BOARDMAN NEWS

Mr. Carl Voyer, who has been ill at his parent's home in Hermiston, was in Boardman Sunday.

While there has been some sickness in the community, it has not been necessary to close school and attendance is again quite regular.

Dates have been fixed for an O. A. extension school in connection with the dedication exercises for the new school building, March 4, 5, 6. There will be lectures by specialists in farm crops, dairying, irrigation and home economics. There will also be evening lectures, a school entertainment, and an Oregon products dinner on March 6th. A. G. Clark, manager of the associated industries of Oregon, will speak at the dinner and the dedicatory address will be given by Emmet Callahan. Every one invited to all the exercises.

The new steel flag pole was dedicated and Washington's birthday suitably observed at the same time at 19 o'clock Monday morning. There was no school the rest of the day.

A Washington Birthday social was held at the church Monday night. Old fashioned costumes and a New England supper, together with a program were features of the occasion.

CECIL NEWS

NEWSPAPERS HELP COLLEGE EXPOSE FRAUD

Sale of low grade arsenical sprays in Oregon has been checked by publicity given by the chemistry department of the college experiment station through the state and county newspapers. Immense damage by burning of fruit and foliage was caused by use of low grade arsenical mixtures in the beginning. The station proved the possibility of better material, manufacturers brought out a better product, and growers who must spray save enormous sums every year as a result. Fear of station discovery and newspaper publicity gives the low-grade dealer little chance to do business in Oregon.

Some Evidence of Crime.
Where victim of a homicide was shot both through the head and body, his ears severed, one eye gouged out, his head and face frightfully mangled, his body dragged 40 yards down a bank, leaving a trail of blood, and there abandoned in the night, court's remark as to impudence of case to commonwealth, and to defendant, and that it would certainly appear that some one was guilty of a most heinous crime, was not improper.—Commonwealth vs. Belinorckl, Pa., 107 Att. 668.

A Crawling Fish.
A Brazilian fish called the maltha cannot swim. It can only crawl or walk or hop. It has a long, upturned snout and resembles a toad. The anterior fins of the maltha are quite small and are not able to act on the water. They only move backward and forward and are in reality thin paws, which are of no service for swimming.

Wedding Superstitions.
The superstition that it is bad luck to get married on a rainy day comes from the old saying, "Happy is the bride that the sun shines on." There is another old superstition that a "snowy wedding prophesies wealth."

TRUE AMERICANISM

Boardman, Ore., Feb. 27, 1920. Editor Herald,

There is a bill in Congress known as the Jones-Reaves bill. It is a bill which proves that all departments of public works be organized under one head. That this office be filled by efficient men experts in their line, instead of politicians. Every citizen, no matter how small his influence should work for a National budget system. A clearing house for National expenditures. Offices to be filled by men of proven ability from a business standpoint and not a political one. No known going business of today could weather the competition it must meet if it were run as the government departments are run today. You and I are paying the bill and who is going to stop it if you and I do not do our part. As we read the head lines of the daily papers our heads whirl in confusion. We ask what are we coming to. We are so "fed up" overtrained, that the feet work of our brain has entered the amateur class. Let's go into training. Hold a three day individual camp meeting. Drop the world while you do penance. Permit me to state your answer. You see a middle road and the sign board tells you that it is called Americanism. This road is only a path in its beginning. Its fountain head springs from the grinding stone called capital and labor. In the daily struggle for supremacy the miller sets the stone a little closer. The point is reached where the food of the middle class is ground so fine that only pastry flour and its trimmings are the product. Such food never made American citizens. What we need today is the old fashioned remedies of our forefathers. Today you purchase from the druggist shelves castor oil. On inspection you find it sweetened and scented. For your spring house cleaning you take San Tox. Made and wrapped to fit your taste and eye. In my youth mother led me to the bowl which contained a straight draft of pure sulphur and impure New Orleans drip. Many things in this world that are sweet become impure through rubbing shoulders with impurities. What is sweeter than our Americanism? Let's keep it pure. One ism is enough.

Americanism.
No interlocking plant of foreign isms shall ever mingle with Americanism. That middle road will broaden from the foot path to the broad highway and the suction of the movement will draw warring labor and capital into the peaceful march of Americanism. The grinding mill stones will be widened and the product will produce true Americanism.

America today might be likened unto the swimmer. The experienced swimmer with a calculated tread of 8 strokes to the minute keeps a safe poise and a clear vision. America today is maintaining 160 strokes to the minute. She has treaded her way clear of the water and is poised on a mass of bubbles. His vision is obscured due to the unsoundness of her footing. These bubbles are tinted with the red, white and blue. There are those in this country who object to the shade of red, and wish a deeper tone. There are those in this country when the mention of the deeper red brings a whiter color to their liver. There are those in this country when the mention of the deeper red bring visions of a blue Monday. Brethren she's a good old flag as she looks and long may she wave, and to the deep tone reds, and the white livered livers, and to the blue Monday she was hoisted to stay as she looks. Men and women you are to be tested as you never were before. The test of clear solid thinking. Your foothold must be as solid as Plymouth Rock, the foothold of the Pilgrim Fathers. You will have every known remedy that every office seeking politician can present to fit his own individual case. The papers will present the issues and the remedies as the party organizations direct. It will be for you to seek the truth between the lines, and when you find it it will be the middle road which leads straight to the heart of Americanism. Major Gilbert in a recent Portland speech stated the present time calls for the spirit of Abraham Lincoln. With malice toward none and with charity for all, and across the waters from Europe comes the name Herbert Hoover. In a recent speech in New York by Mr. Hoover he stated: "I could not vote with a party if it were dominated by groups who seek to set aside our constitutional guarantee for free speech or free representation. Who hope to re-establish control of the government for profit and privilege. I could not vote with a party if it were dominated by groups who hope for any form of socialism whether it be nationalization of industry or other destruction of individual initiative." There will be a leader of the multitude who will take the middle road of Americanism. Let it be Herbert Hoover. There enters a factor which is new which stands for purity. Woman suffrage. From the day of the Garden of Eden she has carried the burden during the dark hours. Today her clear thinking, not bound by party partisanship, not swayed by political patten will mend the rents that foreign isms have brewed in Americanism. If you doubt me trundle back to the days you kneel in prayer at your mother's knee. Do you remember that feeling of peace, of confidence, of reverence of that which was good and pure. Do you not see its hand working in this day of unrest and uncertainty, and in Europe I see the outstretched hands of women and children in benediction to a man in America and in America I see the women point to the man of the hour. Herbert Hoover.

Sincerely,
S. H. BOARDMAN.
