

Arduous Job.
Outlate—My dear, masin't sit up for me; few forbids night work for women.

Daily Thought.
Great thoughts, like great deeds,
seed no trumpet.—Bailey.

Heppner Farmers' Elevator Co.

Seeding Time Is Here

You'll need a new Grain Drill. We have the BEST. Call and see them

Superior Grain Drills

"The Name Tells a True Story"

Also see our line of PLOWS

Oliver and John Deere

Nothing Their Equal in the Plow line

Peoples Hardware Company

Three Essentials

of sound and successful banking are conspicuous in this institution:

Strength of resources and management.

A complete, efficient and active organization assuring capable service.

The spirit of service which seeks to advance the interests of our customers in every possible way.

Farmers & Stockgrowers

National Bank

HEPPNER, OREGON.

CHANGED HER MIND

BY ELEANOR C. KENYON.

INCREASES YIELD OF WHEAT

Experiment of Treating Seed Electrically Meets With Success in England.

"Well, Marcella, I cannot understand your unwillingness at such a delightful party, one could think to look at you that you were being led to the scaffold instead of reclining there so comfortably and indulging in your favorite pastime," explained Judith Arnold to her friend Marcella Allard.

"You know I must confess that I am not, and the reason that you consider me so delighted has proved to me just the contrary."

"Really, dear, I cannot understand your reluctance such a hochzeit!"

"But Judith," Marcella interposed, "I guess the story is interesting enough that I may bring you back to your old home again with tales of adventure, interests and sudden experiences in great peril and the wonderings of men with courage or gallantry, like St. Apollon, and those beautiful white horses Judith. I wish I could read more concerning warlike cavalry."

"Now Marcella, you're reading me reading about the horses," Mrs. Marshall's voice sounded like the early morning song of a lark in an ordinary companion, as she was so surprised to hear of the wonders of war with charges of gallantry, tales of Apollon, and those beautiful white horses Judith. I wish I could read more concerning warlike cavalry."

"Yes, I think I cannot find it very interesting. I would just love to read of a breswell-like camp march, too. I would be sure that I were satisfied in my mind—had a satisfying ear or a sunny Indian place."

"Look Judith, it was the big red horse and the bravest of heroes that once maneuvered so much—where would the country be if it depended on the gentle hobby or the drowsy room best?" wistfully spoke Marcella, "and you may be sure Judith," she added, hopefully, "if Mr. Khan should ever come along I hope he will have big rough hands."

"Well, dear, I wish you luck, but not faring. I would much prefer the author's description," replied Judith, "but, Marcella dear, I must not forget my second Aunt Louise has written, inviting us up."

"You know Hugh has returned from service—quite ill so Aunt writes, and has brought two friends with him, all semi-adults. One chap, Lieutenant Frederick Parker, who is all alone in the world, and Captain Howard Mason whose home is in the West. So the dear soul is just jubilating over with delight in having Hugh home, and she wants no income and help her sheer up the boys."

"Isn't that splendid of her?" rejoined Marcella. "Of course I'll go. I am glad of the opportunity to do something for Mrs. Parker—and besides, it will be a good chance to demonstrate our achievements in nursing. I am glad, Judith, that we attended the class. Perhaps it will come in handy."

A few days later found them in the comfortable home of Miss Louise, whose face was wreathed in smiles as she greeted them most affectionately while Hugh still quite weak from his long confinement in a hospital, was seated at their coming.

"Mother insists that I am ill, but I am feeling fine," he answered to the solicitous questioning of Judith. "I am sure that under Marcella's and your skillful hands, Judith, that the boys will soon recover. But you must meet your patients," as he led the way to the veranda where his two friends were eagerly awaiting their arrival.

After the usual introductions were over and the girls had refreshed themselves after their journey, it seemed as if it were a reunion of old friends, as the boys told of their experiences.

During the delightful days that followed while Marcella and Judith assisted in the care of the invalids, "Old Capo" was having the time of his life.

Taking a lesson from his many mistakes in the courtship of couples, he worked slowly and deliberately, every move sent with a directness which pleased and caused a strange fluttering in the hearts of his victims.

Narrow, with the help of careful nursing had worked wonderful changes. The winter of ill health had been replaced by the springtime of love, and as the time grew nearer when separations seemed inevitable, Captain Mason told Marcella many things. He told her of his home in the West and of the little mother awaiting him there. He told her how dear she had grown to him during the weeks past and then he spoke of his going home.

But as he gazed at the face unturned to his he spoke of their separation, he knew that his boy was returned.

Copyright, 1919, McLean's Newspaper Syndicate.

Metal Saw.

Not long ago the discovery was made that metals could be sawed easier and quicker with rapidly revolving smooth discs rotated than with toothed circular saws. It was found that the cutting was done by the heat generated by the friction of the edge of the disc against the metal, says Popular Science Monthly. The metal is melted at the point of contact, while the steel of the disc being cooled by the air does not touch the cutting point. The discs need no sharpening and do not wear out so quickly as the toothed saws heretofore used for cutting metal. The faster the disc revolves, the greater the amount of heat generated, and the quicker the job.

Why Not?

Clymer Jeffries, Jr., of Williams, Ariz., four and one-half years of age, recently acquired a small dog and a few days later the following conversation occurred between him and his next-door neighbor:

"Mrs. M., I want you to keep your chickens out of our yard."

"Why, Clymer, what do you mean by that?"

"Well, I have a dog over here, and if your chickens come over here, I am afraid that he will get the chicken pox."

An epidemic of chicken pox was on at the time.

Burlap Bag His Only Garment

240,000
other homeless orphans face it

POSTER BASED ON ACTUAL PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN AT ERIVAN, ARMENIA, BY DR. M. S. LITTLEFIELD.

He is only one of 250,000 helpless child victims of Turkish cruelty and oppression in Western Asia. And just as he stands in the picture this forlorn little fellow, with hunger-stricken cheeks, hopeless mouth and frail, gaunt body, was found wandering in the streets of Egridir, Armenia, by Dr. Milton S. Littlefield of the Near East Relief. He was taken to a Near East Relief orphanage, where it was found that his only earthly possession was the shaggy garment in which he stood—a worn, patched blanket made from a hunk of sack cloth.

"I saw this raged little fellow on one of the busiest business streets of Egridir, not far from the orphanage," said Dr. Littlefield. "He was wandering aimlessly about and no one was paying the slightest attention to him. I did not pose him; the picture shows just the way he stood when I picked him up against a nearby wall."

The photograph is the basis of a striking poster now being distributed by Near East Relief.

WOMEN EXCEED MEN IN JAPANESE FACTORIES

850,000 Japanese Women Work at Average Daily Wage of Ten to Twenty Cents for a Twelve Hour Day.

There are more women in industry in Japan than there are men, according to a statement recently made by the War Work Council of the Young Women's Christian Association.

The world war has brought $50,000 women and girls into the daily grind of industry according to this statement: 100,000 of them little girls under fifteen years of age who work twelve hours at a wage of ten to twenty cents a day, that the world may have silk dresses and munitions.

In Tokyo alone, a city of two and one-half million people, there are 100,000 women employed in sixty-two industries and businesses varying from work as telephone operators, electric stenographers and bookkeepers to work in silk and other sorts of factories and domestic work.

Each year thousands of these women go back to their homes in the country, broken in health and victims of tuberculosis because of the poor conditions under which they work and live. They are housed in dormitories in the factory compound. These dormitories are frequently unsanitary. The girls work long hours, have no recreation and on finishing their long day go immediately to bed, oftentimes a bed which a girl who works at night has been sleeping in all day.

As part of its world service for women, the Young Women's Christian Association plans to build dormitories in manufacturing towns where girls may live cheaply under beautiful physical and social conditions, to send out secretaries who can introduce recreation into the factory compound and direct games and social life.

This is done with the co-operation of the factories' managers and proprietors. One of the most influential of these is Mrs. Suzuki, the most prominent woman manufacturer in Japan, who is owner and manager of a firm which exported $11,000,000 worth of bean oil to America last year.

Recently Mrs. Suzuki decided to employ one thousand women in her offices. She could not find enough well trained ones so she established a permanent school where Japanese girls may be trained to enter the business world. The greatest danger ahead of Japan, she says, is in its growing materialism, and Japan's greatest need, the development of her women.

Young women students from forty-four states and nine countries—China, the Philippine Islands, France, Bulgaria, Holland, Russia, Armenia, Canada and Mexico—are registered in the National Training School of the Young Women's Christian Association in New York.

They are studying methods of Y. W. C. A. work with a view to taking up positions in Y. W. C. A. work either in this country or in other of the countries where the Y. W. C. A. is carrying on its work.

They are opening and expanding its work.

Y. W. C. A. TRAINS WOMEN.

Young women students from forty-four states and nine countries—China, the Philippine Islands, France, Bulgaria, Holland, Russia, Armenia, Canada and Mexico—are registered in the National Training School of the Young Women's Christian Association in New York.

They are studying methods of Y. W. C. A. work with a view to taking up positions in Y. W. C. A. work either in this country or in other of the countries where the Y. W. C. A. is carrying on its work.

They are opening and expanding its work.

Y. W. C. A. TRAINS WOMEN.

Young women students from forty-four states and nine countries—China, the Philippine Islands, France, Bulgaria, Holland, Russia, Armenia, Canada and Mexico—are registered in the National Training School of the Young Women's Christian Association in New York.

They are studying methods of Y. W. C. A. work with a view to taking up positions in Y. W. C. A. work either in this country or in other of the countries where the Y. W. C. A. is carrying on its work.

They are opening and expanding its work.

Y. W. C. A. TRAINS WOMEN.

Young women students from forty-four states and nine countries—China, the Philippine Islands, France, Bulgaria, Holland, Russia, Armenia, Canada and Mexico—are registered in the National Training School of the Young Women's Christian Association in New York.

They are studying methods of Y. W. C. A. work with a view to taking up positions in Y. W. C. A. work either in this country or in other of the countries where the Y. W. C. A. is carrying on its work.

They are opening and expanding its work.

Y. W. C. A. TRAINS WOMEN.

Young women students from forty-four states and nine countries—China, the Philippine Islands, France, Bulgaria, Holland, Russia, Armenia, Canada and Mexico—are registered in the National Training School of the Young Women's Christian Association in New York.

They are studying methods of Y. W. C. A. work with a view to taking up positions in Y. W. C. A. work either in this country or in other of the countries where the Y. W. C. A. is carrying on its work.

They are opening and expanding its work.

Y. W. C. A. TRAINS WOMEN.

Young women students from forty-four states and nine countries—China, the Philippine Islands, France, Bulgaria, Holland, Russia, Armenia, Canada and Mexico—are registered in the National Training School of the Young Women's Christian Association in New York.

They are studying methods of Y. W. C. A. work with a view to taking up positions in Y. W. C. A. work either in this country or in other of the countries where the Y. W. C. A. is carrying on its work.

They are opening and expanding its work.

Y. W. C. A. TRAINS WOMEN.

Young women students from forty-four states and nine countries—China, the Philippine Islands, France, Bulgaria, Holland, Russia, Armenia, Canada and Mexico—are registered in the National Training School of the Young Women's Christian Association in New York.

They are studying methods of Y. W. C. A. work with a view to taking up positions in Y. W. C. A. work either in this country or in other of the countries where the Y. W. C. A. is carrying on its work.

They are opening and expanding its work.

Y. W. C. A. TRAINS WOMEN.

Young women students from forty-four states and nine countries—China, the Philippine Islands, France, Bulgaria, Holland, Russia, Armenia, Canada and Mexico—are registered in the National Training School of the Young Women's Christian Association in New York.

They are studying methods of Y. W. C. A. work with a view to taking up positions in Y. W. C. A. work either in this country or in other of the countries where the Y. W. C. A. is carrying on its work.

They are opening and expanding its work.

Y. W. C. A. TRAINS WOMEN.

Young women students from forty-four states and nine countries—China, the Philippine Islands, France, Bulgaria, Holland, Russia, Armenia, Canada and Mexico—are registered in the National Training School of the Young Women's Christian Association in New York.

They are studying methods of Y. W. C. A. work with a view to taking up positions in Y. W. C. A. work either in this country or in other of the countries where the Y. W. C. A. is carrying on its work.

They are opening and expanding its work.

Y. W. C. A. TRAINS WOMEN.

Young women students from forty-four states and nine countries—China, the Philippine Islands, France, Bulgaria, Holland, Russia, Armenia, Canada and Mexico—are registered in the National Training School of the Young Women's Christian Association in New York.

They are studying methods of Y. W. C. A. work with a view to taking up positions in Y. W. C. A. work either in this country or in other of the countries where the Y. W. C. A. is carrying on its work.

They are opening and expanding its work.

Y. W. C. A. TRAINS WOMEN.

Young women students from forty-four states and nine countries—China, the Philippine Islands, France, Bulgaria, Holland, Russia, Armenia, Canada and Mexico—are registered in the National Training School of the Young Women's Christian Association in New York.

They are studying methods of Y. W. C. A. work with a view to taking up positions in Y. W. C. A. work either in this country or in other of the countries where the Y. W. C. A. is carrying on its work.

They are opening and expanding its work.

Y. W. C. A. TRAINS WOMEN.

Young women students from forty-four states and nine countries—China, the Philippine Islands, France, Bulgaria, Holland, Russia, Armenia, Canada and Mexico—are registered in the National Training School of the Young Women's Christian Association in New York.

They are studying methods of Y. W. C. A. work with a view to taking up positions in Y. W. C. A. work either in this country or in other of the countries where the Y. W. C. A. is carrying on its work.

They are opening and expanding its work.

Y. W. C