speaking slightly of his ability either.

Just a few days ago the French government ordered one hundred armored automobiles for war purposes and it looks like they will find plenty of use for them. We might remark that in the year 1803 a Frenchman by the name of Cugnot built a self-propelling machine and suggested that Napoleon use it in a military capacity. It can be seen at the Paris Museum today, but you would never think of calling it an "automobile," and it is safe to say Cugnot was never "pinched" for exceeding the speed limit. Just ninety years later, the first automobile of American make was evolved in Kokomo, Indiana. The make—guess?

Automobiles are now becoming the property of the common people. They have been a tremendous power for good. Walt Whitman, the wise and good poet, sang of the joys of the Open Road; but to realize, fully and completely, the joys of the Open Road, cultivate the auto habit. The auto puts you in touch with the blessed Out-of-Doors. It is good to be on a friendly footing with Dame Nature, to love the clouds and the sky, the trees and the flowers and the brown earth, Mother of Men. It's a great thing to accept life as it comes, and if you can be on good terms with yourself, you will be with other people. "You can't be here and be there," declared the Seven Wise Men of Greece. And it was so. That was before the automobile came in, however. I almost forgot to say, step in and have a little chat with our friend Bowker, he's a good fellow to know, anyway, it won't cost you anything.

The People's Cash Market is making special prices at the present time on bacon and hams. If you need any of these now it the time to take advantage of the reduced prices. It is a good habit to drop into their market occasionally, it will mean money in your pocket.

GRANDEUR OF ALASKA.

Bewildering Scenic Beauty of Our Frontier Wonderland.

Alaska should no longer be called "No Man's Land." Alaska is our frontier wonderland, and by united efforts we must make it the empire of the north. It is not Every Man's Land because it will not tolerate weaklings; but to the thoroughbred it will offer indescribable inducements. It is a territory unique in its geographical situation. In its climate, in its physical beauties, Point Barrow, its northernmost cape, is warmer than any point in the world as far north of the equator. Its southern shores are likewise warmer than any point in the world in similar latitudes during the winter months as the result of the influence of the Japan current.

Isothermal lines show that some of the southeastern sections have a climate more temperate and more equable than that of Washington. Its two climatic belts are known as the coast region and the interior. The coast region is rainy, has mild winters and cool summers. The interior region is, for the most part, dry, has severe winters and short but warm summers. The immense quadrangle is divided into three zones by lofty mountains, which leave between them broad plains, through
