BOHRNSTEEDT SEES BIG MEN-ACE TO LOAN SYSTEM

A. C. Bohrnstedt, secretary and treasurer of the Oregon National Farm Loan association of Salem, gave a lecture on the federal farm loan system in which he pointed out the present menace. He claimed that the lack of support by farmers and farm organizations who do not tell of its advantages to their neighbors who may be deceived by parties antagonistic to the system is one of them, the other being the fight of the mortgage companies. These men who are well organized have endeavored to have the farm loan association set declared unconstitutional, but having failed in this are devising various means to deceive the farmers in order to make them believe they are obtaining loans from these commercial companies at a rate they claimed to be just as low or lower than can be secured under the federal farm loan association, but which, upon analysis, have proved to be considerably higher.

At the meeting the following resolutions were adopted, calling upon the senators and representatives of this state to oppose the Smoot and McFadden bill now pending in Congress. "Be it resolved, that we call upon our senators and congressmen to resist any and all efforts to either amend or repeal the Federal Farm Loan Act, and to especially bend their efforts to the defeat of the Smoot and McFadden bills now before Congress."

The following excerpt from a manifesto recently issued by President Eamon de Valera to the liberty loving people of America is of more than passing interest in this connection:

"The United States is a great and powerful republic—long confirmed in its own hard won liberties. The sister republic, now-born in Ireland under America's inspiration, is threatened in its infant life as was the United Colonies by cruel and overmastering force. We earnestly plead for the assistance which, if prompt and energetic, will be decisive.

"Americans of Irish blood you will not refuse to renew your filial ties and take a further share in the preservation of the free and of the land from which you sprung! She is your mother-land as well as ours. On you not wish her to take her rightful place among the nations? Can you withhold your assistance when it is powerful enough to place her there?"

"Think of your fathers and your mothers—the men and women, boys and girls, that in unending streams through Castle Garden made their way here to win life and honor in this great land of liberty and opportunity.

"Boys and girls, such as they were, strong and noble and bright, gentle and pure, are still in Ireland today. The same causes are about to drive them forth. Will you not help to keep them in their own land?"

"They love Ireland as your fathers and mothers loved Ireland. It breaks their hearts to leave that land as it broke the hearts of those boys and girls—your parents. The tears of the mothers and fathers to be left behind in many a lonely cottage are full as bitter today, their grief as wild, as the tears and the grief of those your parents left behind never to see again. You cannot refuse your aid to end so much sorrow to preserve these boys and girls for the land which needs them, and for the people they love.

"Will you not aid to bring to them at home under their own flag the blessing of the liberty they might hope for, and which you enjoy under the Stars and Stripes.

"Demand for them the right to choose their own way of life and obedience. Immediate action is necessary. You must organize to be effective. Begin at once in your own community. Teach your fellow citizens the justice of Ireland's cause. It is the cause of world liberty and true democracy."
