Ray Harlan, a young Marion, Iowa boy, is here visiting his cousin, The Herald man. He is already in love with our climate and people.

IRRIGON ITEMS.

S. H. Boardman and H. H. Weston of Castle Rock, drove up here Saturday to transact business.

Warren Corey left Friday for White Salmon, where he will be employed for the summer.

Mrs. Philip Renno and children are here and will remain for the summer. Mrs. Renno comes from Canada and speaks in high terms of our lovely climate, compared with that she has just left.

Mrs. Lansdown, the wife of the foreman of the government surveyors came from Portland Saturday to make her home here for a while.

Mrs. N. Seaman returned to her home; from the East where she has been visiting her father for the past three weeks. Mrs. Seaman reports that her father's health is much improved.

W. E. Walbridge, our county fruit inspector, was in Irrigon Thursday and Friday. Of course he found every thing all O. K.

Geo. McDuffee, republican candidate for the Sheriff of Morrow County was in town Sunday.

Peter Sussbauer automobilized to Heppner Sunday morning to serve on a jury. Mr. Walbridge returned with him.

Mrs. Beasley, an old-time resident of Irrigon, was in town Sunday looking after local property and visiting old friends. Mrs. Beasley now resides at Hermiston.

Dr. McNab of Pendleton was a Irrigon visitor Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Doering came up from Coyote Saturday. Mr. Doering attended the meeting of the school board. Their son, Edgar, will remain at the McCoy home until school is out.

The first crate of ripe strawberries shipped from this town went to Pendleton, May 7th. They were handled by Roadnick and Graver, who have rented the L. A. Doble patch. For the past three or four seasons Irrigon berries have been the first on the market, netting all the way from $5.00 to $6.50. Those shipped May 7th, were to $6.50 quality.

The school board of Directors for District No. 10 held a business meeting at the home of the chairman's, Saturday.

LEXINGTON ITEMS.

Mrs. Gurlough arrived Tuesday evening to visit with her sister, Miss Olmstead, who is very ill.

Mrs. Montague returned to her home Sunday.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Henry Scott May 9, an 8 pound boy.

Friday afternoon and evening the Ladies Aid of the Congregational church will sell Ice Cream and Cake at the reading room.

Dr. Paddock held services at the Congregational church Sunday, Mr. Jones being unable to be here. The services were well attended and enjoyed by everyone.

The baccalaureate address to the graduates will be given by Supt. Norton Sunday evening, May 17, at the Methodist church.

The contract for the new $15,000 schoolhouse has been let and signed and work is now under way, says the Arlington Independent. The new building will be erected on the northeast corner of the school grounds, thus doing away with the necessity of wrecking the present building until after school has closed.

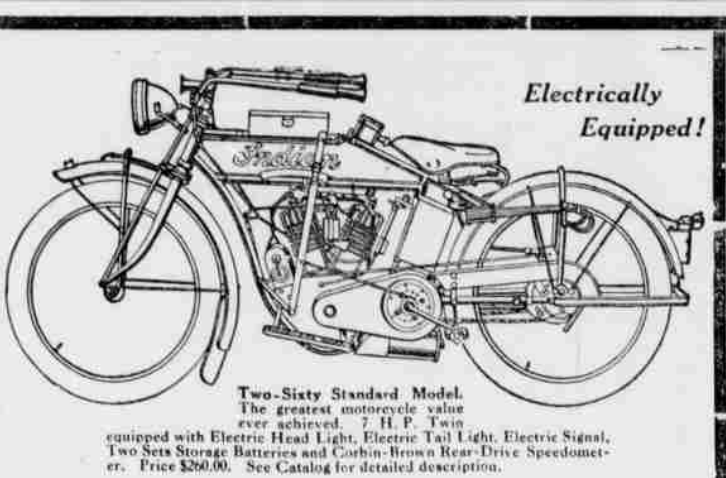

Arlington Independent.—The entertainment billed by D. Loyd Morgan for last Friday night was an utter frost not enough appearing for him to give the show, so he departed up the line on the 9 p. m. train.

Morgan's ball team defeated Arlington 15 to 16 a week ago last Sunday.

No definite understanding was reached at the meeting held at Hamilton Friday to discuss the proposal to divide Grant County, says the Blue Mountain Eagle. The Eagle does not oppose the plan, but questions whether the people of the north end are really ready for a government of their own. The south end people are in different and the Eagle believes the proposal would carry in that section.

Pilot Rock Record.—Frank Sinclair and T. Roberts, of Prosser, purchased a big band of ewes and lambs of Pat Doherty, the well known stockman of Butter creek, the first of the week. The sheep are in prime condition and will be shipped to the Prosser section of Washington, where they will be used for stock purposes.

Condon's ball team plays at Ione Sunday.

"DRUGLESS MEDICINE" AND "BLOODLESS SURGERY"

By Dr. J. Perry Conder.

The drugless physician and the bloodless surgeon reaffirm abiding faith in the wisdom of the Divine Architect and the perfection of His work. It is axiomatic with us that the human body is perfectly planned and complete within itself for the functions of living containing all the machinery, materials and forces required to live in health and comfort from birth to old age, providing only that in addition to normal food, air, work and rest its parts be maintained in good mechanical adjustment. When the body, once healthy, falls sick, it is evident to the careful investigator that the machinery of life has somehow gotten into faulty adjustment.

PREVENTING AND TREATING APPENDICITIS

Down in the right side of the abdomen there is a valve called the "ileo-caecal valve." It guards the gateway between the small and large intestines. Just below this valve we find a pouch, or reservoir, called the "caecum," at the extreme lower end of this pouch, and opening into it, we find a worm-like appendage, hanging down about three inches in length, looking like a bent peanut, which is known as the "vermiform appendix." Fecal matter from the small intestine passes through this ileo-caecal valve just above the appendix and is emptied into this pouch, the "caecum."

If the intestine is receiving a normal amount of nervous impulses, thereby setting up a proper number of peristaltic waves in the bowels, the fecal matter will be duly carried along but if there is some interference with the nerve and blood supply to the intestines, causing a sluggish constipated condition on their part, the fecal matter may lie in this pouch for days at a time waiting for enough bowel stimulant to carry it on. Further decomposition and putrefaction takes place, hastened by bacteria, which are ever present, but which are harmless so long as the bowel maintains normal movement. Germs multiply by millions, and within a few hours we have a veritable germ hot-bed flourishing right over the mouth of the appendix and generating quantities of their poisons. Is it any wonder bacteria find their way through the opening into the appendix, inflaming it with their poisons and producing what is known as "appendicitis?"

The bloodless surgeon claims that cutting off the appendix will not relieve the condition above the appendix in the "caecum," therefore practically all who are operated on for appendicitis by having the appendix removed are in a much worse condition after the operation than before. The drugless physician and bloodless surgeon proceeds by manipulative methods to stimulate the nerve action and improve the blood supply and by these manipulations together with means that are familiar to all empty the caecum and colon of their germ-laden load of fecal matter. Then he will direct his attention to that part of the spine from which the bowel and appendix get their nerve supply. Displacements are adjusted; impinged nerves are set free; a normal circulation of blood to the bowel and appendix is re-established; poisons are carried away and eliminated; congestion is relieved; peristalsis becomes natural; and pain soon disappears.

Don't become frightened and rush for a hospital the first time you feel a pain in the right side. It may be only gas in the colon or an impaction of fecal matter in the "caecum." If it is an average case the drugless physician will have you back at your work in a few days, and you will have the satisfaction of knowing that you are still whole. The best way to get along with appendicitis is to consult a physician early enough, who knows how to prevent you having it.

Continued Next Week.
