

Buy a Barrel of Flour

The "Buy a Barrel of Flour" movement started by the farmers of the middle west, and encouraged here, is expected to benefit not the millers but the growers themselves, says the East Oregonian. A few statistics were given today and add interest to the movement.

A barrel of flour will use four and a half bushels of wheat, or nearly two sacks.

Eight barrels of flour will use the crop from the average acre of grain in this country.

A barrel of flour is four sacks, or 198 pounds.

A barrel of flour retails for approximately $11.

At present wheat prices a barrel of flour would mean about $6.75 worth of wheat.

If every family in Umatilla county buys a barrel of flour the above figures should be multiplied by 5000 or 6000.

PLAYS MEASLY TRICK ON SANTA CLAUS

While it must be acknowledged that L. VanMarter, who holds the responsible position of window trimmer at a down-town garage, has the artistic temperament, it must also be stated, in sorrow, that he sometimes plays exceedingly mean tricks on innocent and unsuspecting persons. Van trimmed his window for the Christmas holidays the other day in a most artistic manner, showing an open fireplace with chimney of ample proportions to admit the rotund form of good old Santa Claus, who occupies a conspicuous place in the setting. An old-fashioned mantle is in place over the fire place and on the mantle stands a full-sized quart bottle, neatly wrapped and enticingly labeled, on which Santa's twinkling eye is fixed with an expression of anticipation of what he will treat himself to when he gets the stockings filled.

To show the baseness of the artistic nature, however, Van admits that if Santa tries to get any comfort out of that bottle he will get mightily fooled, because the bottle's empty.

"Think I'd risk a full one in that window with all those Elks coming to town? Not on your life!" quoth Van.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION

Department of the Interior, United States Land Office at LaGrande, Oregon, Dec. 2nd, 1920.

Notice is hereby given that the State of Oregon makes application, under the provisions of the Act of Congress of August 14, 1848, and February 14, 1859, and the Acts supplementary thereto and amendatory thereof, for the following described unappropriated, non-mineral public lands, in lieu of, or as indemnity for losses to its grant for common schools assigned and designated as base therefor:

Lots 1 and 4, Sec. 31, Tp. 3 S., R. 28 E., Willamette Meridian, containing 43.62 and 44.37 acres respectively.

During the period of publication, or any time thereafter, and before final approval and certification, the local officers will receive protest or contest as to any of the tracts applied for and transmit the same to the General Land Office.

When lands sought to be selected are alleged, by way of protest, to be mineral, or where applications for patent therefor are presented under the mining laws, or are otherwise adversely claimed, proceedings in such cases will be in the nature of a contest and will be governed by the rules of practice in force in contest cases.

Telephone Credit

The telephone company will be compelled to borrow large amounts of money in the next few years, not only to extend its service to new subscribers, but to take care of the constantly increasing use of the service by present subscribers.

A lender in business will demand of a borrower ample security and will insist that its value be maintained without deterioration. He must be shown that this security has an assured earning power. He must be satisfied that his investment is safe: that it can be disposed of at any time without loss and that it will bring him a continuous return.

At the present time this company's operations in Oregon are conducted at a deficit. Its expenses are greater than its revenues. No return is being received by its stockholders from their property in Oregon. Not even the interest on its bonds properly chargeable to its Oregon properties is being paid from Oregon receipts.

With new capital scarce and commanding high rates of return, a business showing operating results such as these will find it difficult, if not impossible, to secure money for its necessities.

We assume that the people of Oregon wish to treat the utilities doing business in this state justly and fairly, and in this belief we have asked the Public Service Commission to approve a schedule of rates increasing our revenues. The amount asked for is relatively small to the individual rate payer, but the aggregate will place us in a position where we can obtain the outside capital necessary in our operations.

Under present conditions an adequate telephone service—efficient and sufficient—is dependent upon higher rates.
