G. W. Chapin, one of the up-to-date farmers in the Hardman country, was in the Herald office yesterday and paid for a subscription to be entered to Andy Rood's credit. This makes the required number of subscriptions in order to insure Andy a wife. We had the girl signed up last week but we haven't seen her since and it is suspicious that she has made other plans. We have another in sight, however, but any girl who is looking for a mate can leave her qualifications with us.

True economy tells you to buy an electric iron. Four ironings a month will consume at least seventy-five cents worth of wood and for that price you can use an electric iron. No surplus heat, no waits, or annoyances recommends the electric iron. While you are thinking about it, order the iron, you'll be agreeably surprised at the way it works. The H. L. & W. Co. always has them.

Art Hunt had a little misfortune with his new Ford car. While on the McHaley hill between Heppner and Lexington the machine suddenly overturned and caught him underneath it and bruised his shoulder. His son-in-law and three boys were in the car but jumped out and were not hurt. The car was not injured much and Art will soon be as good as ever.

Charley Marshall, the boy who was injured by falling off the porch in his sleep some time ago, was in Heppner last Tuesday having his injuries cared for. He says that he is feeling fine and that he intends to sleep on the ground floor from now on. He was accompanied by his sister, Catherine.

Leo Gay was in Ione for the Fourth. He recently came from Ridgeway, Wash. where he lives. His wife went to Pomeroy, Wash. to visit her folks and will return in a few weeks. Leo says that everything looks good near his place and that he will return as soon as harvest is over here.

Luther Huston lost his stallion last Tuesday night. The animal took sick and nothing could save him. He had insurance on the animal until a short time ago but when the company failed he did not insure in another and the animal's death caused him a complete loss.

Geo. Sperry and Frank McCollough were having some fun with a horse during the celebration at Rhea Creek when the animal broke its front leg trying to get through the corral. There was no gun in the peaceful, law-abiding crowd and they had to sever its jugular vein.

Charles Keley and Oscar Meeks arrived in Heppner Friday evening from Forest Grove. They were accompanied by their families and have come to Morrow County to locate. John Doubleday, father of Mrs. Kelsey and Mrs. Meeks, came with them.

Miss Ruby Evans left for Seattle today. She has been visiting William Wilson and family and Jim Wilson left on the same train. Jim said that he didn't know just how far he would go but it looks to us like he intended to see the young lady safely home.

Mr. William Wilson and family are entertaining a niece, Miss Ruby Evans of Seattle. This is the first time the Wilsons have seen Miss Evans for a long time and Mrs. Wilson is thinking of returning to Seattle to stay for a month or six weeks.

Gene Penland from twelve miles south of town was in the Herald office Wednesday. He says that harvest has begun in that section and the wheat and barley will go at least 25 bushels to the acre. He left a little change with us for the Herald.

Joe Woods, Dave and Arthur McAtee returned Wednesday night from John Day City where they attended the races. They said that the races were fine and John Day knows how to entertain.

William Salzwedel, a prominent farmer six miles west of Heppner, was in Noble's Tuesday and bought a new set of millinery for his horse. William says that there is nothing too good for the Dutch.

John Doherty, who lives on Butter Creek, is laid up for the harvest. He came to town the first of the week with a sore hand which the doctors found was infected with blood poison.

George Sperry says that John Hughes better get all the good out of that medal that he can because he intends to put a few finishing touches on his lawn and invite the inspector down.

C. E. Jayne went to Portland on Wednesday's train. He expects to go to Tacoma and Seattle later on to spend a month. C. E. was taken into the Moral Squad at the last meeting.

Earnest Moyer, Dan Henshaw and Mr. Luttrell were Heppner visitors last Wednesday from the Black Horse section.

No iron does the quality of work that the electric iron does. At the present time you don't have to buy one to enjoy using it. The Heppner L. & W. Co. will furnish you one for seventy-five cents a month. Twelve months' consecutive use makes the iron your property. If you iron you can't afford to be without an electric iron, especially when one year's use makes it your's permanently. 11-1f.

Mr. C. B. Cox has sold his interest in the Phelps Grocery Company. He had been thinking of it for some time but made no definite decision until this week. Mr. Cox wanted to be out in the air as the inside work did not agree with him. His place will be taken by Mr. Alex Green, formerly of Heppner but who is now in Fries, Virginia. Mr. Green has a wife and two children and will be here in September or October.

Mr. Cox is now in the Vaughn hardware store for a few days after which he will haul grain for the rest of the summer. He is a congenial man and Mr. Phelps says that it was a mutual separation and the store prospered while Mr. Cox was in the firm. The store will be run as it has been in the past and the people of Heppner will welcome Mr. Green and family as members of our community.

is a young lady of personal charm, refinement and high culture. She traveled quite extensively in the fall of 1912 and spring of 1913 and it was while on a trip to the Hawaiian Islands that she became acquainted with Mr. Jackson. The latter came to Portland about a month ago and their intimate friendship soon ripened into love, culminating in their marriage.

Mr. Jackson expects to enter into business in Portland in the near future and they will make their home in the Rose City.

Mr. Jackson is certainly to be congratulated.

A faithful husband, a kind father, a true friend, an honorable and upright citizen has passed from our midst to the Great Beyond—Peace to his Ashes.

The editor of The Herald had the pleasure of meeting John Kiehn, one of the progressive young farmers near Ione, while at the celebration last Saturday. Mr. Kiehn had just finished heading the first 320 acres of his 900-acre wheat crop. From the first 75 acres he cut 9 stacks each 16x 60 feet. He is confident that the 320 acres will easily make 25 bushels per acre on an average and from his entire 900 acres the average will not go below 20 bushels. John says an automobile will make his traveling a little more comfortable this fall.

Another Oregon pioneer, Mr. Thomas Marlatt was summoned to the last journey on Friday, July 3, 1914. Mr. Marlatt was born in Wilmington, Illinois, November 8, 1837. He crossed the plains in the early fifties and settled in Marion County, Oregon. From there he moved to Morrow County, where he became identified with the then "Pioneer Settlement." He was twice married. His first wife being Mecie Penland. To this union two children were born, a son and daughter. The son died in infancy. The daughter is now Mrs. Laura Crabb of Cavendish, Idaho.

And John is not only making good at wheat farming. He has a hundred head of fat porkers that will be in good shape for the market right after harvest. A dozen milk cows also add profit to his labors.

Last winter Mr. Kiehn had a well drilled on his place and work was finished on same the day before Christmas. He finds this well one of the greatest improvements he has made on his ranch.

Above all, Mr. Kiehn is satisfied with life, not particularly because he is harvesting a big wheat crop, or because his other farm labors are proving profitable, but—and let's whisper this last piece of news—because Mrs. Kiehn presented him with a new daughter just a couple of weeks ago. Yes, things are moving nicely for Mr. Kiehn in this year of our Lord, 1914.

Early in life Mr. Marlatt adopted the policy of treating his neighbors as he wished to be treated himself and after living a long life—more than the three score years allotted to man—his neighbors say of him, "He was a manly man," and in his daily life he carried out the teachings of the Golden Rule.

His death was due to a stroke of apoplexy. Funeral services were held at the family residence, Sunday morning, July 5th, at 10 o'clock. Rev. J. V. Crawford officiating. The remains were interred in the Masonic

Mr. William Hart of Goldendale, Washington, returned home Monday. He has been visiting here since Friday with Mrs. Frank Bayless.
