Lincoln's "Lost Speech."

On the twenty-ninth of May, in 1856, Lincoln made a speech at the first Republican state convention in Illinois that is remembered as Lincoln's "Lost Speech." Lincoln, who was one of the delegates, was suggested for governor, but he proposed that William Bissell should be nominated instead. The suggestion was accepted and Lincoln addressed the convention for one hour, speaking with such fire and eloquence that the surprised and interested reporters forgot to take notes and his great speech was never recorded.

At Home.

The program at the Twentieth Century club was on Joan of Arc, her tortures and imprisonment. A small boy had been allowed to accompany his mother and had seemed much interested in the program. On the way home he said: "Take me again, mother. I like that Penitentiary club."—Cartoons Magazine.

PLANT RIGHT KIND OF TREES

Expert on Subject Offers Advice to Outdoor Art Committees of Town Booster Clubs.

Booster clubs for town planning and civic improvements are the natural outgrowth of our war-time defense and patriotic leagues. Our suburban towns should not overlook this opportunity to utilize these war-time organizations in furthering the welfare of their communities. Many interesting activities can be carried on, for the improvement and beautification of your town and community. I would suggest the following as being important, interesting and practical.

Have your boosters' club appoint an outdoor art committee. The members of this committee should be citizens who can give considerable time, are public spirited, self-sacrificing and appreciate what town improvements mean. This committee should recommend the adoption of an ordinance for the protection and regulation of tree planting on all the public streets.

It should condemn the planting of soft wood short-lived varieties of trees like the willow, boxelder, cottonwood, poplar and soft maples. All of these are a nuisance and in many cases destructive. The roots of the willows, poplars and cottonwoods fill the sewers and injure pavements, while the box elders and soft maples are always seriously affected by insect and fungus diseases.

Only the hardwood long-lived varieties should be recommended by this committee, such trees as the American elm, red and pin oaks, sycamore, Norway maples, lindens, ginkgo, ironwood, locusts, etc. These trees will grow to be several hundred years old, are not seriously affected by insect and fungus diseases and seldom look shabby or unsightly.—J. H. Prest in Chicago Daily News.

BILLBOARDS HIT BY DECISION

By Ruling of Supreme Court They May Be Barred From Residence Districts.

The power granted cities by the United States Supreme court to eliminate billboards altogether in the residential districts is hailed with approbation by the American Civic association in a bulletin which it devotes to the billboard evil. The decision which protects the millions of dollars invested in homes and civic improvements was rendered in the case of the Cusack company against Chicago.

The Civic association, in the strongest language, urges communities to protect themselves from the intrusions of billboards in the residence districts. It calls the billboards "eyesores," which depreciate property values. Los Angeles already has taken advantage of the power given it by the Supreme court to bar billboards from all parts of the city except business districts. Whether a block is in a business district is determined by the written consent of the owners of 90 per cent of the property in the block and the two adjoining blocks.

So it will take the permission of the owners of two-thirds of the frontage in three blocks to erect billboards along one block. The billboards may be banished at any time upon the request of the owners of 35 per cent of the frontage.—Kansas City Star.

Appropriate Gardens.

Much that has been said in regard to the house applies equally well to the garden. Let its style be determined by locality. Formal gardens with neat hedges and direct paths are more and more appropriate as we approach the conventionalities of city life. Leave the picturesque gardens to spacious, picturesque surroundings. Winding paths and other features of the natural garden require to be close to nature. An orchard is both more useful and more beautiful in the proximity of the small house that is not far from town. The cost of maintenance is least in the orchard garden with paved paths, flowering shrubs, and borders of perennials.

Improve the Grounds.

Unfortunately, indeed, is the family which has no trees or shrubbery about the house and which has permitted this much of 1919 to go by without planting anything. Piling up of money, land or stock for some one else to use at the expense of some of the comforts and pleasures easily obtained for a home is not only poor judgment, but poor business policy.

No Need of Haste.

There was a rookie in the same squad I was in who objected strongly to drilling. He executed "squads right" and "squads left" in gloomy silence, but when "double time" was given he growled loud enough for the whole squad to hear. "Hey, what's the hurry? We ain't goin' nowhere."—Chicago Tribune.

Hearts Asunder.

"We can never marry." "Why not?" "I am the heroine of a summer novel, while you are merely the hero of a daily storyette."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Mystical Thirteen. In the Indian Pantheon there are 13 Buddhas; the apex of an Indian or Chinese pagoda is crowned with 13 mystical disks. The sacred sword, preserved in the Temple of Atsusa, in Japan, has 13 objects of mystery forming its hilt. When playing whist and many other games of cards each player has 13 cards and the pack is made up of four suits of 13 each.

Had to Split Up. Little Jack, very much impressed with his first night in a berth on a Pullman sleeper, said: "Why, grandma, the flats were so small we couldn't all live together. Mamma and I slept in the first flat, and Daddy in the second flat."

Where the Banjo Came From. The modern banjo was introduced into England from the United States, to which country it was probably taken by the African slaves, who originally obtained the idea from India. The unmusical name "banjo" seems to have been derived from "banya," the name of a Senegambian instrument of the guitar species.

Ancient Rock Drawings. A huge buffalo with enormous horns is conspicuous in prehistoric rock drawings lately found in Algeria. The African elephant is also a striking feature, and other animals include the lion, leopard, gazelle and domestic goats and sheep.

Pipe Built Like a Cornet. A tobacco pipe of unusual design has been invented by Warren Murray Baschiel of Hagerstown, Md. Every pipe smoker knows that the longer the stem of his pipe the cooler will be the smoke. Pipes with stems of one foot long have been in use in different countries for many years, but their awkward length precluded their use outside of the house. The inventor of the pipe circumvented the difficulty by coiling the stem of the pipe like the tube of a cornet or signal horn. The coils are connected at their lower end to form a dripping chamber for receiving the saliva which accumulates in the stem. Each coil has an independent opening into the dripping chamber and a screw cap at the bottom gives access to it for the removal of the accumulated saliva. The smoke, in passing through the coils of the stem, is drained several times of saliva and nicotine.

Prelude to Adventure. "I have placed my will in my safety deposit box," grimly said J. Fuller Gloom. "My pockets are filled with condensed and desiccated foods. I shall attach the end of this stout cord to a convenient projection, light a candle and enter, crawling carefully among the stalactites and stalagmites, paying out the cord as I go, and—"
"Great heavens, Mr. Gloom!" ejaculated an acquaintance. "Are you contemplating exploring some vast and dismal cavern?"
"Yes, I am going into our Kansas City post office for the purpose of having weighed, purchasing stamps for, and mailing this parcel-post package."
—Kansas City Star.

Liquid Accident. Secretary Elmer Thompson of the Automobile Club of America said in New York the other day:
"The automobile gets the blame for everything. A man lay in the middle of the road one evening, surrounded by a large crowd. An old lady pushed her way into the crowd and said:
"Poor fellow! Poor young fellow! I suppose an automobile ran into him."
"No, ma'am," said a policeman. "It wasn't an automobile that ran into him this time."
"What was it, then?" said the old lady.
"It was a keg, or maybe a keg and a half of beer," said the policeman.

What You Make It. "After all," a man writes, "life is merely the act of going to one's grave." Not much in that; it is hardly worth printing. Life is long and full of interest, opportunity and pleasure. Life is abused unjustly and untruthfully.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.
