IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

If you have a house or farm for sale, Someone has got to tell the tale; How many chickens, ducks and pigs; Your wagons, sleighs and other rigs; How many horses, steers and cows—Binder and mowers, drills and plows, And other things about the place, Omitted here for want of space, We tell them where your farm's located, And at what price it's valued. We advertise your shop and benches, Your grind-stone, tools and monkey wrenches—The arrange your farm contains, And how it carries off the rains, Preventing any chance of floods That rust the beans and rot the spuds We state what's under cultivation—And if you're near a shipping station, How much in orchard—age of trees, And root-house, never known to freeze, How many acres in fall wheat—And if you're near the county seat, The moral of this little tale Is, when you've anything for sale, That you should advertise to sell it, And let the Herald tell it.
