DRY PERIOD DID NOT HELP

census of 1910 we had only 4460. There is not a vacant dwelling in the city. Apartment houses are all filled. One of the biggest hotels in the Northwest, the new Hotel Pendleton, just completed, is taking care of families who can find no other suitable domiciles, while some people who wanted to live in Pendleton could not find houses and were compelled to live in tents, and quite a number could not locate here at all. There are more men carpenters, plumbers, masons, painters, mechanics and all classes of labor, at work in Pendleton today than ever before, and they are all earning good money.

I would like to hear from some of the responsible local dry people in answer to the above statements, but not from paid agents or professional agitators.

JOSEPH ELL.

The above article appeared in the Sunday Oregonian of October 23. The gentleman whose signature appears above, has been a councilman for many years in Pendleton and is well qualified to speak on this or any other similar subject. The same conditions existed in Heppner under prohibition. Every citizen knows it to be a fact. Anyone who wanted booze got plenty of it, such as it was, and drunks were more common on the streets of Heppner than they are now.

During the time the town was dry no improvements were made to speak of. Since then our little town has been going ahead at a steady gate. It is a matter of common knowledge that the First National Bank of Heppner has more deposits than any bank in the same size town in the State. We have a fine large school building, a garage second to none in the country, a new furnishing store, a new blacksmith shop in course of construction. $20,000 worth of improvements to the Heppner Light & Water Co's plant, permanent fair buildings, our streets are in the best condition they ever were, the churches are all in good financial shape, and every residence and nearly every business house is occupied.

The undersigned believes in bettering conditions in every way possible, but prohibition did not do it before, but made it worse, and if conditions were worse in Pendleton and Heppner when prohibition was in force before, what reason have we to believe they will be bettered by a second trial.

It does not appear to The Herald that the Dentistry Bill is deserving of a place on the ballot, and should be defeated by the voters. Under the present law a dentist, who feels he has been unjustly treated by the State Board of Examiners in applying for a license to practice has recourse in the courts of the state. Just mark your ballot 341 X No and kill another one of those needless laws. We have a surplus of them now.

South Portal to Palace of Food Products, Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, 1915

Copyright, 1914, by Panama-Pacific International Exposition Co.

THIS portal is probably the most modern in feeling of any doorway to any of the main group of exhibit palaces. The portal is Italian renaissance in form and treatment, but much of the ornamentation is of more recent origin. The photograph gives no idea of the great dimensions of this portal, which is sixty-six feet in height to the tip of the ornamentation surmounting the arch. The eagles above the line of pilasters of the portal are six feet in height. The Exposition palaces are constructed of grayish cream plaster in imitation of Travertine marble.
