"Sister's crosser'n a bear; mamme has a headache and I can't make any noise! all the other boys have gone sliding, and I can't go?"

David Burbank roamed listlessly about the house in search of something to pass away time. A slight cold was the reason be wasn't allowed to go silding with his chams.

He failed to find anything among his playthings that appealed to him, so he struck a few notes on the plane, but was promptly told by sister Adele "to stop that noise!"

The little fellow wondered what made Adele so cross. She was munity a good pal with her young brother, but today she had only cross words for

"What's this?" he queried aloud. "Sister must have forgot to mall her letters: I'll go mail 'em, then maybe she won't be so cross at me."

He had caught sight of a pile of letters, but failed to notice that each one had been opened, and that they were all but one addressed to his sister. He counted them; there were twenty-four

He quickly put on his cont, cap, rubbers and mittens and, taking the letters under his arm, proceeded down the street.

Davie walked on a little further, then quite suddenly he retraced his steps. He had an idea. Why not play be was the postman, and leave the letters at different houses?

With him, to think was to act, so be didn't stop to consider the fact that be might not leave them at their intended designations, but quickly ascended the steps of the nearest house and dropped the letter at the top of the pile into the muil box. Then he rang the bell and hurried on.

He repeated this at four or five houses, then decided to try different streets. Ere long be come to the home of Wilhur Downes. Wilbur was a particular friend of Adele's. In fact, although the little brother didn't quite understand the situation, he had been Adole's promised husband, but only a few days previous they had parted with bitter words.

"Guess PH beave two letters for Wilbur," was the lad's next inspiration. He excefully selected two fai letters. from the bunch and dropped them in: the hex-one at a time.

HOMES MAKE GOOD CITIZENS

To Own One's Own Home Means Acquirement of a Certain Standing in the Community.

"He's a home owner and a tarpayer," is the best recommendation any man can have in his own community. It gives him a standing forthwith, not o much as a person of some financial importance, but as a dependable, substantial and self-respecting citizen. wisely regardful of his own and his family's happiness and best interests. and at the same time an asset to the neighborhood in which he lives. So universal is the home-loving instinct that it might almost be said there is something wrong morally with the manor woman who does not care to own a home; and that is why the malcontents, the habitual industrial disturbers and the socially restive that inflict themselves on all countries are of the element that is very largely without home ties.

Unless all signs fall, this is to be the great American home-building year. Stimulated by the government's urgent advice to "own a home for your children's sake," and by the injunction that during the war it was patriotic not to build, now we can best show our patriotism by building, there has been a tremendous revival in the sentiment for home ownership. The indientions are that the unhappy classes of renters and boarders will be greatly depleted before the end of 1919, and that there will be many thousands or additional families entered upon the life of happiness and contentment to be found only in the home.

The price of building materials today is not high, as compared with prices of other commodities, and the community that does not add materially to its total of homes this year is likely to be rated as lacking in patriotism as well as good business Judg-

Captain Forman Makes an Official Report on Conditions to the American Relief Administration-No Bread for Weeks.

New York .- Before the bolshevists abandoned Riga they murdered most of the civic leaders, played machine guns on the persons in one prison and sacked the homes of the wealthy, according to an official report received. here by the American relief administration.

This report, made by Capt. Howell Forman, head of the administration's Baltic mission, and forwarded by Herbert Hoover, director general of the organization, asserted that inhabitants of Riga, heartened by the arrival of American supplies, had turned on their oppressors and now were hunting down bolshevists and executing many

The report warned that "a large radical element is left in the population. and failure of the authorities to provide food until the city can get on its feet again might lead them, with the assistance of the bolshevists still in hiding, to attempt another uprising."

Relative Drying of Mucosa of Mouth and Pharynx Is Pre-Eminent Factor.

Cambridge, Mass, - "Thirst is a "purely local phenomenon," according to Dr. W. B. Cannon of Harvard.

"The pre-eminent factor is the rela tive deging of the mucosa of the mouth and pharynx. This may result from excessive use of the passage for breathing, as in prolonged speaking or singing, or may be caused by de ficient salivary secretion."

Doctor Cannon says the latter cond! tion represents true thirst, dependent on the fact that the salivary glands which keep the buccal and pharynges' mucosa moist require water for their proper functioning.

It is nothing but pure cow's milk evaporated to the consistency of cream.

In creaming vegetables, in making bread, pastry and cakes-wherever you use milk in cooking-it gives a flavor that is very appetizing. Cernation can be whipped like cream, when thoroughly chilled of course, which proves its quality.

Carnation is used by thousands of people just as it comes from the can for cream on fruit and cereals . and in tea and coffee.
