The Heppner Library association have recently added to their shelves a complete set of Winton's Cumulative Encyclopedia in ten volumes.

H. C. (Hap) Woods, who used to optimize around Heppner, but who moved to Pendleton several months ago to make his fortune, has left the pursuit of wealth and the Round-Up city and is now located at Ione where he is devoting his time to the interests of prospective widows and orphans in that section of the county by selling gilt-edge life insurance to their husbands and dads.

O. M. Scott has been loafing the last few days while carrying his right hand in a sling as a result of being a southpaw. Mr. Scott was splitting wood the other day when the axe handle became entangled with his coat deflecting the blade enough to miss the stick and make an ugly wound on his right hand.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The Heppner base ball team played the Moro base ball team on the Heppner diamond. Although Heppner lost a lively game was enjoyed by all.

The weather has been against the contestants for the track meet, but they hope to resume work again this week.

The Heppner base ball team met the Lexington ball team down on the Heppner diamond. This time Heppner gloriously defeated the visitors.

Following the play Friday night the student body entertained the Moro boys in the basement. After some impromptu songs and music the girls found their partners and went out to lunch.

The Juniors expect to give their play either Friday or Saturday of this week. Further notice will be given later. The play entitled "The Arrival of Kitty" is said to be a very high-grade play.

HEPPNER WINS FROM LEXINGTON

Heppner III came to life Saturday after being defeated by Moro Friday and nosed out on Lexington III in a hard fought game. Lexington took the lead in the first three innings but from then on Heppner was never in danger.

Young, pitching for the home team, was a credit to any school team and his opponent also pitcher rattling good ball but his support was poor.

MORO PACKS OFF BASE BALL RACON

Coach Fagan, of Moro high school, motored over to our city last Friday accompanied by a gang of promising ball players and won the game from Heppner by an 8-run margin.

Moro started scoring in the first inning when Lusk hit for two bases followed by Anderson, who sacrificed sending Lusk to third. Searcy hit to short, scoring Lusk and was out on first. Messenger then struck out retiring his side.

Heppner fell on Ellsworth for three hits and three runs and won the early lead. Moro scored two the next inning and from the start held a big lead, never being in danger except for the ninth inning rally by Heppner which spurt brought Heppner up to within 8 scores of the Windy City boys.

For Moro Ellsworth looked good as did his battery mate, Hinkle, while Anderson's timely hitting helped Moro and should not be overlooked.

Heppner had few stars in Friday's line-up only for Reasoner's home run in the fourth and the fielding of Peterson which was of big league calibre. The line-up:

HASKINS CONFESSES FIRING HIS OWN STORE

That it was just as well to make it unanimous seems to have been William Haskins' thought when the big fire started in Bellinger's lumber yard at Boardman several weeks ago, for, according to a confession made early last week to Sheriff Taylor and Fire Marshal Pomeroy, at Pendleton, he deliberately kicked a coal oil lamp over in his own building soon after the fire was discovered in the lumber yard.

Haskins had a store at Boardman and resided in the same building with his family. The only apparent reason for his act was to realize quickly on his insurance. After making his confession at Pendleton Haskins was brought to Heppner where he waived examination and was bound over to the grand jury in the sum of $1000.

HEPPNER NOW HAS WILLARD STORAGE BATTERY SERVICE

J. W. Fritsch, the "Battery Man", has taken over the Willard Storage Battery Service direct from the factory and his establishment is now a contact point for all adjustments in Morrow county.

The fact that 87 per cent of all new cars now being put out are equipped with Willard Threaded Rubber Batteries made it necessary for Mr. Fritsch, an up-to-date battery man, to step up this line.

After careful investigation Mr. Fritsch has found that in every particular the new "Still Better" Willard Battery is all right.

All Philadelphia Diamond Grid Battery owners who have a Battery sold by Mr. Fritsch will please remember that the original guarantee is as good as gold.

THE MEANEST MAN IN TOWN

The meanest man in town is the fellow who has been putting out dog poison lately and the Herald knows more than one good citizen who would put up a generous reward for a sufficient to convict the insect.

R. P. Sorenson's fine Collie, was the latest victim of the dog poisoner's devilishness and while he may pull through he is having a close call. This Collie cost Mr. Sorenson $50 as a small puppy and is one of the most valuable dogs in the county. He is not only a splendid stock dog but he is a warm and devoted friend to every child in Heppner. It would be too bad to have a good dog bite a dog possessor. It might kill the dog.

FARMERS' PRICE BETTERED

Butter fat prices rose above print butter prices after the farmers organized their own creameries in 1915. In that year fat was quoted at two cents a pound under print prices in the Portland market, since 100 pounds of fat make about 135 pounds of butter because of moisture, salt and casing combined in the finished product, farmers thought the big creameries were paying prices too low to the butter prices. They increased their cooperative creamery concerns, and the price of fat soon rose considerably above those for print butter. Did the farmer creameries cause this change? The matter is well treated in the "Survey of Typical Oregon Creameries," just issued by the agricultural college experiment station. Copies are free.

FINE BALL GAME AT IONE

A big delegation of bleacher hounds went down from Heppner to Ione Sunday to see the Ione-Arlington ball game and everybody says it was the greatest game played in eastern Oregon in many years.

P. A. Anderson, who used to play the game himself, declares this to have been the best purely amateur game he ever witnessed.

E. M. Shutt, who also lays some claim to early activities on the diamond, declared to a Herald reporter that it was one real game. E. M. says that Arlington's tally sheet looked like $100,000,000 when the game was over but that Ione's score looked like $1,101,000,000.

Arlington made one score in the first inning following up with a row of 8 beautiful goose eggs while Ione made two scores in the first inning, one in the third the remaining innings being entirely decorated with elphers.

Just make a score sheet of the game and figure it out for yourself.

TO PREVENT SPREAD OF SCABIES

During the recent general inspection in Oregon by officials of the Bureau of Animal Industry it was found that several bands of sheep in Wheeler county were diseased with scabies, and in a number of cases sheep from adjoining counties had been exposed to this disease. Owing to the danger of scabies spreading over all of north-eastern Oregon, if diseased sheep are permitted on the stock driveways over the Umatilla National Forest, the forest service is cooperating with the bureau of animal industry and state officials by taking all possible precautions to prevent diseased sheep getting onto the forest. As approximately 200,000 sheep graze on or are trailed across the Umatilla National Forest, the importance of preventing diseased sheep from using these forest driveways can readily be seen.

Orders have been issued to forest officials on the Umatilla National Forest to the effect that no sheep will be allowed to enter the forest unless the owner can show that his sheep have been recently inspected by a federal or state inspector and found to be free from any contagious, infectious or communicable diseases. As the entire life cycle of the scab mite is completed within about fifteen days, forest officials will require inspections be of recent date, not more than thirty days before the time of entering the forest. Also the owners should see to it that the sheep are not exposed to scabies after the time of inspection.

It is regretted that the stockmen must be put to this inconvenience, but some definite action is necessary to protect owners whose sheep are clean from any chance of contracting scabies in their bands while crossing the forest. The best way to do this is to require that everyone using the Umatilla forest driveways have his sheep inspected in order to prove that the yare free from scabies.

Owing to the large number of sheep which must be inspected within the next two months it will be extremely difficult for federal inspectors to cover all of the territory involved owing to their limited field force.

However, Dr. Exline, of the Bureau of Animal Industry, has agreed to handle the work in Wheeler county, where most of the known cases of scabies exist. Therefore in order to prevent confusion and duplication of work, every forest user in Wheeler county should make arrangements with officials of the Bureau of Animal Industry for a federal inspection prior to the time of entering the National Forest. Dr. W. B. Henneberger and Dr. G. P. Overhulse have been detailed to handle federal inspection and dipping in Wheeler county. Beginning April 13 they will have headquarters in either Fossil or Mitchell. All sheep owners in the above county are urged to get in touch with these men and facilitate the work as much as possible. No charge will be made for federal inspection.

Certificates of health for stock outside of Wheeler county will be accepted when inspection is made by state officials or veterinarians approved by the state veterinarian.

Men in charge of sheep must be prepared to show a certificate of inspection to forest officials in charge of the driveways used by the stock in question. Anyone failing to comply with this rule will be denied the privilege of entering the Umatilla National Forest, and his stock are liable to be held up until an inspection can be made.
