A GOOD BILL TO KILL

SENATE BILL, No. 31, introduced by Senator Orton, of Multnomah county, is a pretty good one for the legislature to choose for early slaughter. The bill proposes to create a Department of State Police consisting of a superintendent at a salary of $3,000 per annum; a deputy superintendent at a salary of $2,400 per annum and twelve officers at a salary of $1,500 each, per annum. The superintendent shall also be provided with "suitable offices" at Portland. The sum of $60,000 is appropriated to pay the salaries and foot the bills of this department or an average of around $4,300 for each of the fourteen men. This is considerably more money than the average eastern Oregon sheriff draws for performing, faithfully and well, the responsible duties of his office which includes not only the duties of chief peace officer of his county but also that of collector of taxes.

The sheriff of a county is elected by the people who know him and who are acquainted with his qualifications and character. He is the choice of a majority of the people and, if found recreant to his trust, he is amenable to the people and subject to their recall at any time.

Under the provisions of this act the members of the State Police Department are to be clothed with "the same power with respect to criminal matters" as is the sheriff within his particular jurisdiction but by the same token, they are responsible only to their superintendent. The people of any county in which the state police might operate will have no word to say. Whether right or wrong in their actions the state policeman will be in a position to snap their fingers at the people as long as they have the backing and support of the superintendent of the Department who appointed them.

Oregon had some experience last year with an organization known as the Oregon Military Police and that experience should not buy Senate Bill, No. 31, many votes in the legislature nor anywhere else. That organization was widely heralded during the spring and early summer as the only salvation for Oregon against spies, slackers and all other varieties of law breakers. They were sent out with a great hurrah to guard the shipyards and wheat fields. Only for their valor Oregon could not be expected to build a ship or save a bushel of grain. But before the summer was over, according to published newspaper reports, the managers of the shipyards requested the governor to withdraw his military policemen as the ship builders preferred to supply their own guards at their own expense.

Morrow county had a bunch of these military police gentlemen as her uninvited guests during the summer and if they accomplished any useful thing in lieu of the salaries they drew, we fail to remember it.

At a time when harvest hands were at a premium these big, brawny youth—most of whom would have made ideal "ho-downs" on a threshing outfit, slacked their raging thirst in the ice cream parlors (moonshine being at a premium) tried to pose as soldiers in their cotton khaki and kidded themselves with the belief that they were "mashers."

If Multnomah county and Portland are so lawless that their sheriff's office and police department cannot cope with the situation but feel that the public well demands anything akin to the Oregon Military Police of 1918, let them get a special dispensation for state aid but for God's sake don't allow them to saddle such a travesty on law-enforcement on the rest of the state.

How About that Contemplated BUILDING?

The Government has reduced the ban on building. Or rather raised the price. Instead of a $1,000 limit on new buildings, you can go ahead now if it don't cost in excess of $10,000.

LOST, STRAYED OR STOLEN

From my ranch or the adjoining range, the following described animals:

One roan mare, coming three-year old; one sorrel mare coming three-year-olds, both branded cross quarter circle on left stifle.

Two blue geldings, coming three-year-olds, both branded cross quarter circle on left stifle, small cross quarter circle on left shoulder.

They are all good sized work animals and I will pay a liberal reward for their return to me or for information leading to their recovery.
