Look out for a considerable building boom in Heppner next spring and summer.

FASHIONABLE DRESSMAKING—Remodeling and Ladies Tailoring, Mrs. Curran, Church Street. 37-41

Mild weather has caused work to be resumed on the Elks' building and big piles of material have been assembled for the new hotel.

Mrs. Bartholomew, who has been visiting her son and daughters at Estacada for several weeks, has returned to her Heppner home.

John Olden came in from Rhea creek this morning and reports that the snow is slowly disappearing. "Some hard winter," says Mr. Olden, "but we have plenty of feed out our way."

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Eskelson of near Lexington, are spending a few days in town while Joe is having some carpenter work done on his teeth. Joe is enjoying his vacation. What?

Reports from Portland are to the effect that Fred A. Case is much improved and ready to return home. Mrs. Case is on the sick list at present but as soon as she recovers they will return to Heppner.

Heppner's latest spell of winter weather is giving way yesterday and today to bright sunlight and warm breezes. It is not exactly a chinook but fills the bill even better. All of the moisture seems to be going into the ground just where it will be needed next summer.

It is understood that tentative arrangements were made Saturday evening at a meeting of several officers of the Elks' lodge to rent the theatre room to B. G. Sigbee and the store room to Cyrus Aiken, who, it is understood, expects to open a first-class furniture store therein.

MARRIED

Ayers-Beck

Mr. William M. Ayers and Mrs. Lulu A. Beck were united in marriage at 8:00 o'clock P. M. Thursday, January 8. Judge Alexander L. Cornett performed the interesting ceremony. No guests were present except Mr. Sam E. Notson and Mrs. Dick Howard, who acted as witnesses. Mr. and Mrs. Ayers will reside in his home in east Heppner where they are now at home to their friends. The Herald joins in congratulations and best wishes.

IONE TOWN TEAM WINS FROM HEPPNER

Ione's husky bunch of basket ball sharks mopped up on the Heppner team Friday evening in a pretty closely contested game, with a score of 22 to 25. Gay Anderson and Cliff Sims were both out of it that evening on account of sickness and accident and as a matter of fact the Heppner team was but little else than the regular high school team. Just the same it was Ione's game and the Ione City men are entitled to due credit.

LEGISLATURE IN SESSION THIS WEEK

Hon. C. E. Woodson left for Salem last Saturday to be present at the opening of the special session of the legislature which convened Monday.

The session was called to consider several important measures among which are the proposal to restore capital punishment, to raise the suffrage amendment, to consider the fish and game Commission mixup and to refer enough measures to call for a special election next May.

Many ambitious men are expected to introduce multitudes of other bills but the general feeling among members seems to be to throw out all but measures of first importance and confine the session to only a few days time.

NOTICE OF FINAL ACCOUNT

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, administrator of the Estate of BETH A. BARNHART, deceased, has filed his final account with the Clerk of the County Court of Morrow County, State of Oregon, and that said Court has set as the day of the settlement of said account February 21, 1920, at the hour of two o'clock P. M., of said day.

O. H. WARNER, Administrator.

IRRIGATION CONGRESS ACCOMPLISHES MUCH

Brown said, "only that it sounded funny when Mr. Boardman registered at the congress, and the secretary, broke in with: 'You, a Boardman man, representing Heppner? Why what's the matter with Heppner?'"

Continuing, Mr. Brown stated that it was no small job to successfully put an endorsement of the John Day project through the congress. Other sections of the state with strong delegations were either trying to sidetrack all other projects but their own or were trying to suppress all specific recommendations perhaps on the ground that their own particular project might get left at the post in the final heat.

The campaign for recognition of the John Day project was opened at a luncheon Thursday noon which was attended by F. A. McMenamin, of Heppner, C. C. Clark, of Arlington, Emmet Callahan, of Boardman, representing the John Day project and Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific R. R., William Murray, of the O. W. R. & N., J. C. Ainsworth, president of the First National bank of Portland, Harry Corbett, one of the city's best known capitalists, and C. C. Colt, well known banker. At this conference the magnitude of the John Day project was placed before the Portland men by Mr. Callahan, Mr. Clark and Mr. McMenamin so forcibly that they appointed a committee from their own number to take the matter up with some of their Portland associates and report at another conference with the John Day delegates the following day. At that time, it is understood the Portland committee gave the eastern Oregon representatives to understand that even in the absence of immediate federal aid that the project may be financed through the sale of bonds, and signified their willingness to get behind the project and put it over. The Portland men, once they were convinced of the merit of the project from the standpoint of climate, altitude, fertility of soil, unquestioned supply of water, proximity to transportation both rail, water and paved highway, were enthusiastic about the matter at once recognizing what the reclamation of 300,000 or 400,000 acres of fertile soil and its settlement by several thousand of prosperous families would mean to the commercial life of Portland. They asked for a few weeks time in which to take the matter up with other Portland financiers and bonding houses and arranged to hold another conference early in February.

When the John Day resolutions came up in the congress for consideration McMenamin was alone in the hall and for a time he handled the fight against odds. Later he was joined by Messrs. Callahan and Clark and through their combined efforts the following resolution was passed.

Resolution

That, WHEREAS, the real property owners interested in the development of the John Day Irrigation project have organized an irrigation district pursuant to the laws of the State of Oregon, and

WHEREAS, by its natural geographical location the John Day Irrigation Project is most favorably situated with reference as to low altitude, character of soil, climatic conditions, nearness to markets and transportation by open Columbia river to the sea, two main continental trunk lines of railway, Columbia River State Highway system thereby making this an ideal project.

WHEREAS, the future development of the State of Oregon largely depends upon the merits of the various irrigation projects that have the ability to make good, and

WHEREAS, the definite knowledge now available as to the possible production and possibility of the John Day Irrigation District Project has been demonstrated as practical from an agricultural, financial and engineering standpoint.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Oregon Irrigation Congress in its ninth annual session hereby unqualifiedly pledges its support to the fulfillment of the ultimate completion of the John Day Irrigation District Project, and that this congress, further recommends that a committee of not less than three members be appointed as a special committee to take in charge the work of the completion of this project by securing aid from the State of Oregon and the United States Reclamation Service.

Introduced by—CLAY C. CLARK, President John Day Irrigation Project.

Heppner kids are having the time of their young lives lately coasting on the hills and "hooking" rides behind trucks and autos. It's sure sport.

Y. W. C. A. CALLS BIG CONVENTION

2,000 Women Expected to Gather in Cleveland the Week of April 13-20, 1920, for National Convention.

MEETING POSTPONED TWO YEARS BY WAR

Delegates Will Discuss New Membership Basis for Students and Question of Future Support for Work. Many Other Things.

The Young Women's Christian Association of the United States of America will meet in national convention in Cleveland, O., the week of April 13 to 20, having postponed the convention from the spring of 1918 in order to comply with a government request that expense and travel be reduced to a minimum during the war.

The department on conventions and conferences of the National Y. W. C. A., of which Mrs. Harry Emerson Fosdick is chairman, estimates an attendance of 2,000 women, representing all departments of Y. W. C. A. work—board members, secretaries, students, club girls, Girl Reserves, girls from Industrial Service Centers, women from the International Institutes for foreign born women, members from city, town and country Associations.

Each Association in the United States will be entitled to one voting delegate for every one hundred voting members in the Association.

Two of the most important questions which will come up before the convention will be the membership basis and the question of support. Of old business to be considered the most important question will be the membership basis for student associations, the granting of charter membership privilege to the Chicago Young Women's Christian Association and a recommendation providing an increase in membership of the National Board of the Association will also be presented.

Rev. Charles W. Gilkey, pastor of Hyde Park Baptist Church, Chicago, will give a series of morning addresses during the convention week. Dr. Robert E. Speer, secretary to the Foreign Mission Board of the Presbyterian Church, North, will also give an address. Mrs. Speer is chairman of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A.

The convention will be in session morning and evening, the afternoon being given over to sectional meetings held in various churches. Attendance at these meetings will be determined by group membership and also by activities.

Mrs. W. P. Harford of Omaha, Neb., will preside at the opening session, having been elected as president at the last convention of the Young Women's Christian Association, held in Los Angeles in 1915.

The committee on business to come before the convention has for its chairman Mrs. John French and includes among its members Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Miss Eliza Butler, sister of Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University; Miss Martha McCook, Miss Mabel Cratty, general secretary for the National Board of the Y. W. C. A., and Mrs. William Adams Brown, all of New York city.

TOWN GIRLS TO HAVE Y. W. C. A.

Association Maintains 52 Town Secretaries—Wants to Expand Work at Once.

"During the war girls all over the world had their first lesson in nation wide and world wide thinking," says Miss Mabel Head, director of Town and Country Work for the National Y. W. C. A.

"Girls learned something of the inspiration of working with hundreds and hundreds of other girls, unselfishly and unpretentiously, through Red Cross work. Now the Y. W. C. A., through its world wide program of service for women, is planning to expand its work so that girls all over the world, and particularly in smaller communities, will not lose this experience.

"Citizenship forums are being organized for girls in small communities, where girls may come together to learn more about their country and their responsibility to it and as citizens of the world.

"Reading courses have been planned at National Headquarters in New York so that a girl in any community may carry on a course of study, either by herself or with other girls, on a wide variety of subjects.

The Y. W. C. A. has at present thirty-nine secretaries doing county work. This means that they travel about from one community to another helping girls to plan out social, recreational, educational and religious activities for themselves and organizing them to carry on these activities. These secretaries work with the county agents of the Department of Agriculture in carrying on home economics work. They help plan pageants, arrange benefits, assist the girls in going to Y. W. C. A. summer conferences and help plan all sorts of social good times for the community."

NEEDN'T LIST HOME LIQUORS

Instructions from the attorney general of the United States as to the enforcement of the nation-wide prohibition act in Oregon reached Portland today. They contain one paragraph that will be good news to home distillers and brewers. This paragraph says that operatives are not required to list liquors in private residences.

"We will have plenty of work to do without trying to prosecute people who drink their own liquor at home," declared John Smith, the new prohibition enforcement officer for the government.

"Of course," he added, "it has been unlawful for some time to make liquor, and if anyone makes a nuisance of himself or is reported by his neighbors or others we will have to investigate."

The internal revenue department has supervision of the enforcement of the liquor laws, but the new division of which Smith is the head, was especially created to carry on the warfare on booze after the 16th of this month when the national dry law becomes effective.—Portland News.

"The Enterprise was established 54 years ago, and has been published continuously in Oregon City since 1866. Only two newspapers in Oregon are older. My connection with The Enterprise covers 15 years, the last 12 years as publisher. We have just purchased and remodeled a building and have the finest newspaper home in the state, outside of Portland. The Morning Enterprise is healthy, its growth and progress have been marked and I expect to continue as its publisher and do my part in making Oregon a better state to live in for many years to come."

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned executrix of the estate of Louis Groshens, deceased, has filed her final account as such executrix, and that the county court of the state of Oregon for Morrow county has appointed Monday, the 2nd day of February, 1920, at the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, as the time of hearing and settlement of said final account. Objections or said final account must be filed on or before said date.
