STRAWBERRIES

for
CANNING OR TABLE USE

We have always handled the bulk of the canning berry business, and expect to this season as well.

About JUNE 1st, we look for STRAWBERRIES to be at their best, both as to quality and price.

We advise those wanting them for canning to leave their orders and we will see that they are filled when both price and quality reach the most economical level.

This season we have made arrangements with some large growers this side of Portland to supply us, this will insure fresh stock.

For your information let us caution you that practically all berries will be packed in the new pirt boxes. This new package will necessitate your buying a larger number of crates than formerly, of course the price will be correspondingly lower.

LEAVE YOUR ORDERS NOW.

LEO BLACKMAN SAFE AFTER NARROW ESCAPE

of the convicts, trying to swim ashore, were fired at.

"On April 30 the Geneva was released and water and provisions were obtained from the Raleigh. On May 3 it put out to sea for Gray Harbor under command of the mate, who, with crew, went aboard after the brig was released."

According to the story brought in on the Cetriana, United States Consul Edwards of Acapulco was ordered to leave the country, but no ship was at hand to take him away.

He went to Manzanillo and there was put on the Mexican steamer Pesquira. In his stateroom, it is reported, he was held as a prisoner, while an armed Mexican soldier paraded before his door and occasionally flourished a revolver muzzle through the shutters of the door. Edwards says he kept a knife in his hand all night, expecting an assault. The Consul was released later.

Two Killed at Flesta.
Two names were brought by the Cetriana of men who are said to be positively known victims of the Mexican anti-American feeling. They remained at their work on the El Tovar mine and at a riotous fiesta which was kindled into a white flame of hatred for the "gringos," C. B. Hoadley, of New Haven, Conn. and G. E. Williams, an Englishman, were killed, said the refugees.

Other names of men believed to have been killed at Los Penas, between San Blas and Mazatlan, are Ralph R. Ramsdell, J. H. James, Charles A. Kelso, and men named Nelson, McAllister and Hidell.

When the Cetriana arrived at San Blas, April 26, Commander Minister found 17 Americans from the inland town of Tepic waiting. They told him they were being held prisoners subject to orders issued by the Mexican General Domingo Zervin that they be returned. Return to the interior meant execution, they said. Though the persuasion and diplomacy of Commander Minister they were released and allowed to leave on board the Cetriana.

Tacomam on Cetriana.
S. W. Wall, a newspaperman of Tacoma, Wash., was one of the Cetriana's refugees. "Following the occupation of Vera Cruz Americans suddenly found themselves in a country turned hostile," said Wall. "They were without means of escape and but for the chance arrival of the ship Cetriana the lives of many no doubt would have been sacrificed."

Echo and Pilot Rock have decided to celebrate the 4th of July.

The main street in the town of Helix, in Umatilla County has been oiled similar to the streets of Heppner.
