O. A. C. EXTENSION SCHOOL AT BOARDMAN

The O. A. C. Extension School held under the direction of the Boardman schools and County Agent Hunt, was carried to a successful conclusion last week. The program began with a lecture by H. K. Dean of the Oregon Experiment Station at Hermiston, on soil fertility. Mr. Dean established the fact that barnyard manure was the best fertilizer, and the next best was green crops plowed under. He was followed by R. V. Gunn of O. A. C. on farm accounting. Methods of accounting, illustrated with charts, were described and strongly advocated as a real necessity especially in connection with the federal income reports farmers are obliged to make. W. S. Carpenter of O. A. C. gave an interesting talk on alfalfa and E. B. Pitts discussed the dairying situation —first, plenty of feed, then good cows. Later on in the session the balanced ration was discussed and methods of feeding explained, by Mr. Pitts.

On Thursday evening John C. Almack, extension director of the U. of O., gave a very interesting and helpful lecture on the purpose of the school emphasizing the essentials of the new education. The pleasure of the evening was enhanced by musical numbers by Miss McNeil, Miss Gurrard and Ishmel Hendricks.

On Friday irrigation was discussed by Mr. Dean and corn growing and silage by Mr. Carpenter. In the afternoon Mr. Gunn worked out with the help of those present the cost of production of alfalfa, and while the results may not be strictly accurate, they are still very helpful as a basis for calculation, and emphasize the necessity of knowing instead of guessing. Ten acres of alfalfa was taken as a basis; beginning with the raw land:

Getting in the crop —

Man labor at 50c per hour.....	$340
Horse labor at 25c per hour.....	240
Material .....	50
Making boxes .....	30
Seed (rye and alfalfa) .....	61
Int. first year .....	5
O. and M. ....	20
Watering .....	20
Original investment in land.....	200
Construction .....	46
Int. on original inv. ....	10
	$1028

Cost of Crop—

Investment .....	$1028.00
Interest on investment .....	8.24
Taxes .....	5.00
Irrigation, mowing, raking, bunching, hauling .....	217.00
O. and M. ....	20.00
Building charge .....	46.00
Depreciation of equipment .....	48.00
Managerial charge .....	416.87
	$460.11

On a five ton per acre basis the average cost per ton would be $9.20.

During the three days the ladies met frequently in the home economics department of the institute under the instruction of Miss Lassie Lane of O. A. C.

Saturday noon a big picnic dinner was enjoyed. Mr. A. G. Clark of Portland, manager of the Oregon Manufacturers' association, was present and delivered an address on Oregon industries and the necessary full co-operation in their development. He distributed souvenirs and prizes of Oregon made goods to the ladies present. Other speakers at the dinner were Prin. E. H. Anderson of the Irrigation schools, and E. F. Williams of Portland, architect of the new building.

At this session the resolutions were adopted thanking the instructors and the cafeteria management for their assistance in making the occasion a success, recommending that the county court levy a tax for rodent control, asking for a project engineer for the West Extension, supporting the millage tax for higher educational instructions and for improvement of salaries for teachers, and commending the movement for the establishment of a hot lunch for the school children.

An enjoyable school entertainment concluded the exercises. Owing to the fact that all the work on the building was not completed, formal dedication has been postponed until later in the spring.
