Miss Georgia Shipley went to Portland Monday, where she expects to remain for some time and attend school.

Mrs. Ed Adkins is seriously ill this week. A trained nurse came from Portland Wednesday to help care for her.

W. J. Beymer, president of the Farmers and Stockgrowers Bank, accompanied by Mrs. Beymer, returned Wednesday from a visit at Portland.

T. J. Humphreys is moving his drug store this week into the Roberts building, corner Main and Willow streets. The new location is one of the best in the city and the room is large and well lighted. When fully settled and to rights Mr. Humphreys will have one of the handsomest drug stores in this part of Oregon.

E. H. Carpenter, postmaster and merchant of Eightmile, was in town Wednesday on business. Mr. Carpenter is on the cripple list this week as the result of his saddle horse falling on him a week ago, his leg being severely injured below the knee. He reports everybody busy in his neighborhood, which is one of the biggest wheat belts in the county.

F. M. Parker who recently sold his fine ranch between Heppner and Lexington was in town from Walla Walla Thursday. Mr. Parker has purchased a small home tract near Walla Walla and expects to retire from active business and make his home there. With his family, however, he expects to spend the coming winter in California, returning to Walla Walla about May 1st.

LEXINGTON ITEMS

Mrs. Florence Beach is entertaining her brother this week.

Grandpa Booher returned from Athena Sunday where he has been visiting relatives.

Tom McDandel is back in Lexington after a month's visit with relatives and friends in Washington.

Guy Nordyke and Janie Helms came in Tuesday evening to attend the funeral of their aunt Mrs. Jane Penland.

Geo. Broadley has sold his interest in the blacksmith shop and is settling his affairs getting ready to go to Idaho to spend the winter.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hunt Monday, October 22, 1917. The young soldier has been named Edward Le Roy and Alex is busy passing around the cigars.

The school children are distributing "Help Hoover" cards. Every housewife is urged to save—not skimp—and lessen waste of foodstuffs and thereby help win the war.

Ed Burchell, wife and children and his mother, Mrs. Barnhill have returned from a week's visit at Walla Walla and Pomeroy. Ed says the trip was great but the roads were what Sherman says war was.

Mrs. Jane Penland, an old and respected resident of Lexington, and widow of the late Wm. Penland who founded the town, died at her home here Monday, October 22, 1917. Old age is given as the cause of death. The funeral was held at 11:00 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Miss Delia Marie Cason, Lexington's popular telephone operator, and Mr. Roy T. Cochran, of Ione, were married at the home of the bride's parents in Heppner, last Monday evening, Rev. H. A. Noyes officiating. Both young people are well and favorably known and many friends will join in congratulations and best wishes.

Miss Dorothy Alice Howell and Mr. Joseph West were married at the Lexington hotel Wednesday evening, October 17. The bride is the only daughter of Mrs. Frank Mason and is deservedly popular. The groom has been a resident but a short time but has already made many friends. All who know the happy couple will join in wishing them a long and happy life together.

The Professor Worried.

The absent minded professor from the university town was in Indianapolis attending a convention. While in the city he took a tour of the larger department stores. In one of them he was much perplexed.

He read the sign over the door of the elevator:

"This car express to fifth and sixth floors. Up only."

Absently he read the sign again. Then the car door opened.

"I would like to know," he asked the elevator boy, "if this elevator goes only up, how on earth did you get down here?"

The elevator boy grinned, frowned, scrutinized the man closely and then said in a dignified voice, "Oh, I just came down."—Indianapolis News.

Putting the Cat Out at Night.

The practice of turning the cat out of doors at night is as cruel as it is unnecessary. No animal is fonder of warmth and comfort, and the pet's happiness certainly is not increased by a night spent outside in cold and dampness.

If as much energy was expended in keeping the cat indoors as too often is expended in putting her out, how great would be the boon to human nerves and unfortunate wild things! All felines are normally nocturnal, and it is at night, if ever, that a curb on their activities is needed.—Lee S. Crandall, in "Pets."

True Economy.

There are great joys in practicing true economy in the right spirit. True economy, you see, is not abstinence from necessary things—not at all. The joys of true economy are for those who make the most of what they have; who, finding what may be theirs, proceed to the extraction of the greatest benefit from what is within reach.

Too Much Flopping.

First Coed—Why, Doris, how tired your eyes look!
Tired One—Yes, my dear; I rolled them too much this evening.—Syracuse Orange Peel.

New Fall Models in Wirthmor Waists

The Standard Dollar Waists of America

This Blouse is developed of a very pretty fancy striped Voile—a new Fall I-1 material. The front center is of plain white Voile solidly tucked, lending a most pleasing effect. The large collar, coming to deep points in front and turn back cuffs are also of plain white Voile. Sleeves are inset with hem-stitching. A model that will be much admired.

A simple, appealing model that almost anyone, be they large or small, I-2 could wear becomingly. The front is solidly tucked almost to shoulder seams with tucks of alternating widths. The collar is so fashioned that it is equally attractive when worn upstanding or laying down. Collar and turn-back cuffs are outlined with dainty Venice Pico edging. Two very large ocean pearl buttons for fastening. Made of a splendid quality of Voile.

A neat, semi tailored model, simply and effectively trimmed. The collar I-3 is convertible—can be worn high or low. The front is attractively trimmed with pretty embroidery and four full length tucks with short shoulder tucks for fullness. Sleeves are finished with turn-back cut in point effect. Three large ocean pearl buttons for fastening are ornamental as well as useful. A practical, sensible, serviceable Waist.

Somewhat more elaborate than the other three models in this group, and I-4 a Blouse that has the appearance and character of a far more costly model. The embroidery covering entire front is particularly pretty and distinctive; while the collar is embroidered all over in matching design. Hem-stitching is liberally applied on collar, down front fold, and to inset sleeves, lending added refinement. A Blouse that will find favor everywhere.

We highly recommend them because of their unusual merit—and genuine worth.

Notice for Publication

Department of the Interior, U. S. Land office at The Dalles, Oregon, October 29th, 1917.

Notice is hereby given that Leonard J. Barnside, of Hardman, Oregon, who, on November 30th, 1914, made Homestead Entry No. 014174 and on April 5th, 1915, made additional Homestead Entry, No. 014691, for S½ N½, NE¼ SW¼, S½ SW¼, SW¼ SE¼, Section 25, Township 4-South, Range 24-East, Willamette Meridian, has filed notice of intention to make Final three year Proof, to establish claim to the land above described, before C. C. Patterson, United States Commissioner, at Heppner, Oregon, on the 7th day of December, 1917.

Claimant names as witnesses: Tilden H. Wilkins, Edward Craber, Wilber Knighten, Frank Glasscock, all of Hardman, Oregon.

H. FRANK WOODCOCK, Register.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ayers, of Hardman, had a narrow escape one day last week while coming up the Heppner hill in their car. They drove up behind a loaded wagon when the binding pole came loose and fell striking Mrs. Ayers on the head, rendering her unconscious for a short time, otherwise she was uninjured.

THE PLAY OF "HAMLET."

Does it Always Make the Dane and the Gravedigger Enemies?

In his "Notes on Shakespeare's Workmanship" Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch says that "Hamlet" was written not for an audience of Greeks and "coleridges, but for an audience of ordinary men and women." And, speaking of its popularity, he says that to this day a traveling company of [British] actors, thrown on their beam ends for lack of money, having acted this or that to empty houses, always as a last resort advertise "Hamlet." When an actor takes a benefit, "Hamlet" is the piece most commonly chosen. But why does the gentleman who enacts the first gravedigger also choose "Hamlet" for his benefit night?

I was once assisting at a dress rehearsal of "Hamlet" when the first gravedigger came off the stage in a passion. In the greenroom it exploded. "Why," he wished to know, "should I be treated like a dog by this concerted (col?)—meaning our Hamlet, of course. His temper gets viler at every rehearsal. Surely, after airing his vanity through four acts, he might be quiet while I have my little say!"

"Bless you, sir," answered an old dresser, "it's always like that. In these forty years I've helped dress, I dare say, all that number of Hamlets, and Hamlet and the First Gravedigger always fall out. It's a regular thing. I've known 'em to come to blows. Hamlet and first gravedigger! When you've said that you've said oil and vinegar."
