TEACH LOYALTY TO FOREIGNERS

FORD ENGLISH SCHOOLS INCULCATE PRINCIPLES OF PURE AMERICANISM IN STUDENTS.

TRIAL DRAWING TO A CLOSE

Attorneys Begin Final Arguments After Ford Counsel Presents Dramatic Testimony On Educational Work.

Mt. Clemens, Mich.—Henry Ford's counsel kept until the final day on which testimony was presented, the strongest arguments in their possession. Not until the trial was within a few hours of its close did they bring to the witness stand Clinton C. DeWitt, superintendent of the Ford English school.

"Mr. Ford," said the witness, "was of the opinion that you could not successfully put over one idea while there were 52 languages spoken in the factory, so to promote that one idea, which was and is Americanism, he insisted that every workman must learn to speak the 'American'—not the English—language.

"There were 3,000 students in the school before the United States entered the war and the factory was practically turned over to government work."

Sample lessons were read by the witness. Parts are given as follows: "Every good American loves and respects the United States flag.

"Our flag stands for liberty, justice and peace.

"Its colors are red, white and blue. The red stands for love, the white stands for purity, the blue stands for truth."

"American flags," said the witness, "were used profusely in the school room and a silk flag always flutters before an electric fan.

Teach Americanism.

The men are taught that there is no greater title than "American citizen" and are urged to accept the advantages of education offered by this country so that they may fit themselves, through knowledge, to defend their liberties.

Pictures of great Americans adorn the class rooms, special exercises are held on the birthday of great leaders of the nation and finally, when the class graduates, it is presented with souvenir American flags and is given membership in what is known as the "American Club." The Federal and state courts recognize a diploma from the Ford English school as an evidence of adequate preparation for citizenship, it was shown.

Through this testimony counsel sought to bring out that the man who taught 3,000 foreigners to love their adopted country and to respect its flag could scarcely be called an anarchist and that a man who sought every possible method to instill love for the Stars and Stripes in the hearts of those who come to it from foreign shores, could never have made the slanderous statements attributed to him by Tribune counsel.

Mr. Ford, it was shown, loaned all his educational workers to the government at the time war broke out. The war department found the methods used in the Ford English school so valuable that they introduced them in all training camps. Henry Ford paid the salaries of the men he loaned to the government for the work.

Closing Arguments Open.

Closing arguments in the case opened the last of the week. Attorney Wm. Luching led off for Ford counsel. He called attention first to the testimony which showed that The Tribune, set for intervention in Mexico because it thought such action would lead to conquest or at least to great riches for the United States, had found Henry Ford blocking its path just when its long campaign gave promise of bearing fruit. Thereupon, said the attorney, The Tribune set out to destroy Mr. Ford's influence, to sweep him out of its path and to still his voice which pleaded for a course which would help the bleeding republic to the south to regain her feet and to strike forth on a new highroad of education and freedom.

Attorney Weymouth Kirkland opened for The Tribune. He declared that what Mr. Ford had done since 1914—when The Tribune called him an anarchist—had nothing whatever to do with the situation as it was when the newspaper stigmatized the manufacturer as an enemy of his country. He did not deny that Mr. Ford had done an immense and valuable work for the government during the war but he claimed that this did not alter the facts as they were before war broke out. Mr. Ford, the attorney insisted, was an anarchist at the time. The Tribune described him as such, and the truth he said was sufficient justification for the attack.

Water and the Human Body.

The specific gravity of water and the human body is virtually the same. A body in the water is supported by equal pressure on all points. It is more likely to be at ease than under other circumstances. It is, therefore, more likely that it may move without pain. In cramps are often given their exercise in the water.

STATE GAME WARDEN'S BULLETIN

In an opinion given by Attorney General George M. Brown, to Mr. M. A. Biggs, district attorney for Harney county, the shooting season for ducks, geese and other migratory waterfowl has been definitely settled. Confusion has existed in the minds of many shooters on account of a difference in the Federal and state seasons. The state cannot legislate within the closed season of the federal regulations, but it can legislate within the open season. The federal open season is three and one-half months, but the state, if it cares to, may close any portion or all of this federal open season. The shooting season, therefore, which must be observed by hunters throughout Oregon is as follows:

For Multnomah, Clatsop, Columbia and Tillamook counties the open season begins on October 1st and closes December 31st. In all other counties of Game District No. 1, which comprises all that portion of Oregon lying west of the summit of the Cascade mountains, the season opens on October 15th and closes on January 15th. In all counties of Game District No. 2, which comprises all that portion of Oregon lying east of the summit of the Cascade mountains, the open season begins on October 1st and ends on December 31st.

It has been hoped that the federal and state laws would conform, and recommendations to this effect were made by the Fish and Game Commission, the rod and gun clubs throughout the state the Oregon Sportsman's league and many individual hunters who had given much study to the seasons. The original draft of the Game Code included a uniformity of seasons, but the position was taken by the Game Committee of the Legislature that the Federal regulations were unconstitutional and, therefore, would be inoperative. Since the legislature has adjourned, two federal courts have upheld the federal regulations. It was the clear intent of the legislature to give equal hunting seasons. This would have been accomplished had not the federal law intervened. The state law is operative and will be enforced in so far as it does not conflict with the federal law. The dates given above are those within which hunters may shoot and be within both the federal and state law.

DUST STORM PREVAIL

Heppner experienced two fierce "dust storms" last Saturday without any perceptible wind. Heavy winds prevailed in the sandy country north of Ione and Lexington Friday and Saturday and after carrying dense clouds of dust high in the air it drifted over Heppner and surrounding districts and fell to the earth in clouds. The same phenomena occurred Saturday afternoon. If the real estate men could have drawn down a regular commission on all the real estate that was moving that day they might have retired from business and taken up golf.
