WHERE PROSPERITY STARTS

In the fall of 1920, prices paid to farmers Tortheir products entered a period of drastic decline. From then until a few months ago the industrial depression was due largely to the at Cecil on Sunday. chrunken purchasing power of the American farmer.

Four months ago the values of crops were calculated by the department of Agriculture at eight billions dollars less than two years before.

While the farmers income was shrinking, the prices of the manufactured articles he needed did not drop in proportion. The farmer could not afford to sell eight bushels of grain to pay eight dollars for pair of shoes. He sold the wheat because he had to but he found that he could get along. comehow, without the shoes. In fact he got along for a year or so without buying any thing.

Slowly but surely the wide difference between the prices of farm products and of merchandise the farmer buys is being wiped out by the law of supply and demand is improving. The backbone of our prosperity is found in the fertility out before do ginany further damage April, 1922, upon the judgment and of our soil. We are able to produce, more than any other nation, a wide variety of the things the world needs. When our farmers are given a fair return on their investmet and labor, they insure to the nation as a whole a fair degree of prosperity.

The first and most interesting sign of better business is that prices paid to the farmer are going up.

As crop figures begin to come from the Argentine and Australia and from Canada it becomes clear that in none of these countries will the yield approach earlier estimates.

The result is that while May when options were selling at $1.12 a buin the middle of last October, they and some as high as $1.47 by the 1st. of March.

Cotton too, has a substantial return Corn and hogs have appreciated steadily sheep and wool are bringing much better prices, and so are cutile in spile of the fact that a few months and publical orators were prediction that the packers would do everything in their power to keep prices down.

With grains and other farm: products relling at their present levels, farmers will realize much more from their 1922 crops than they could have expected when this year began. In furn, they will be better customers for things, which in their period o adversity, the refused to buy,

BASEBALL ACTIVITIES AT TONE The first real work out of the season was held here host Sunday with everybody showing a lot of interest and pep. The team all around looks good, and Manager Sperry is very much pleased over the prospects.

The pitching staff being much stronger this year than usual, with two pichters rounding into shape. Broughton, the new man, is showing up exceptionally good, while we have with us again the old reliable "Hocky," star southpaw pitcher of last season, and his first work-out shows that he still has the old book on the ball. Butch at first looks good with a lot of pep and fight, and will have no trouble boiding thatpost. tion, while Warner at third shows that he is still capable of bolding that sack. Arch will muzzl the home plate, and you'd better duck when he starts that threw to second.
