VICTORY LIBERTY LOAN

Are you going to be able to greet the last returning soldier boy to Morrow County with clean hands? Will you be able to step up to him and say: "Well, Buddy, I was with you all the time. I didn't go to France but Uncle Sam never got a turn down from me." You know what those boys had to go through with—surely you will do your part in helping the government do the right thing by them now. Help Morrow county keep her hands clean.

TYPHOID is no more necessary than smallpox. Any person who has contracted typhoid has been contaminated by some unclean article or person. The vaccination with the typhoid vaccine is the only sure way to protect yourself. It is made from the typhoid bacteria. Ask your physician, Dr. J. W. White, or Dr. J. W. White, Heppner, Oregon, for the typhoid vaccine. The Cutter Laboratory, Berkeley, Cal.

WILL SHOW WAR TROPHIES IN EASTERN OREGON

The following itinerary has been arranged for A. D. Weir who is appearing in the interest of the Victory Liberty Loan with an exhibit of war trophies, including his private collection made during service of more than a year as a "Y" secretary of the western front. Mr. Weir is added to this a showing of souvenirs provided from the war trophy train which toured Oregon recently.

This exhibit has been sent out to appear at points that cannot be reached by the trophy train.

Mr. Weir's western Oregon exhibit has been seen by several thousand people and has been declared one of the most interesting features of the campaign.

ROAD CREWS ALL BUSY

County roadmaster McCaleb reports that the big caterpillar grading outfit is now at work on the Rhea creek road and it is the intention to work that road thoroughly from Jordan siding to the Rugg place. The big new grader recently purchased is expected to arrive within ten days and will be first tried out on that road.

The rock crew is still working in Buttermilk canyon near Rock creek.

The horse grading outfit is being moved into the Lena district and extensive road improvements will be made there.

It is the intention to set up the rock crusher on Rhea creek near the Rugg place and keep it in operation all summer.

ROOSEVELT HIGHWAY WILL BENEFIT EASTERN OREGON

Though it is a fact not generally known, Tillamook county, the most productive dairying section of the state of Oregon, has to ship in hay and other forage for its dairy herds. On this account farmers of eastern Oregon profited to the extent of $100,000 in 1918. While the Tillamook section and the coast country in general boasts as fertile soil as can be found anywhere the grasses there are not converted into winter fodder, for the reason that the product is more valuable for grazing dairy cattle.

Tillamook county was not the only coast country that proved to be a good customer of the alfalfa raisers of the irrigated lands of eastern Oregon. All the rest of the seven coast counties purchased hay as well, though in smaller quantities.

The proposed Roosevelt Highway along the coast would open up a great agricultural empire in that region, and in a few years millions of dollars would flow out to the hay producers where now only hundreds of thousands are spent by the dairyman.

In 1918 Tillamook county sold throughout the United States two million dollars worth of cheese and dairy products alone. This gives an inkling of what will be the result if millions of acres of land like that in Tillamook are opened up to cultivation and settlement through the medium of the Roosevelt Highway. Based on what has been shown in Tillamook county, $100,000,000 worth of taxable property would be added to the wealth of the state if the rest of the coast region is developed in like manner.

Grass is green every day of the year on the ocean side of the Coast range of mountains, and the climate is so mild that cattle do not need to be kept in barns and fed, as in other dairy sections of the United States, notably in the middle west and on the Atlantic seaboard, but as has been stated already, it has been found more profitable to keep the land sowed down to cover pasturage for the dairy herds than to raise hay thereon. That is why the coast country will always be a great market for eastern Oregon hay.

A Home Planned For You

Every home builder desires to build a satisfying home, avoiding the danger of making an experiment out of the work. This cannot be done if you plan your home on a shingle or a piece of butcher paper. And further there is no need of your going to the expense of employing an architect, in an effort to get what you want. Most people build, thinking they know what their building is going to look like. Wise builders start only after they know what their home is going to look like.

The service we have to offer you not only shows you what your home is going to look like, but allows us to tell you what the complete cost will amount to. This avoids disappointments, guards against extras and other unforeseen items of expense. This service is for the prospective home builders that want to make every dollar count. It costs you nothing. Call at our office, we will be glad to help you.
