

J. D. French, well known cattleman of the Gurdane country, was in town Monday reporting that his cattle came through the cold spell in pretty good shape. Mr. French is feeding one large hand near Lexington and another on his ranch at Gurdane.

Lawrence Shutt came out from Portland last week to spend the holidays with his parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Shutt and Miss Essie Shutt. Lawrence likes Heppner so well that he may decide to remain permanently in the good, old town.

Do you want to catch the morning train. Call F. A. Case, Main 524, 30c

Miss Helen Barratt, a student at O. A. C., is home spending the holidays with her home folks, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Barratt and family.

Are you going to move? Call F. A. Case, Main 524. 30c

Miss Lovelle Lucas, who is taking a musical course in St. Mary's academy, in Portland, is here spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Lucas.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Bennett, of near Arlington, who have recently at their fine ranch home, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Cochran, on Court street, and will spend the winter here.

Miss Mary Notson is here from Salem spending the cheery holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Notson, and other friends. Miss Notson is a student at old, reliable Willamette University.

Heppner has had water, water everywhere lately only in the mains and service pipes of the city water system. Frost-busted water pipes together with a breakdown at the pumping plant are responsible for the shortage.

Miss Ruth Van Vactor, who has been in Portland since last June during which time she took a course at a leading commercial college and later matriculated at Reed College, is here spending the holidays with her parents and other friends whose names are legion.

Mrs. Frederic is here from Carson, Washington, making a holiday visit with her daughter, Miss Norma Frederic, the popular and efficient cashier at the local telephone office. Mrs. Frederic has many friends here and tho staying at Carson temporarily still calls Heppner her home.

L. N. Traver, of the firm of Snook & Traver, who has the contract for the Elks building and the new hotel, returned Friday from Salem where he spent the cold weather with his family. Mr. Traver says Salem was pretty hard hit with the mercury away below zero and 26 inches of snow on the ground.

L. F. Cline, representing the Concrete Pipe Company of Walla Walla, was in Heppner during the week in the interest of his company. Mr. Cline expects to submit a bid on construction of the Heppner city water system and says he is prepared to prove that concrete pipe is the only logical construction for such a line.

Emmett Hughes, Vawter Crawford, Jr., and Max Rogers, three studious young men of O. A. C., who are doing their bit to maintain Heppner's reputation as the home of that brand of students who always have their lessons and never disobey a rule, are here spending the Christmas season with home folks.

Heppner merchants are a pretty busy lot of good fellows the past week. Old Santa has appointed most of them his agents in the dissemination of gifts and good cheer and they are not sleeping on the job. Come to think of it, Heppner merchants are pretty hard to "cuss" when it comes to real down-to-bedrock square dealing and desire to give good service and this is not a paid local either.

According to the Portland Telegram Dr. A. Road, Jr., of Heppner, is registered at the Hotel Portland, and is recognized as a member of the state board of health in session last week in that city. Just what sort of a job Andy is putting over on the medico is hard to determine but his brother, Harry, says that if he receives any more alarming reports he will wire his sportive relative that the Chinook has struck Heppner flat and the big wheat ranch is calling him.

It's a long time since Heppner was in the big city news and service with the outside world and most citizens look on the "situation" as quite an affliction. Why it should require three or four days to repair two small bridges which were only slightly damaged by the freshet is not clear to the minds of ordinary citizens and can probably only be explained by wise railroad executives who could rebuild washed out bridges in a jiffy under the old regime but who can only kill time and cause the people inconvenience under government operation.
