

LABOR BIGGEST PROBLEM
FARM PRACTICE IS NEXT

Farm Bureaus Recognized as Most Effective Aid in Bettering Help Sales and Methods

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis—Representative farmers think the farm help problem the biggest with farm practices and markets as second and third. Of 2300 northern and western farmers selected at random by an agent of the states relation service 682 think labor the hardest problem, 637 consider improved farm practices most important, and 309 regard farm marketing the most pressing problem.

"Two out of three of these farmers were acquainted with the county agent and farm bureau work," says the June number of the Oregon Farm Bureau News, "and 90 per cent of them were favorable to it."

"In states having farm bureaus 66 per cent of the farmers placed the bureau and agent first in greatest service to them, and 13 per cent named the agricultural press first."

Improved marketing is said to be largely dependent on improved production efficiency. Incertain sections of Oregon it has been proved that silos will reduce cost of producing livestock and livestock products 30 per cent. Also that sulfur will increase the yield of alfalfa one ton per acre—2000 per cent on money invested in the sulphur.

Some very important results are reported along marketing lines. Exchanges save thousands of dollars to members. Cooperative livestock shipping, wool and mohair pools, and organization of fruit growers, poultrymen and dairymen, have been of great benefit.

Soldier Sculptor Loved Oregon

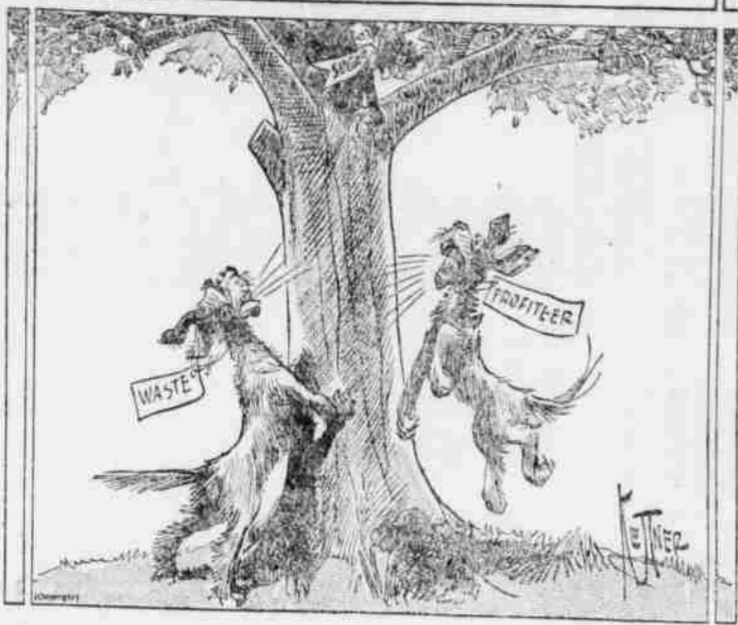

University of Oregon.—Roswell Dosch, one time member of the faculty of the School of Architecture and Allied Arts, completed, a few days before he entered the military service where he met his death, a statue which he called "The New Earth".

This allegorical conception of mankind emerging cleansed from the fire of war has been cast in bronze by the sculptor's friends on the University faculty and will be unveiled in his memory June 17th.

Leaving the University, never to return, he wrote on the day of his departure:

"The longer I stay at Oregon the more I want to stay. Each new day

The Household Pet Up a Tree

is an opportunity for me; a demonstration that by unselfishness and justice a human democracy can be worked out, and only on these principles.

"I feel it through every pulse of the University; therefore, I long to stay that I may take some part in it; for my own being."

TAP SUGAR SACK SOFTLY
BY USING SUBSTITUTES

Honey, Syrup, and Dried Fruits May Replace Some Sugar in Cooking and Serving.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis.—"Conserve sugar by using honey, syrup, and dried fruits—figs, prunes, raisins, dates, pears and peaches," say food specialists at the Oregon Agricultural College.

Products cooked with strained honey are said to have a pleasing characteristic honey flavor.

One cup of honey may replace one cup of sugar but the milk or other liquid should be reduced one-fifth cup for each cup of honey.

Spices give their most agreeable flavor when used with honey in all flour mixtures.

Cooking fruits with the cereals will sweeten the cereal and save sugar. Raisins with cream of wheat, figs with wheatina, or farina, are examples of good combinations.

Corn syrup may be used in stewing or baking fruit, using one half cup of syrup to each pound of fruit. Dried fruits are stewed 10 minutes after soaking over night in water.

A few raisins in the rhubarb sauce add flavor as well as help out the sweetening.

Cereals may be served with sweetened syrup or with sweet fruits.
