LOCAL NEWS ITEMS

J. L. Jenkins, well known citizen of the Boardman project, was a visitor in Heppner during the week. Mr. Jenkins looks after road work in that district.

Miss Ruth Van Vactor, who is teaching in the Holtman district north of Ione, spent the week end with her home folks, returning to her duties Sunday evening.

A most successful meeting of the missionary societies of the Federated and Christian churches was held in the parlors of the Federated church last Tuesday afternoon.

C. J. Gamble, formerly of this county, now farming near Helix, Yamhill county, was here Friday and Saturday attending the Odd Fellows convention and visiting relatives and friends.

Adam Knoblock came in from his Ione creek ranch last Friday for the first time in three weeks and he says that it is the longest he has been away from Heppner at one time for more than ten years. Too much mud for the flier was Adam's way of explaining his long period of quiet.

C. W. Swanson, business man of Ione, was a visitor here Thursday. Harry Brown, who used to claim Heppner as his residence but who now lives at Lona and swears by that community as being the best on earth, dropped in on Thursday to jolly his old friends and kid them about not living in the Butter creek banana belt.

J. W. Saling, a prune orchardist of Froewater, was here Saturday attending the Odd Fellows' convention.

Mr. Saling was a resident of Morrow county in the early days, leaving here 32 years ago, and this was his first return visit. He says Heppner has grown since he last walked its streets.

Tom Johnson, former well known Heppner boy, now living at Enterprise, was a visitor here during the week, attending the funeral of his father, Henry C. Johnson. Mr. Johnson says Enterprise is an ideal summer climate but the winters are a trifle cold, and the snow a mite too deep to suit a former Morrow countian.

IRRIGON COMMUNITY

Continued From Page One: committee was recently appointed to locate suitable early seed potatoes by the ear load. A list of all the farmers in the district was made up and their requirements ascertained. Farmers around Hermiston, Umatilla and Boardman, having heard of this plan, ordered some potatoes in this manner. Some seventy odd farmers with dry land seed shipped from Moscow, Idaho, and at saving of about one half of what seed less desirable would have cost if bought individually in less than ear loads. Several hundred more sacks could have been handled, as calls came from all over the project late to include in this order. What the Irrigon people have done in the way of co-operative buying has convinced them that this method must be used in the future more extensively. Several ear loads of lumber will be bought in similar manner.

Early potatoes will not be the only item that is being planted extensively. Some forty or fifty acres of watermelons and muskmelons will be planted in the Irrigon district. One individual grower is preparing his land to plant 12 acres of watermelons alone. Co-operative selling agencies are being organized and will be ready for business when the time comes for marketing the crops. In this respect some ideas will be carried out by men who have had experience in sales of this kind, who will make it a success, and acknowledge no other results. Already nation wide rating has been obtained, carrying advertisements of our commodities all over the country. A number of new residences are being built. Mr. E. F. Fagerstrom is building an up to date bungalow and will equip it with all the modern conveniences—light, water, etc. It is situated on his choice tract on the lower highway, more locally known as Thurston drive; so named after one of the early settlers, Mr. Thurston Grimm. Frank Yergene and his son Arthur, are building fine residences on their forty south of town. Ellery Lamaroux, a new comer west of town, is digging a well and building on his place. We do not know at this writing just the kind of residence is going up on his place, but as he is an experienced builder and carpenter, we think it will be quite up to date. Mr. Prater, newcomer east of Irrigon, has built himself a small house and is arranging to improve his property. Mr. C. E. Glasgow, secretary-treasurer of the Farm bureau, is making various improvements on his River View farm. It would seem he intended to keep ahead of the rest of the Irrigon people.

Dayton Lameroux, east of Irrigon on the Columbia highway, is also getting ready to build on his place. Mr. P. C. Bishop has retired from the ranch work and has rented his place to Mr. Guy McClasky of Portland, who formerly lived here, and says there is no place like Irrigon. In short, the Irrigon people are too busy to put out news for publication very often, but when not heard from it's because they are busy doing things, and have not time to talk about it. The district is sure going ahead since the government operation. Our dance is one step forward without any hesitation, and no side steps or back steps. If no word from Irrigon again in the near future, come and see us next July and August. We will give you a choice melon.

Georgette, Crepe-de-chine and Mignonette Blouses --at less than fair prices

To know that you are purchasing something at a "fair price" is a source of real satisfaction. To know that you are purchasing, however, at even less than a "fair price" is a source of greater satisfaction.

If we had to go into the market to buy Blouses of this type and character and worth, we would be obliged to pay more than we did, and in turn to sell them at a somewhat higher price. Fortunate far-in-advance contracts and our intimate association with some of the nation's foremost Blouse makers makes this low price possible.

Each of these new models bears the favored WIRTHMOR mark; always a guide-post to superior Blouse values. Eight new styles and none can be duplicated. Choice at $5.00
