Independence Day

into the life of every individual comes a longing for that day of independence-that day when we can stund full square before the world, solidly on our own foundations without fear or dread for anything that may come.

And that day comes to the individual just as it comes to a nation-when that individual or nation has so conserved its resources and made use of its opportunities as to have it the backing and fundamental basis from which to strike out for itself.

Our position in the community gives us the opportunity of analoging the cause for one many speciess and anothers failure; and the past 33 years of expenence should be a valuable storehouse of apprefedge for you.

When will your Independence Day arrive? Call and let us above you how to start.
