E. A. HARTWELL ACCIDENTALLY KILLED ON EVE OF QUITTING HIS JOB

Former Resident of Ione Meets Death Near Kelso, Washington, By Falling Tree

E. A. Hartwell was fatally injured yesterday afternoon while working as a faller at the Morse Shingle Mill on Brayton mountain four miles east of Kelso. When the tree fell it struck back and a block struck the unfortunate man in the head. He died while his companion was running to the mill for aid. He had been working at the camp for but a few days and planned to quit tomorrow night and return to town to other work. His wife died about a month ago. He is survived by six children of whom three are grown and three are small.—Oregonian.

Mrs. Chas. O'Neil and three children left Saturday morning for Kelso, Washington, to attend the funeral of her father, E. A. Hartwell. We express our deepest sympathy to the bereaved family.

Mrs. H. M. Cummins has returned home after spending a few weeks at Underwood.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Akers left by auto Wednesday for Freewater where they will make their home. They were accompanied by their son, Lowell, and his family who also expect to locate at that place.

T. B. Buffington formerly of Ione, but now of Pendleton, motored to Ione Sunday evening and spent Monday in the city.

Harry McCormack's residence with all its contents was burned last Wednesday morning, October 15. It seems as though Mr. McCormack had prepared his own breakfast and gone to work when his oldest daughter arose and through mistake attempted to start the fire with gasoline. It exploded and caught her self and little brother's clothes afire. Through the presence of mind they rolled on the ground to put the fire out, but not until they were badly burned. The last report the little girl is improving. Mr. McCormack has moved into the Fred Riddie house on Second street. The Ione people assisted them in every way they could.

Hon. Lewis R. Horton of Spokane, gave a most interesting lecture last Wednesday evening. His subject was "The Torch of Civilization." Mr. Horton has been working the past 14 years for the Anti-Saloon League and is doing a great work toward national prohibition for which many long to see. At the close of his lecture he presented Miss Denny's room, the first and second grades, with a beautiful U. S. flag her room receiving the most number of votes.

Harold Dobyns, who traps for the government arrived Tuesday evening to visit a few days with his mother, Mrs. Herb Olden. Harold has been to Kings Gate, Canada, trapping.

Mr. E. F. Sorenson motored to Arlington Friday evening where he took the train for Portland to spend a few days on business.

Mrs. Catherine Linn left a few days ago for her home in Ripley, Ohio, after spending the past year with her son, P. J. Linn of this city.

Mrs. Holmes Holeman and daughter, Majory, spent the week end with her cousin, Mrs. Fred Phillips, of Olex.

C. E. Shaver received word of the serious illness of his wife who is at Pendleton visiting her son, Will Ganger. Mr. Shaver left Monday for that place.

Nat Hale spent a few days in Ione visiting with old friends.

Rev. John Sampels will preach on Sunday, October 26th, both morning and evening in the Ione Baptist church. The topic, "The Feast Out of Sin." Rev. 13th chapter, or "The League of Nations As It Stands, in The Light of Prophecy." All are invited to come.

IONE SCHOOL NOTES

Morrow County Athletic and Declamatory Contest

The principals of the town schools and the county school superintendent after several meetings last week at the teachers' institute formed an athletic and declamatory association for Morrow county. The county is divided into four contesting divisions as follows: Boardman and Irrigon division, Ione division, Lexington and Pine City division, Heppner and Hardman division. Each division includes the near-by rural schools.

The association is under the control of an executive committee consisting of the county school superintendent and the principals of the Boardman, Irrigon, Ione, Heppner, Hardman, Lexington and Pine City schools. The county school superintendent is ex-officio president of the executive committee. Rollien Dickerson of Lexington, was elected secretary of the association and D. W. Bolthoff of Heppner schools, was elected treasurer of the association.

The constitution and by-laws provide for a field meet and declamatory contest to be held in the county each year at a place to be designated by the executive committee. The committee decided to hold the meet in Lexington on the first Saturday in May of next year.

The by-laws provide that the teachers for each contesting division to represent it in the annual field meet shall be made up of three divisions, which are to be designated as "A", "B" and "C" respectively. Those competing in the "A" division must not have reached their 21st birthday; the "B" division their 16th birthday, and those in the "C" division must not have reached their 11th birthday, on or before the day of the meet.

The teachers attended the county teachers' institute in Heppner last week on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The social committee for the high school student body consist of Clara Linn, president of student body and Vera Engleman and Edene Moore.

Miss Martha Denny has resigned as primary teacher to take effect as soon as the school board can secure a primary teacher to take her place. Miss Denny's reason for resigning is on account of poor health. We are sorry to lose her from our school and community as her work has been entirely satisfactory.

The Ione school is glad to join every body else in the district in boosting for our local newspaper—The Independent.

The school has subscribed for the following newspapers and magazines and have them on the library reading table: Normal Instructor and Primary Plans, Educational Administration and Supervision, American School Board Journal, Good House-keeping, Modern Priscilla, Manual Training Magazine, Nature Study Review, Pathfinder, Atlantic Monthly, Boys' Life, Independent, Ladies Home Journal, Literary Digest, Popular Science Monthly. These magazines are for pupils, teachers, school board members and parents. Any one in the community may borrow any of these newspapers and magazines. Have your boy or girl bring home one of the magazines of your choice.
