Worth Seeing.
We don't know much about this circus that's coming, but we hope it's the one that attended not long ago. "There was a fellow," he said, "that bent all the rest. Sure, he balances a ladder on his nose, climbs up to the top and pulls the ladder up after him."—Boston Transcript.

ALASKANS ARE MAKING GOOD

They Show Marked Inclination Toward Good Citizenship and Patriotism.

What the Alaska natives are doing and are willing to do in proof positive of their fitness to live under the Stars and Stripes is impressed on all who come in contact with the natives and their numerous activities along lines of advanced citizenship and patriotism.

By way of a minor illustration that shows which way the wind blows with them: The natives in Juneau, through the press, advocated the killing of dogs, that there might be more food for human consumption. They advised their native friends to protect the deer from their dogs that might kill deer during their helpless condition following this last winter's deep snows, when many starved and all were weakened for lack of food.

Down at Kake the natives have only about one-third to one-quarter the number of dogs that they had last year. One who went through the village last fall and again this spring remarked on the fact that there were almost no dogs in town.

"Yes," said a representative citizen, "the natives became convinced that from a sanitary standpoint and an economical standpoint they were keeping too many pets. As a result of this conviction they began reducing on dogs and improving on health and food supply."

Another point that impresses even a casual observer is that the natives all take local newspapers and read carefully—often very slowly—the events that are taking place locally and throughout the world. If a native is not a regular subscriber to a newspaper, you may be sure it is because he cannot read one word of English or any other printed language.

OUR CAPTURED FLAGS ABROAD

Emblems Taken During the War of 1812 Are Safely Preserved in London.

A recent walk through Chelsea brought me to several places of interest to Americans. Firstly, the old Royal hospital, built in the reign of King Charles II, the great hall of which is now used as a recreation room for the old pensioners and from whose walls a number of flags captured during the 1812-1815 war are suspended.

The colors hang sedately side by side with Napoleonic eagles and other war trophies, and if it were not for the records it would be almost impossible to discern their story. Among them are flags of the Sixty-eighth and Eighty-fifth regiments captured at Bladensburg; the Kentucky regimental flag, the Fourth regiment of United States Infantry, taken at Detroit; the Second regiment of the United States Infantry and another taken at Queens-town Heights.

I wonder how many Americans know of their existence. It would certainly be a graceful act of the British government to return them to America. No doubt the American authorities have some similar trophies which they would be pleased to exchange.—London Landmark.

Assists Visits to Graves.

According to a report received here the American Young Women's Christian association overseas has been requested by the United States army to keep hotels to care for relatives visiting the four large American military cemeteries in France. The first hotel will be opened at Reims, near the cemetery where is a small town, and prior to this had no hotel accommodations. A cable also states that hotel Petrograd, the Y. W. C. A. hostess house in Paris, which was to have been turned into an American women's club with an information bureau and guides, for the benefit of women relatives going to France to visit soldier's graves, is now being used for the emergency housing of 200 British and French girls working with the American army.

Life One Leap Year After Another.

There exists at least one place in the world where men consider it below their dignity to notice women at all, much less make overtures of marriage. Consequently the proposing is left to the women. When a New Guinea woman falls in love with a man she sends a piece of string to his sister, or, if he has no sister, to his mother or to another of his lady relatives. Then the lady who receives the string tells the favored man that the particular woman is in love with him. No courting follows, however, for it is considered beneath the dignity of a New Guinea man to waste his time in such a pursuit. If the man thinks that he would like to wed the lady, he meets her alone, and they decide whether to marry or drop the idea.

Albanians Glad of Pajamas.

It is estimated that several hundred miles of unbleached muslin has recently been sent into pajamas for the Albanians, most of whom are in rags. Indeed, the shirt of one Albanian had scraps of 287 different kinds of cloth in it, when he "traded it in" for the stylish and neat suit of pajamas which he now wears proudly through the streets.

Always Some Drawback.

"They say Maude's second husband has $10,000 a year. How comical she must be."

"She isn't, though, exactly. A man of that grade doesn't hand his wife his pay envelope, you know."

Meteorites of Great Age.

Meteorites of indicated great age, are not found in museum collections, and it is suggested that such specimens may disintegrate and disappear from the rocks within a relatively short time after falling.

The British Museum, however, has acquired a slice weighing somewhat less than a pound from a meteorite iron that is believed to represent an ancient fall, says the Newark News. The slice is from one of two similar masses that were found in January, 1905, within a few miles of Dawson, Klondike, and that, from their position in the oldest gravels of the district, are thought to have rested there since the Pliocene age.

Production.

"Didn't you say the swords would be beaten into plowshares?" "Yes," said Farmer Cornstossel, "but it seems like we can't get the hired help to keep up with the plowshares."

Cheer Up and Gear Up.

It takes cheer and gears to make this old world go. The average man has so many things that hold him back that he is in danger of giving up. But the great men of the age are the product of trial. They come through the furnace tried and fitted for life's obstacles because they have dared face the up-grades with a smile. Emerson says, "Nature, when she adds difficulties, adds brains." That may not seem to be true while we are under trial, but the saying holds in the long run. And, besides brains, you must have a reasonable measure of good cheer. It's so easy to go down because there is nothing in the mind to add resistance to the constant thud of adversity. You must cheer up as well as gear up if you are going to win.

Fishermen Had Good Day.

Three South Portland (Me.) fishermen, Dr. George W. C. Studley, Percy York and Captain William York, were out after groundfish when they sighted a swordfish. They had no swordfish fishing outfit, but with a stove poker and a boathook handle they improvised a harpoon, with which they landed the big fellow. In Portland they sold the swordfish for $60, and the groundfish they had caught—about 1,000 pounds—for $60.

Misdirected Wifely Solicitude.

Mrs. Flatbush—Are you wearing those pretty suspenders, with flowers all over 'em, I gave you for your birthday, Henry?

Mr. Flatbush—No, dear; I was afraid the mail I'm using in place of a button would rust 'em.
