Better Civic Spirit Needed.

Every once in a while something turns up in Heppner which forcibly demonstrates the utter lack of cooperation among the people of the town in matters regarding the civic welfare. The latest is the small tempest in our community tea pot regarding the removal of the old livery barn from lower to upper Main street.

Clearly Mr. Stewart was entirely within his rights in purchasing the old building and removing it to his property farther up the street and outside the newly established fire limits. Everything he had except his lot had been wiped out in the fire and he naturally was anxious to re-establish himself in business. Likewise the business men and property owners in the block where the building stood were within their rights in subscribing a sum of money sufficient to pay for the removal of the building. They recognized the fact that the building, as do all buildings of its class, constituted a serious fire menace to their property and that the character of the business was not the most suitable for a close-in, congested district. Nobody could blame them for taking the action they did in protecting their property and beautifying their section of the city. Had the property owners on the upper street shown the same commendable spirit of progress and civic pride they might also have subscribed a sufficient sum of money to buy Mr. Stewart's lot and give him a chance to buy a more suitable location elsewhere. The fire-swept district on upper Main and Chase streets is all splendid residence property—and good residence property is becoming scarce in Heppner—and the presence of a livery barn in the middle of that district is bound to detract materially from the value of surrounding property.

The building is there, however, and with some repairs is probably good for 35 or 40 more years of usefulness and nothing that can now be said will change the situation. The Herald, however, cannot refrain from pointing out that lack of cooperation and lack of civic pride has resulted in the present situation and to urge that as other matters of a similar character come up they will be handled in such a way as will reflect credit on Heppner as a modern and progressive city.

Wonder if Kaiser Bill still thinks the Americans don't know how to fight?

Oscar Borg returned from an extended Eastern trip Wednesday afternoon during which he visited Chicago, New York and Washington, D. C. Mr. Borg went east as far as Chicago with R. F. Wigglesworth, who shipped a train load (23 cars) of sheep to market, Will Ball and John Vaughn also making the trip. The party had a tourist sleeper on the trip and report having had a most enjoyable time. After leaving Chicago Mr. Borg took the 20th Limited for New York and after spending several days there he went down to Washington for a few days visit. He says the East is a mighty busy place and on every hand are striking evidences that the country is at war on a big scale.

Emile Groshen, who has been in Idaho all summer with his mother's band of sheep, returned Tuesday evening bringing with him the ewe band after having sold the wethers to good advantage there. He says the range is very rough in that country and it is not safe to stay much after this time of year on account of snow. Sheep feed is fine here now on the range and also on the stubble fields where the volunteer wheat is making a heavy growth since the rains.

Mayor Smead left Thursday morning for the State Fair at Salem with a very creditable exhibit for Morrow county. As secretary of the Morrow County Fair association, Mayor Smead is entitled to much credit for the good showing made under very adverse circumstances at the recent county fair and he will also no doubt bring home some honors from the state exhibit.

"Carnation" Is Good News On the Busy Farm

"Carnation" to the hurried farmer—at this time of year especially—means freedom from the costly annoyance of caring for milk cows.

To his wife it is just as much a blessing, for it gives her exactly the quantity of fresh, sweet milk she needs whenever she needs it—and no straining to do, no pails and pans to scald and wash.

is "The Answer to the Milk Question" everywhere—in town and country. Carnation is most convenient because it is always ready—economical because there is no waste—and absolutely safe because it is sterilized. Remember, only pure cow's milk in every can.

The very next time you go to town get a couple of cases of Carnation from your grocer.
