Stories of Great Scouts

By Elmo Scott Watson

DANIEL BOONE, THE GREAT KENTUCKIAN

Daniel Boone was the son of Quaker parents who lived in Pennsylvania. Although the principal doctrine in the Quaker creed is that man must not kill, Daniel departed from the faith of his fathers early and he became one of the greatest Indian fighters in American history.

When Boone was eighteen his parents moved to North Carolina and in the Yadkin valley of that state, young Boone became an expert woodsman and hunter. Attracted by the tales of a hunter who had crossed the Appalachians into the unknown Kentucky country, Boone visited the Blue Grass state several times until he finally decided to make that country his home. In 1775 he established Boonesborough, the first outpost of civilization in the "Dark and Bloody Ground," as Kentucky was called because it was a battleground for many tribes of Indians.

Boone's adventures with the Indians in his new home were innumerable. In 1778 he was captured by the Shawnees, who admired the scout's courage so much that he was not put to death. Instead Chief Black Fish adopted him, giving him the name of Big Turtle—rather an inappropriate title for a man so active. Boone pretended to be well pleased with his captivity and after several months the watchfulness of the savages relaxed. Then he made his escape.

Several years later this same band of Shawnees came to Boonesborough to kidnap their former captive. They found Boone in a little shanty used for drying tobacco.

"Now Boone, we got you," said the Indians. "You no get-away this time." "Yes, you have me but I am glad to go with you," replied the scout, "but I want my friends to have some of this tobacco."

He gathered up a number of the driest leaves and, unseen by the Indians, crushed them in his hands. Before they could move, he threw the powdered tobacco into their eyes. As the blinded savages rolled on the floor howling and digging at their eyes, the former "Big Turtle" showed unexpected speed and was far up the trail to the fort before they could pursue him.

In his later years Boone was cheated out of the rich Kentucky lands he had fought so hard to win and he migrated to Missouri, becoming a hunter once more. He died there in 1820 at the age of eighty-six. A quarter of a century later Kentucky paid him belated honor by removing his body to the capital of the state and today Daniel Boone sleeps in the land where he won fame as a pioneer and scout.

All Due to the Women.

In a lecture before the Royal Institute, Prof. Arthur Keith, an eminent biologist, gave the credit for American success to the women who came over with the Pilgrim fathers. The fact that these Englishmen brought their wives with them is responsible for the remarkably sturdy condition of the American people; whereas the Spaniards who went into Central and South America left their wives behind, and the result is a hybrid race which is not the equal of the original Iberian.

RUDOLPH FORSTER

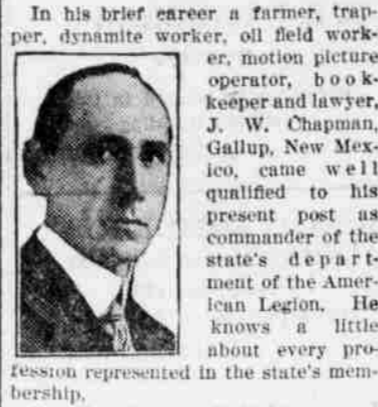

Under the new executive reorganization, there is a provision for an office of "assistant to the President." Rudolf Forster, executive clerk at the White House, is being considered as a possible assistant. Mr. Forster has been the President's right-hand man through several administrations, and his familiarity with the routine work of the executive establishment makes him especially well qualified for the position.

The Uninformed.

At the height of the Derby fever in London two men were arguing on a literary subject on the top of an omnibus: "Well," said one, "John puts 'Beak House' first and 'Martin Chuzzlewit' second." A hoarse voice interrupted from the omnibus, "Gentlemen," it said, "I don't know your pal John, but you're bein' had. There's no such horses runnin'."

WELL POSTED LEGION MAN

Commander of Department of New Mexico Knows About Professions Represented in Membership.

In his brief career a farmer, trapper, dynamite worker, oil field worker, motion picture operator, book-keeper and lawyer, J. W. Chapman, Gallup, New Mexico, came well qualified to his present post as commander of the department of the American Legion. He knows a little about every profession represented in the state's membership.

Covering all of the United States and most of Mexico in his travels, Mr. Chapman settled down to the practice of law in New Mexico just before America entered the World War. When she did, he volunteered as a mechanic and chauffeur and spent two months in an army motor shop. Then he was transferred to a balloon school, but before he could get acquainted with the blimps they moved him again, this time to the company's personnel headquarters. He was in an officers' training camp when the armistice came.

TITLES OF SOME NOTABLES

General Douglas Haig, "Earl and Field Marshal"; Beatty, "Admiral of the Fleet."

Decorations and titles won by distinguished British and Canadian guests at the third annual convention of the American Legion in Kansas City, October 31, November 1 and 2, are testimony of their notable records during the World War.

General Douglas Haig bears the titles of earl and field marshal and has the right to use the following letters, indicating decorations, after his name: "K. T., G. C. B., O. M., G. C. V. O., K. C. I. E."

Admiral Beatty's official designation is "Admiral of the Fleet, the Right Honorable Earl Beatty, G. C. B., O. M., G. C. V. O., D. S. O."

The correct manner to address the commander of the Canadian corps in France is "Gen. Sir William Currie, G. C. M. G., K. C. B., K. C. M. G., C. B., Principal of McGill university."

SWALE WAS A DISHWASHER

Commander of Legion's Washington Department Licked Kitchen Boss, Then Tock His Job.

The story of how a fist fight made him a dishwasher is told by Thomas W. Swale, commander of the American Legion's department of the state of Washington.

While the down-trodden bookkeeper of a Great Northern construction gang, Swale was cubed into an encounter with the gang's bully, who held the rank of camp commander of the poos and pans. The fight became rough, the bookkeeper knocked out the dishwasher and the foreman forthwith made up for lack of personnel by assigning Swale to wash the dishes until the beaten kitchen mechanic could return from the hospital.

After gaining an education, Swale, at twenty-three years and 200 pounds, was the "baby of the Washington legislature," serving for two terms. During the war he served in the army intelligence section in charge of I. W. W. investigations in the Pacific Northwest. He is a practicing lawyer in Seattle, Wash.

The Verb Salvage.

The verb "to salvage" did not pass out of existence with the disbanding of the A. E. F. Its synonym, "to man-age," is still recognized as part of the language of Legionnaires. George R. Anderson post of the American Legion at Ardmore, Okla., recently "salvaged" a library of 2,000 volumes. As in the army days when anything from a mess kit to a five-ton truck might have been acquired mysteriously with the simple explanation "we managed for it" or the equally expressive "we salvaged it," the post acquired the library. During the war the people of Ardmore had collected a large number of books to be shipped to army camps for use of soldiers. But after the volumes were collected and boxed they were never shipped. They were discovered recently in a store-room by a member of the Legion post and it did not take long to salvage them.

MAKES HOSE WEAR

Proper Care, Expert Says, V Save Much Expense.

One-Half Size Larger Than Regular Size Is Advised; Wear Only Once Before Washing.

How two pairs of silk hose may be made to last an incredibly long time if the wearer will take the care of them that the average motorist gives his automobile tires, is explained as follows by the silk stocking expert:

When the motorist buys a tire he must necessarily pick out the right size, or it would not fit his rim. He knows, too, that if he gets a size slightly larger, called an "oversize tire," his car will not only ride easier, but the tire will last longer.

The same rule is the first one to follow when silk hose are purchased. If hosiery is bought one-half size larger than one wears in cotton or lisle, the wearing quality is greatly increased.

A little sewing is the next precaution to take. Each individual wears out his stockings in a particular place. Some invariably get a hole in the right large toe, while others suffer with holes in the heel or on the bottom of the sock first. Because of a little 25-cent hole or "run," $5 worth of silk stocking is laid aside. The idea is, then, to remedy, or prevent, this 25-cent hole before it appears.

With ordinary sewing silk weave or darn around and over the area where the hole usually appears. This will reinforce the silk in this place so that the hole cannot get a start.

"Runs," or "Jacob's ladders," can also be prevented in the stocking so that one gets his money's worth out of the pair. At the top of the stocking, below the hem, run a sewing machine stitch completely around, and fasten the garters above this stitch. Another precaution against the dreaded run is unusual care in putting on the stocking. It should be rolled down to and including the heel. The toe of the stocking then should be put over the foot, and the rest then worked easily over the heel. This method of putting on the stocking prevents the nail of the toe from accidentally catching a thread.

The expert further contends that the silk stockings should be worn only once before being washed.

The drying of silk stockings is one of the most important steps affecting their longevity. If the stockings are colored they should be placed between two bath towels and allowed to dry slowly.

Stockings should never be hung in the sun or in a bright light at the window to dry.—Illustrated World.

CURTAINS PLEASING TO EYE

Side Draperies Should Be of Tints of Gayly Hued Material in Keeping With Finish.

Side draperies on a window tend to shut out both light and air, so they really are not desirable. A room, especially a colonial room, done in soft colors calls for a note of bright color near the window. The newest way to obtain this without the use of over-draperies is to make your curtains of a plain net and then embroider them in gayly colored wool. Bright, old-fashioned flowers tend themselves to this purpose.

If you have never tried embroidering with coarse wool you will be surprised to see how quickly the flowers grow under your fingers. A good way to get a design is to adopt one from a piece of chintz you happen to fancy. You can get both the outline and the coloring from chintz or cretonne. Another way to get a note of color in your curtains is to select a net with a large design and outline the figures in colored wool. If the room is blue and white get a white net with black design in it and outline the blocks in blue wool. Or if the room is done in soft wood tones of brown and tan, you can use cream net and orange wool. Cream net and green wool make another charming combination.

BLACK VELVET FALL BONNET

The big hats with stiff brims are rather awkward in a crowd, so the flapping brim has come to take its place. This hat is of black velvet trimmed with two calla lilies. The checkered blouse goes very well with the hat.

No Stairs or Elevators. Apartment houses have been constructed in Seattle which have no stairs or elevators, the ramp system being used, and it is said to meet with entire satisfaction from every standpoint. Hot water is secured by burning the refuse of the house in incinerators. The ramp is a series of gradual inner inclines from one floor to another.
