To The Graduates

At this time of the year, when commencement exercises are taking up much of your thoughts, we desire to say a few words to the members of the graduating class. The writer is not so many years older than most of the graduates but the hard knocks of experience have taught him a few of the lessons which can be learned in no other way.

Graduates, don't think you have completed your education. What you have learned in school is but the beginning of your education.

While spending your time in the school room for the past twelve years, you have had little time to learn any of the lessons of real life. In school, you have simply been taught to think, in order that when you come face to face with stern problems of real life, your mind will be able to grapple with any question and contest with the minds of other individuals. You are about to face lessons that cannot be learned in 45 minutes or an hour, and these lessons will be hard. In the competition of life you will have no teacher to assist you.

Your twelve years in school ought to have helped prepare you a foundation so that you may now tackle the harder problems and solve them.

You should count the day lost on which you do not learn something new and worth while.

Remember your motto: "Honor Lies in Honest Toil." You should now be prepared to work in the big game of life. The world needs lots of workers. But the world, not you, will be the judge of your abilities.

After 50 years of the hard studies of real life you will look back to this week as being truly a "Commencement" week.

Are you going to be somebody? It's up to you.

Retiring From Ione

This week's issue of The Ione Bulletin will be the last under the ownership and management of L. K. Harlan. In the future, Mr. F. W. Sears will conduct Ione's newspaper and the writer retires, in a partial way, from that field. We expect, however, to serve the people of the entire County of Morrow in a far better manner from Heppner than we were able to serve them from Ione. Through the columns of The Heppner Herald we will keep our readers in touch with the happenings of each and every locality possible and we expect to make our editorial columns of intense interest and benefit to our readers. The policy of The Herald will be absolutely independent. We will confine our efforts to supporting only such persons and movements as we consider would benefit the people of this county.

Subscribers who are paid up in advance will receive their copies of The Bulletin until their term expires. Those who are in arrears can make payment either personally to Mr. Harlan or to Mr. Sears at Ione, at their convenience.

The subscription price of The Herald will be lowered to $1 per year. We want to place the Herald in every home in Morrow County. If you are looking for the biggest dollar's worth of county news you were ever able to buy, you are invited to subscribe for The Herald.

WOMEN AND BEAUTY

"No one can say that the last whitehouse bride is pretty," one woman remarked, after studying all the newspaper and magazine pictures of the young woman. Well, that depends. Some go so far as to say that all the Wilson girls are plain, almost homely. The bride has the charm of youthfulness which always has a prettiness of its own, like a spring morning or a rosebud.

But whether or not a woman is beautiful depends. It depends on what she is and how well you know her. The world is full of homely men, but there are few really homely women, until after they have made themselves so by dissipations and non-thinking. The woman who cultivates her mind, who keeps her heart fresh and her soul alive, whose face expresses something which is the reflection of something worth while, she seldom grows old or ugly. Her features may not be regular and the lines may be ordinary, but to those who know her—and no others can sit in judgement—she always has the elements of beauty. Women who know nothing and feel nothing can never be said to be beautiful, although the glamor may be upon them. The beauty that strikes one at a glance is rare enough in this world, as it is brief, indeed. But when you come to know people you are apt to find more than you saw at the first glance. The Wilson girls are all endowed with good brains and they have heart qualities, as shown by their past activities, and those qualities will produce beauty of their own, a beauty that will outlast rouge and powder and fine clothes.

Thanks

We view with great pride and appreciation the good words of The Portland Oregonian, who admit in a recent issue, that the Herald is already one of the leading country weeklies of the state. After having lived here a few weeks longer and having acquainted ourselves better with the people of the city and surrounding country, The Herald's news and editorial columns will expand and keep expanding and will contain practically every piece of news of the entire county.

Women Who Would Be Napoleon

A Paris paper submitted to a large number of women the question, "If you had been born a man, what man would you have been?" Strange as it may seem, nearly all answered the question with the name of "Napoleon." Ninety-nine out of a hundred to whom the question was submitted would have been Napoleons. There were a few scattering votes and some of those were cast for Edison, the American inventor, the only American who was thought of by the French women. Woodrow Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt and Victoriano Huerta were alike passed up by them.

We take it that what those women were thinking of when they expressed their admiration of the little corporal of French history, was achievement. Napoleon did things and he did them in an heroic manner and on a scale of magnificence which has never been equalled in the history of the world. His stage was the whole of Europe, with parts of Africa, and the spectacle that he enacted almost exceeds human comprehension. And yet one might wish that the women had selected a better man. When the glamor and the magnificence have been removed, Napoleon was a scourge. He filled Europe with widows and orphans. Hundreds of thousands of men went to their graves in youth in order that his thirst for glory might be gratified. We see in Napoleon magnificence, but nothing that appeals to the better side of human nature.

The Herald is pleased to acknowledge receipt of a copy of the 20-page Souvenir Edition of the Enterprise Record-Chieftain which was issued last week. The edition pictures half a hundred scenes throughout Wallowa County and contains well written descriptions of the various resources and pursuits of that county. The publishers of the Record-Chieftain have gone to a good deal of expense and have put in many hours of hard work to put before the public an edition of such high class and are entitled to lots of credit.

With the demise of the Inter Ocean, standpatism loses its last prominent advocate in Chicago journalism. For several years the paper has been kept alive only by the contributions of its stockholders who had often come to its relief, hoping that the tide would turn and they would be reimbursed in good time. It took them long to discover that standpatism was really dying, but they found it out at last and gave up the struggle.

Those who are interested in the Mexican war will be delighted with the following which we clip from the San Francisco Star. It says it is impelled by a worthy desire to rescue from indignities a much injured friendly tongue to offer the following first aids in pronunciation of familiar Mexican-Spanish names, now being ruthlessly slaughtered by Americans:

Villa, in Castilian Spanish Veelyah, but in Mexico Vee-yah.

Huerta, Werta—not Hoo-erta; "h" in Spanish is always silent; "u" has the sound of English "w".

Tampico, Tam-pee-ko, not Tamp-co-ko. Usual rule in Spanish is to place the accent on the penultimate, or next to last syllable.

Hermosillo, Er-mo-see-yo.

Saltito, Saul-tee-yo.

Laredo, Lah-ray-do.

Chihuahua, Chee-wa-wa.

Jimenez, He-ma-nes.

Juarez, Hwah-res; "j" in Spanish as English "h".

These tips should be of immense value in "Mexican War" discussions. Paste 'em in your hat, and talk with hat in hand.

MUFFLED KNOCKS

What has become of the old-fashioned souse who used to look at himself in the mirror back of the bar, and sing "My Mother Was a Lady?" We are all ready to condemn a man who speaks disrespectfully of the dead. But if he says something ornery about the living we are all ready to applaud him.

An eastern oculist says that gazing at an object against which the sun is shining causes myopia. Anyway, when the silhouette shows up we are going to risk one eye.

There was a time when a rainy Monday set the community back because the women folks would have to put off wash day until Tuesday. But nowadays the laundry wagon arrives, no matter what the weather does.

Cincinnati Enquirer: They fall in love at first sight. Then they get married, take a second look and fall out.

Sometimes a man never realizes that he is fat until he discovers that his stomach is crowding him away from the table.

A man can't help being bow-legged. But if he adds side whiskers to his other calamity there is no hope for him.

A new metal can stand a strain of 1000 tons to the square inch. Shucks! Any fat woman's straight front can beat that.

The main reason for the high cost of living is that most of us can bull ourselves into the belief that we can afford things we can't afford.

When the second baby comes along, paw has to buy a new baby buggy because the old one doesn't match the new baby's complexion.

Every now and then you will run up against the sort of man who will short-change a newsboy out of a nickel and drop the nickel in the collection plate on Sunday and imagine that he has paid his fare to heaven.

ATTENTION Threshermen

I make a business of repairing Combine Harvesters, Threshing Machines, Engines, etc., and guarantee all my work. Experience has shown that money can be saved by having machinery put in working order before harvest and you should not fail to have your repair work done early. Don't wait until harvest starts, as you did last year.
