Whenever we begin to think we feel like we are going to have an attack of the "blues," we slip her over into reverse and pat ourself on the back for being able to keep out of jail and have nothing in common with the income tax man.

A subscriber writes in that his son, is working his way through college. But the subscriber says that the son is going to lose his job because he is the one who is being worked.

All the goose grease that isn't mixed into the gravy next week at the Thanksgiving dinner, will be available for croup, coughs, colds, exposed knee caps, etc., after the big feed. Sometimes we think we'd like to be a little dab of goose grease—if applied according to our directions.

When money was plentiful, we could buy as much as we wanted, and whatever we wanted, and just give a knowing wink to the credit man. Now, when a dollar looks as big as the Niagara Falls—though it doesn't make as much noise—they ask us to use the dollar before we carry the goods away. But death still has its sting.

The railroad men struck out. 'Too much individual playing, too little team work. They still contend that the owners are demanding too much for their share of the series and if the umpires would give them a square deal they'd win yet. Too many men want to hit a home run every time they go to bat.

An Iowa officer who had a large number of teddy bears, claimed to have been stolen, let a few of them get away a few days ago and now he's asking for a search warrant that can be used anywhere in the state. Iowa women, beware.

With uncle Sam finally admitting that beer could be used by the sick, some of the state officers agreeing that wine is a necessity, and with the bootleggers still enjoying a liberal patronage, Andy Volstead don't seem to be able to claim a decisive victory.

Some people wont spend as much time getting ready for Thanksgiving as they will spend getting over it. But it's spent for a good cause anyway.

Still—and that word is mighty expressive—it wont be as easy for the average bar hound to get his Christmas cheer this season, as it was in the olden days when it sold for 50 cents a pint—and you didn't have to go through seven back stairways to get it. At present prices a man can take his choice between a gallon of hard likker or a Ford.
