THE UNITED WAR WORK CAMPAIGN

The most stupendous sum of money, $170,500,000, ever asked for in the history of the world as a soldiers' welfare fund, will be contributed by the big-hearted, patriotic people of the United States during the eight day period from November 11 to 18 inclusive.

The Herald makes the assertion that this magnificent sum will be contributed, and in so doing it speaks advisedly.

Since the United States entered the world conflict, thereby assuming her share of responsibility in the titanic struggle which means so much to the plain people of the earth, her citizens have more than met every demand. Every issue of Liberty Bonds have been over-subscribed; every appeal from the Red Cross and kindred organizations has been met in a spirit of liberality and whole-heartedness never before witnessed in the history of mankind. The injunction of the Master, "when a man asks for thy coat give him thy cloak also," has been obeyed in every instance. The Fourth Liberty Loan, which was for a sum double that of the third, was oversubscribed by almost a million dollars and it is safe to assume that in the coming campaign in which the seven great welfare organizations are asked for funds with which to carry comfort and good cheer to our boys across the seas the same Christ-like spirit of helping to bear the burden of another will be manifested.

Raising such a huge sum of money might not have been possible at the time the United States entered the war; it might not have been possible a year ago nor six months ago. The country was then suffering from unpreparedness in the matter of giving as much as it was in the matter of guns and ships and munitions and fighting men. But during the time our boys have been in training getting themselves in physical condition to meet and conquer the spirit of autocracy which has flooded the world with blood and misery, we who remain at home have also been in training. We have been imbuing the spirit of helpfulness—of giving to a cause that we now know is our cause and the cause of humanity.

Seven great welfare organizations are represented in this drive: The Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the National Catholic War Council, Knights of Columbus, the Jewish Welfare Board, the War Camp Community Service, the American Library Association and the Salvation Army, and each one of them have already more than made good in their ministrations to the boys "over there."

While five of the seven organizations may be said to be representative of different religious bodies it may also be said that in the service they are rendering to our soldiers and sailors in the training camps and on the battle fields there is no such thing as sectarianism. No matter whether a soldier is Jew or Gentile, Catholic or Protestant, recruited from a fashionable up-town church or from the slum district where the Salvation Army has for so many years reached out a helping hand to the social outcasts of the earth when he is cold and hungry and weary from the stress of war, no questions are asked when he comes near to the hut or canteen of any of these organizations. He is an American soldier and that is the only passport needed to secure for him the rest and care and attention—the food and warmth and comfort, yes, and if you please, the tobacco of which he stands in need. Another injunction of the Master is thereby carried out without qualifications: The hungry are fed, the naked are clothed, the sick and wounded are given attention. The humanitarian philosophy of the man Jesus, of which no greater has ever been given the world, furnishes a common ground upon which all creeds have been united in an unselfish service.

It is to carry on this service that you and I will again be asked to give, and we will give, willingly and gladly, every man according to his means.

RED CROSS NOTES

In a registered letter from division headquarters the following information was received in regard to Cross members who will be delighted to know that definite provision has at least been made for caring for soldiers who have no friends or relatives to whom Christmas Parcel Labels can be sent. An army order issued overseas direct such soldiers to mail their Christmas Parcel Labels to the American Red Cross at Washington D. C. As rapidly as these Labels are received at National headquarters, they will be sent to the division offices and from there distributed among the chapters, giving each as near as possible its approximate share. It would of course be fine if every chapter could receive the Christmas Parcel Labels of the boys without relatives and friends who have gone into the service from the chapter jurisdiction. Owing to the short time remaining this is impossible, as National Headquarters must send the first labels received to the Western Divisions.

Under this arrangement we shall be certain that labels received from Western boys without friends or relatives will be taken care of by Eastern Divisions, even if they arrive on the very last day of mailing.

We may only get to fill a few cartons but would like all those who want to help send Christmas cheer to one of these friendless boys overseas by filling a carton for them kindly put your name with Mrs. W. B. Irwin, Chairman Christmas Parcel Committee.

Those branches and auxiliaries not having sent for Christmas cartons for their boys overseas, please let us know how many are needed as soon as possible. Saturday and thereafter as scheduled there will be a Red Cross rep-Hughes' and Phelps' to distribute. Upon return of cartons properly filled and inspected it will be weighed by the Red Cross, postage paid by sender and left with the Red Cross for mailing.

In a report just issued the American Red Cross War Council states that 20,000 nurses have been enrolled by the Department of Nursing of the Red Cross to October 1. More than 17,000 of these nurses are serving soldiers and sailors, half of this number already being on duty overseas. About 10,000 of those in service with our forces here and abroad are with the army. Seven hundred nurses, women, have been assigned to the Federal Public Health Bureau or to the Red Cross service in the United States and the remaining 12,000 include those not available or eligible for active service, but who may be called for when the need arises.

About 5,000 additional nurses will be needed by the army alone before the end of the war, according to the report. Should the war continue in the present manner, it is estimated that the total number of nurses required in the military hospitals here and abroad by next July will be 50,000. These nurses, the report states, are based on an army of 2,000,000 and a navy of 350,000, or approximately one nurse to each 74 of the military and naval population.

To meet the nursing requirements of the coming year a campaign will soon be inaugurated in which each state will receive an allotment, a duplication of the plan by which thousands of nurses were enrolled during the past summer. The department of nursing of the Red Cross is the reserve for the Army and Navy Nurse Corps.

The Red Cross has spent about $850,000 in equipping nurses assigned to duty abroad. Approximately $1,500,000 of an appropriation of $1,719,357 has been expended in equipping base hospital units. The organization has equipped 50 of these units and assisted the Army Nurse Corps in organizing two others for the army since our entrance into the war.

For the navy it has organized or is completing the organization of eight base hospitals and 17 naval station units. Each base hospital unit has 500 beds and 60 nurses. Originally planned to cost about $35,000 they now cost about $50,000. In addition to this war service the Red Cross department of nursing is continuing its regular health work in this country. It is supplying nurses at points where contagious diseases appear to be making headway. Its most recent activity along this line being its effort to combat the spread of Spanish influenza.

Distinction between the Red Cross and the Red Cross is being made. Dr. Turner Eva Speddlot of Portland will be in Heppner again Monday Nov. 18th at 10:00 AM at the Red Cross home. In fact, Tuesday Nov. 19th. Consult him. 27423

Red Cross Annual Message.

The annual message of the War Council to the chapters of the American Red Cross has been released for publication. From it we glean the following interesting facts:

May 1, 1917 the Red Cross had 486,194 members working through 562 chapters. July 31, 1918 it had 20,648,103 members besides 8,000,000 members of the Junior Red Cross one fourth of the population of the United States. This tremendous membership carry on the work through 3,854 chapters and some 30,000 branches and auxiliaries.

Total actual collections from the first war fund to date are more than $115,000,000. Subscriptions to second war fund were $176,000,000. Approximately 8,000,000 women are engaged in Red Cross work.

Up to July 1, 1918 the work room had produced: 490,120 refugee garments; 7,123,621 hospital supplies; 10,786,489 hospital garments; 10,124,501 knitted articles; 192,748-107 surgical dressings.

Chapters were entitled to retain 25 per cent of the amount collected to defray local expenses, for home service work and to purchase materials. They were thus entitled to retain $29,000,000; as a matter of fact they have retained but $22,000,000.

June 1, 1917, 18 men and women sailed for France as the first Red Cross workers to go over. By January 1, 1918 there will be more than 5,000 workers in France.

The Red Cross is also operating in England, Italy, Belgium, Switzerland, Palestine and Greece and a ship load of supplies and workers have recently been despatched to Russia as well as to Siberia.

At Christmas time every man, woman and child in the United States will be given a chance to answer the Red Cross roll call and thus become identified with this army of mercy.
