 bushels of grain will build you a permanent Grain Bin. Watch for our latest circulars.

Design X-104 is a 5000 bushel, "Stationary" Grain Bin. The complete bill of lumber required for above design is
