J. S. Craig, who operates a dairy ranch near Ione with a herd of mighty well bred Jerseys, was in town Saturday accompanied by his two sons. Mr. Craig is an enthusiastic football and baseball fan and was anxiously awaiting news from Saturday's big conference games.

Willard Herren, Oscar Minor, W. L. McCaleb and some others returned last week from a hunting trip on Ditch creek bringing home the bacon in the form of some excellent venison. Mr. Herren knows how to pick out the young, fat bucks from which come the tender juicy steaks, and he made no mistake in his selection this trip. We know, for a big hunk of the steak came our way.

Tobin & Pierce are making good headway with the new bridges in this city and are praying for a few more weeks of the present weather which most all Heppnerites know they are pretty sure to get. While excavating for foundation in the creek bed at the lower end of Main street last week, they sunk a shift some eight feet below the water level where they unearthed a wagon and a job lot of other debris which had probably been deposited there and buried during the flood. Willow creek has had many changes since the first white man arrived on its banks.

Rev. Dr. George B. Van Waters conducted services in the Episcopal church last Sunday morning. Mrs. George Biller, a noted church worker of New York City, spoke in the evening on Women's Work in the Church.

CECIL

Cecil Ahalt who has been working around Cecil for several months left on Tuesday for California where he intends to visit friends during his vacation.

The "muyor" has once more returned home and settled down to work in earnest. The Deputy, A. Henriksen is still busy on the war-path buying sheep and we heard him say that he now owned the best sheep in the states, but we excuse the extravagant language for we know he meant Morrow county. Then we heard a friend advising him that if he valued his life, not to repeat such a sheep story in Jack Hynd's company, or the services of Constable John would be wanted at once.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Duncan and daughter, Miss Mildred, of Busy Bee ranch, were visiting around Cecil Saturday. R. E. was wearing a big smile and was walking on air at the same time. His friends could not realize that it was the sedate Roy. On making inquiries we found that the enjoyed feelings were not caused by moonshine, but by the fact that R. E. Duncan's bees could make honey that carried first prize on the best exhibit in the State Fair, after only being able to carry second in his county town, which certainly proves a prophet has no honor in his own country.

Miss Olive Logan, of Portland, arrived in Cecil Monday and will visit with her brother, Leon Logan at Fourmile.

Mr. and Mrs. George Henriksen, of Strawberry ranch, were calling on their Cecil friends Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Farnsworth, of Rhea were looking up their Cecil friends Wednesday.

Mrs. Floyd Tolleson and little son Floyd Jr., who have been on the sick list since returning from an eastern trip, are both reported much better this morning.

George Dykstra, who has forgotten a bookful about raising potatoes but is still an expert at the job, left a sample of the big fellows at this office the other day. Some of the spuds are nearly a foot long and some were selected, not only for their size but also for their peculiar shapes and angles. Some of them make a fellow wonder what sort of mountain dew uncle George used to irrigate them with.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Wilson, of Pieshell, of Montana, drove into Heppner Wednesday evening and surprised Mr. and Mrs. Gay M. Anderson with a most enjoyable visit. Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Anderson being sisters. They went on Friday to Goldendale, Washington, for a visit with Mr. Wilson's parents and will later visit Mrs. Wilson's family at Washougal. The Wilsons recently drove from Omaha, Nebraska, stopping for a few days at their Montana home, where he is engaged in the stock business. The lure of the road was too strong however, and they concluded to taper off their trip with a jaunt to the Pacific coast.

EVERYONE WILL HAVE A SHEEP-SKIN BYE AND BYE

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, October 25.—Will college degrees ever become as common as motor car licenses?

One serious worker in the field of education thinks so. He is Colin V. Dymont, dean of the college of literature, science and the arts at the University of Oregon. "The day is not far away," he predicts, "when a college education will be as indispensable in the family economy as an automobile is now."

"Why not?" he asks, "since, exclusive of time, they cost nearly the same."

"I think," he continues, "we now begin looking ahead to the day when three quarters of all the high school seniors in Oregon will go to college."
