Are The Women For Thaw?

"The woman are all for Thaw and the men for Evelin Nesbit in this matter," said one man the other day, trying to sum up the state of the public mind on the lunatic affair now pending in Canada. If that is true then all the men are half witted and the women hysterical. What is there to the whole affair that any man or woman should be either for or against it? The Thaws, male and female, who have been concerned in these escapades, are not worthy of any serious attention or any adherence. It's all driveling idiocy and simpering simplicity to make the affairs of such worthless persons a matter of personal concern. Both of them have disgraced the American people and they have seem to have worked themselves up to the point where they imagine their affairs, lewd and vicious and disgusting, are of almost national concern.

For or against Thaw or his wife—what idiocy can engage our attention. Neither one has exemplified anything in personal or personal life that is worthy of such consideration. If we could all forget them, wipe them out entirely, it would be more creditable to us. We hope both the women and the men will revise their conceptions. There is something more enduring than brazen hussies who capitalize their legs on the vaudeville stage and than men who wantonly spend $50,000 on a banquet for prostitutes in Paris, the greatest achievement of Thaw before he murdered Stanford White, the degenerate brute and distinguished architect.

Keep Bags on Protected List

Congress voted to keep grain and wool bags off the free list. A dispatch from Washington says Senators Chamberlain and Lane received telegrams from Portland manufacturers saying that if the tariff was taken off these products it would ruin their business. What if it did? What they would lose would benefit the grain and wool growers. The interests of several hundred thousand consumers should be protected before those of one or two small manufacturing concerns who only employ a small force of workers. Free bags would mean many dollars in the pockets of Morrow County grain and wool growers each year.

Last of Old Guard To Go

A Washington correspondent of the Oregonian concedes that there is no chance for the reelection of any of the "standpat" Senators, with the possible exception of Smoot.

He also concedes that La Follette will defeat Stephenson in Wisconsin. The defeat of these will be due to the fact that they do not adjust their views and actions in accordance with the changed industrial conditions. Their defeat was prophesied by La Follette years ago when the "human hornet," as he is called by the "standpatters," who was new in the Senate, arose to make a speech and his fellow Republicans walked out of the Senate Chamber. "The gentlemen who are now leaving the chamber temporarily will soon be permanently absent," shouted La Follette, and that his words were to be proven true, is shown by the fact that the old brigade is driven from power and but few of them remain in the Senate, and these will be slipped a blue envelope by the voters at the next election.

Not Politicians

Because we announced in our last issue that we think Bourne is of great advertising value to Oregon and that he is preferable to us over Chamberlain or Lane it should not be construed that we will support Bourne in the event he again runs for Senator. We expect to further no man's candidacy thru these columns and we tie our columns to the tail of no political party's kite. We believe that every man and each political party is entitled to a hearing but we do not expect to try to shove our own personal views down the throats of our subscribers. A country newspaper derives its revenue from the pockets of members of each and every political party and faction and should not take the part of any particular party and discriminate against the rest of the field. If a paper supports the Republican party entirely it should look to the Republican party alone for its support. Would not a Republican feel that the "Appeal to Reason," which is strictly a Socialist paper, had unlimited gull if it should appeal to the Republican party for support, morally or financially? The writer believes the best interests of his subscribers can be served by devoting his time to publishing good readable local news items rather than dabbling in national politics and blowing the horn of any political party.
