Trade Between United States and Latin America Passing Through Crisis.

By JOHN BARRETT, Pan-American Union.

Trade between the United States and Latin America is passing through the most severe crisis it ever has faced. The foundation of the trouble is the exchange situation, which is most unfavorable to Latin America and...

Naturally, Germany, Great Britain, France, Spain, Belgium and Japan are taking advantage of this situation to the disadvantage of the United States.

The present crisis is due almost entirely to after war speculation in the export and import trade, such as has characterized the entire world, and it should not be held in any way against the real value to the United States of Pan-American commerce...

Weak-Kneed Officials Are Destroying the Local Self-Governments.

By J. FOSTER SYMES, U. S. District Attorney for Colorado.

One does not have to be connected with the legal department of the United States government for a great length of time to be impressed with the extent of federal jurisdiction and the powers exercised from Washington over the health, safety, business and morals of the average citizen.

Frightened citizens are too wont to call for outside help, not only to preserve law and order, but to regulate the habits of their fellowmen to the utmost degree. If the village constable will not maintain order, it inevitably follows that the state and national government will, and when this happens, the authority of the smaller political units is permanently crippled.

Weak-kneed local officials are causing this destruction of local self-government, which is going on today, by shirking their public duties and leaving them for the authorities of the larger jurisdiction to perform.

BALLYHOOGING For Our Own Cause

Every once in awhile some new concern bobs up, and as a motto to attach on their goods they have printed, "Not Advertised." And we want to say to you right now that they do not stay in business long.

We have never been charged with trying to sell more advertising space to a customer than we really thought was required to give him satisfactory results, and the chief reason we do this is because we are going to stay right here in Heppner and keep right on going business at the old stand.

Not just the same, we are also going to keep readers of the Herald reading among themselves as much as possible, and if you have an article you wish to dispose of, advertise it in the Herald, either "classified" or "display" and we can assure you that our readers will know you have something for sale.

Not just the same, we are also going to keep readers of the Herald reading among themselves as much as possible, and if you have an article you wish to dispose of, advertise it in the Herald, either "classified" or "display" and we can assure you that our readers will know you have something for sale.

Your business is our business—when it comes to giving publicity, and we are there and coming back in our line. We are for you stronger than a spoonful of carbolic acid, and we don't need to preach about our fairness, as you know, and we know and everybody else knows, that the man or concern who is not fair is not in business long.

Evidently Did Not Fear Washington.

David Burns owned the farm on which the executive mansion and many department buildings now stand at Washington, a thifty Scot, who objected to giving the land for Lafayette square. When Washington realized that he would have been a poor tobacco raiser had the federal government not chosen his farm, he replied that but for a fortunate marriage Washington would have been an ordinary surgeon, but Washington got the land he wanted.

Of course you know the reason why millions of men like Lucky Strike Cigarette — because it's roasted which seals in the real Burley taste

TELLS OF EXPERIENCES AT COUNTY FAIR

C. H. Dillabaugh, prominent farmer and stockman of the Boardman project, and who represented that community single handed at the recent Morrow county fair writes an interesting description of his experiences on the trip coming over and while attending the fair. While the letter is rather lengthy to be published in full, that part telling of the trip over is interesting. The Irrigon and Boardman exhibits were brought over on two trucks and in addition to the fruits, vegetables etc., were two calves, a coop of chickens, and a Duroc Red pig, belonging to Mr. Dillabaugh's grandson which, by the way, was the only school pig club porker to be exhibited.

With Dale Watkins driving the big truck against time the pig, calf and chicken crates danced many a jig over the chuck holes and finally the pig busted his crate and made himself at home among the fruit and vegetable exhibits.

After finally landing his party in the exhibit hall, Mr. Dillabaugh continues:

Our exhibits placed, we anxiously watched to see what the South end of the county was going to put up against our exhibits, but we looked in vain, as not a farmer appeared the first day. The second day a bill-gent, his wife and two kids arrived, also four buck sheep. There was absolutely no other stock furnished by the South end of the county. It was well that Mrs. Reik took a Jersey calf along to compete with her six months old Jersey bull calf, which she sold for $100 after winning a 1st prize of $5.

As not a farmer brought in anything in the way of vegetables or fruit we were awarded a goodly number of ribbons. The number which Irrigon won was so great I cannot remember it. Mrs. Reik alone carried home enough blue ribbons to make a good sized garment with a few red ones for trimming.

There were a few vegetables and a little fruit brought in in market baskets from the gardens about town though only a small portion of that was put in competition but used to fill up space.

Our County School Superintendent was sadly disappointed when told that the Boardman winning teams would not be there, and as the package by express did not reach the fair building until evening of the first day, and not knowing what it contained she had a very unpleasant day as the other school districts excepting Heppner school had done even less than Boardman. After this package arrived and was found to contain several samples of sewing, she brightened considerably and began to rearrange her booths so as to display the goods to the best possible advantage. Boardman also sent four samples of baking. In all they received a nice lot of ribbons and considerable prize money. Mrs. Shurte made the best possible out of what was sent her and was liberal with the awards. The ladies of Heppner had a very fine display of fancy work so that the few ribbons awarded on the goods in this line entrusted to me were well earned. Aside from the ladies fancy work and a very fine display of grain and a few fleeces of wool, the South end of the county had nothing on exhibition for us to compete against. It was Boardman against Irrigon.

I can heartily thank every member of the fair management, including the lady, who so kindly helped me enter the fancy work, with which I was not familiar, for fair treatment and every attention necessary. Also the ladies who had charge of the Heppner fancy work as they were of considerable assistance to me.

Yours for a much better County fair with all parts of the county taking part and to be held in the north end of the county one year in three, or a bigger and better North Morrow County community fair with every thing consigned to their respective homes as soon as the fair is over.

CECIL

Mrs. Hazel Logan, of Fourmile, arrived in Cecil Sunday after spending a few days in Ione.

Mrs. Weltha Combest was visiting at the home of Mrs. Everett Logan, at Fairview Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Duncan and daughter, Mrs. Mildred, of Busy Bee ranch were callers in Cecil Saturday. Mr. Duncan, Cecil's apiarist, is a very busy man these days filling his numerous orders for fine honey. R. E. has sold two truck loads of honey in the Lexington district during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Knipfel and children, of Morgan, were visitors in Cecil Saturday.

Miss Eleanor Furney, of Astoria, arrived in Cecil Saturday and has taken up her duties as teacher in the Cecil school. Miss Furney is making her home with Mrs. Jack Hynd, at Butterby Flats. Eleven pupils were enrolled during the week.

Miss E. Palmateer, of Hood River, arrived in Cecil Sunday to take up her school at Fourmile for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Miller, of Highview, were calling on friends at the Willows on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stender, of Sel-domaeen, were doing business in Cecil Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Ross, of Wasco, were calling on Mrs. L. L. Funk at Morris Siding Monday.

E. Wright, of Estacada, Oregon, has been visiting his brother-in-law, Arthur Turer, for a few days. Mr. Wright is trying to locate some good wheat land and seems very much impressed with what he has seen in Morrow county.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace VanSchoiack and children who have been visiting around Heppner for several weeks spent Tuesday and Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. George Krebs at the Last Camp before leaving for their home at Cottage Grove.

L. and B. Montague, leading lights of Arlington accompanied by George Shane, honored Cecil with a short stay Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Henriksen, of Willow creek ranch, left on the local Thursday for Portland where they will visit for some time.

Jack Hynd landed in Cecil Monday after an absence of several weeks. Jack is disgusted with pastures in Montana, slow stock trains to Chicago and above all the price he got for his sheep. No place so good as Oregon, says Jack.

The many friends of Miss Hazel Winter extend their best wishes to her on her recent marriage to Mr. Herbert O'Brien. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents in Yakima, Washington, September 19th. The newly weds are now making their home at 545 3rd St. South Portland.

We are informed that J. W. Osborn has sold his Shady Dell ranches in Fourmile, during the week to Maukin Brothers, of Ione, who, we understand, will take possession at once. Cecilites extend the hand of friendship and welcome to the newcomers.

Aldrich's Critic.

"As time went on," says Ferris Greenslet of Thomas Bailey Aldrich, "he was growing increasingly fastidious in the revision of his prose, and in the end he smoothed and tied it with the same loving, lingering care that he bestowed upon his poems. As he wrote in one of his letters: 'There is only one critic I stand greatly in dread of; he becomes keener and more exacting every month; he is getting to be a dreadful fellow for me, and his name is T. B. Aldrich. There is no let up.'"
