Society News

The pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wattenberger in southeast Heppner was the scene of merry-making Friday evening when the Misses Gladys Wattenberger and Cecil Devore entertained between the hours of 7:30 and 10:30 p. m. The yard was decorated with grinning jack o' lanterns and other Hallowe'en novelties. The guests were attired as ghosts and "spooks," and the true Hallowe'en spirit prevailed. The flower decorations were white chrysanthemums. The evening was pleasantly spent with music and the playing of games. Delicious refreshments were served.

The W. R. Irwin home was the scene of another delightful Hallowe'en gathering last Friday evening when Mrs. Irwin entertained in honor of her son, Ellis. The guests were Ellis' classmates from the fifth grade of the Heppner Public Schools. The girls came dressed as boys and the boys were dressed as girls. The hostess had arranged a number of games which were very appropriate for the occasion. The home was very tastefully decorated. Delicious refreshments were served.

Friday evening at eight o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. George Sperry Jr. were happily surprised at their home in West Heppner. This was their first evening at home since their marriage two months ago. First, they were treated to a charivari. The guests were invited in, and surprised the bride by giving her a "linen shower." The following were present: Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Gentry, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Thornton and Mr. and Mrs. Poe Hayes. Mr. Ed Rugg of the Nunamaker ton and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hayes.

A very enjoyable Hallowe'en party was given in the basement of the Federated Church on Friday evening, October 30. The invited guests were principally pupils of the Heppner High School, who came masked, and arrayed in Hallowe'en apparel. Games suitable to the occasion were indulged in and refreshments were served. The room was tastefully arrayed with appropriate decorations.

The sixth and seventh grade pupils of the Heppner High School gave a Hallowe'en entertainment Friday afternoon under the direction of Miss Walker. The schoolroom was decorated with jack o' lanterns, black cats and witches. A goodly number of parents and friends were present to listen to the program, every number if which was creditably rendered.

Mrs. Dr. Gaunt departed yesterday from Heppner for Salem where her husband, Dr. Gaunt of Hardman, will locate in the near future. The Gaunts will be greatly missed by their many warm friends at Hardman and the surrounding country.
