STAR THEATRE

THE PLAYHOUSE WHERE PEOPLE ATTEND BECAUSE THEY ARE COMFORTABLY ENTERTAINED.

We have an advantage living in a small town, as we do, because our pocket book is not long enough to enable us to run all "First Run" pictures. By the time pictures reach us they invariably have the stamp of approval of public opinion, the approval of the millions of people in the United States who attend the movies. The opinion of those who do not attend can be of little value. We are willing to admit that there may be poor pictures put on the market, but they do not stay on for any length of time, for they must stand the acid test of truth and good.

Pictures are similar to books, poems, paintings, music, no one composition ever satisfied all tastes; but it must be admitted by all fair-minded people that the majority of the pictures today portray our joys and our sorrows, our goodness and our weakness, as voice or pen cannot.

When you attend a picture play, with very few exceptions, you will see the advantages of clean, honest, truthful living displayed, you will see all virtues exalted, you will see vice, intolerance and selfishness held up in scorn, you will see the good rewarded and the evil punished.

The moving picture today is the most potent factor in the education, mental and spiritual, of the masses. The wise are taking advantage of conditions. The others are out with their hammers.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Clark went to Portland Thursday for a few days' visit. Mr. Clark, who is a director of the John Day district, was one of the district's representatives at the irrigation congress.

W. L. Matlock had a narrow escape from death or very serious injury last Thursday when a load of hay he was taking to the Willow Creek sawmill, went over a 50-foot grade a short distance above the forks of Willow creek. The load landed bottom side up at the foot of the hill with Mr. Matlock underneath the load. He was alone and had to dig his way out unaided. His injuries were painful though not dangerous and he was able to be around town Sunday.

F. A. McMenamin has returned from a visit at Spokane where he attended the sessions of the Washington woolgrowers' convention which met there last week. Mr. McMenamin says it was a wonderful meeting and that the consensus of opinion among those present was that the best way for the sheepmen to handle their marketing problems is by a close affiliation with the National Farm Bureau. The Yakima delegation, Mr. McMenamin says, was the best dressed outfit at the convention wearing suits of Oregon-made wools made from "virgin" Washington wool and tailored by Yakima tailors at a cost of less than $50 a suit. He favors Morrow county sheepmen following the same plan thereby not only saving money on their clothing, but creating a demand for their wool.

T. J. Mahoney, who underwent a very serious operation in a Portland hospital some time ago, is reported to be improving rapidly at this time and will soon be able to be out again.

H. J. Biddle, well-known wheat-grower of the Ione section, is in town today. Mr. and Mrs. Biddle recently returned from a visit to Portland and are glad to be back in the sunshine of Eastern Oregon again.

"GOOD GOODS" Heppner, Oregon

LIGHT AND WATER CO. MAKES STATEMENT

FIRST IN IMPORTANCE to the residents of any city is plenty of good wholesome water; second in importance is good electric service, neither of these utilities can be secured or operated without assistance financially and favorable public sentiment.

The Public Service Commission of Oregon regulates the operations of all private utilities, it determines maximum rates to be charged for service. It has access to all construction and operation cost data of the utilities.

It has held two hearings in Heppner to adjust rates of The Heppner Light & Water Co.

In the succeeding orders the Commission has advised that The Heppner Light & Water Co. is being operated at a loss, and that it "cannot continue to do so, and unless relieved it must discontinue operation."

For three years past it has been charging up an annual loss of $5000. Justly and legally the company is entitled to revenue sufficient for operating expenses and a return upon its investment.

On January 1st, 1921, the Commission increased rates (which are now effective) in Heppner, Lexington and Ione, which increase will no more than overcome the annual deficit, any higher rate would impose a hardship upon some patrons. The Company does not want nor will it at this time ask for any further increase, it will try out the new rate for a month or so, and hope its patrons will meet it "half way" in the sacrifice it is and has been making.

It is waiting for the coming change in the affairs of the country to put it on a paying basis again and its patrons on an easier rate for service.

35 per cent of all of its expenses are expended in Heppner for labor, 53 per cent are expended for fuel, whenever the two factors are reduced rates will be reduced.

Moving Done by Porters.

In Tunis there are no moving vans or carts, many of the narrow streets being impassable. Household belongings are changed from place to place by porters, who most any day may be seen staggering under chests of drawers and other heavy pieces of furniture. On occasion the porters will use transport, in huge baskets, persons who may be sick, or otherwise incapacitated.

FARM AND HOME REMINDERS

Children who dislike milk may be induced to take it freely through a straw or tube, or in disguised form with other foods—soup, cooked with cereals, custards, puddings, cream sauce on vegetables, and cocoa.—Home Economics, O. A. C.

Laying hens must have foods containing egg-making elements. Analysis shows the following: Ash, 12.5 per cent; water, 65.7; protein 11.4; fat, 8.9. The hen cannot counter-felt her product and must have the real elements in sufficient quantity to manufacture eggs out of surplus feed.—Poultry, O. A. C.

The final cost of a fattened lamb is figured at the Eastern Oregon branch experiment station, Union, as follows: Cost of feeder lamb, 60 pounds at $10 a hundred, $6; interest on $6 for 90 days, .12; insurance at 1.6 per cent, .10; 202 pounds alfalfa at $20 a ton, $2.92; 75 pounds barley at $60, $2.25; labor at $6 a day per each 100 lambs, .95; total cost, per lamb, $11.44. The gain per head was 28 pounds, final weight $6 pounds, final cost per 100 pounds, $13.30.

A ton of alfalfa worth $20 a ton when fed alone and unchopped was worth $25 a ton fed chopped to fattening steers at the Eastern Oregon branch experiment station. Under most favorable conditions the cost of chopping was $7.75 a ton. The gain in feeding value from chopping when fed with grain did not justify the cost except when alfalfa prices were more than $25 a ton.

Smelt paste for sandwiches may be made at home as follows: Fry the smelt brown and remove backbone. Add thick tomato puree in which onion and parsley have been cooked and pack the jar with layer of prepared fish and a layer of the heavy sauce until full, then sterilize. Spices, mustard, cayenne or tobacco sauce may be added if liked.—Home Economics, O. A. C.
