SCHOOL NOTES

By Supt. S. E. Notson.
On the first inst. I visited the school in District No. 32, which is under the guidance of Miss Margaret Howard. The enrollment is ten. New window shades have been provided, and several other improvements are contemplated. The outbuildings are good and in good condition. A new fence, a new porch, a stable for the horses of those who ride to school, and a cistern are among the recent improvements to the premises. The term will be nine months.

In the Fairview district, Miss Mabel Wood is at the helm. The enrollment is eight. This school has three or four framed pictures, some of which are of the standard type. The pupils are arranging to have the flag displayed outside. The building will be repaired and the windows changed so the light will be admitted from the left side only. A new dictionary has been purchased recently. The term will be eight months.

Mrs. Alice Nichols presides over the Gooseberry school. The enrollment is ten. The opening exercises of this school are inspiring. Although the school had been in session only a few days, the pupils did some excellent singing. A can of water is kept on the stove to furnish moisture for the atmosphere.

At the Hale Ridge school, Miss Ruth Bowman and eight pupils were working busily. The boys have constructed some play apparatus for the grounds. They have arranged to erect a flag pole, so the flag may be displayed outside. New window shades have been ordered. A closed jar for the water supply has also been ordered, and plans are being made to purchase new desks. The board, patrons, teacher, and pupils are determined to make the school a standard school if possible.

Miss Alice Wilkins teaches the Rocky Bluff school. The enrollment is ten. The pupils are getting started nicely in the work of the term. This school has a good flag, but no flag pole has been erected as yet. There has been some talk of building a new schoolhouse, but it is not probable that this can be done until next year. However, some improvement will probably be made in the way of new outbuildings, which it is hoped will be built before winter comes on.

At Eightmile Center Mrs. Joyce Hays and 14 pupils are getting started nicely in the work of the term. During the past year a cistern has been built for the water supply and a new wood house and barn, combined, has been erected. Quite a number of new desks have been recently purchased. This school has a good book case for the library. It is expected that the literary debating society will resume its work soon.

An exchange rises to remark that we don't need new laws nor the abolishment of others nearly so bad as we do the enforcement of those we have. If the howlers would spend one-half of the money for a campaign of law enforcement that they do for the enactment of new ones we would all be better off.
